AN EXPECTANT SCENE

Lake Stafford in Novato was covered yesterday afternoon by swirling, wind-blown clouds, residue of the previous night's storm. And Stafford Lake County Park across the water was being readied for its April 29 debut. Opening day ceremonies — making completion of Phase One of the park — will be held near the lake at 12:30 p.m. The park, which will be operated by the Marin County Parks and Recreation Department, is a primary water supply of the North Marin County Water District. After Sunday's rain, Stafford Lake was at 80 per cent of capaicty.

N. Viets Crumbling Defenses Of Kontum

Enemy Gaining Ground In Central Highlands

SAIGON (UPI) — North Vietnamese infantrymen supported by artillery and tanks outflanked the remaining South Vietnamese forward defenses in the Central Highlands today and poured down Highway 14 toward the provincial capital of Kontum, the main objective of their new drive.

Mileslong streams of refugees moved ahead of them toward Kontum, normally a town of 27,000 persons but now swollen with countless refugees hoping to fly to Pleiku, 25 miles to the south, or to Saigon, 230 miles further south. Mortar rounds hit the Kontum airfield today, wounding three children and damaging an Air Vietnam airliner and a U.S. C130 supply plane.

The Communists also renewed their offensive in the coastal highlands region of South Vietnam today, opening fire on a string of government bases along Highway 1 in Binh Dinh province 80 miles east of the Kontum drive. They surrounded one of the bases. A U.S. destroyer was firing on the Communists from offshore in the South China Sea.

Field reports said a battalion-sized outpost (665) men) known as Salem Combat Base 30 miles north of Qui Nhon was surrounded late tonight and a U.S. destroyer began pounding the attackers. A battalion of reinforcements was stalled 800 yards from the base.

Field dispatches said the Communist drive so far had overrun at least nine government support bases in the highlands region and bypassed at least five despite hundreds of tons of bombs dropped there by B52s and strikes by fighter-bombers and helicopter gunships.

Field dispatches earlier reported the fall of Dak To, another major town 25 miles north of Kontum, but later dispatches today said a "Black Thai," Lt. Col Lo Van Bao, commander of a 650-man regional battalion there, refused orders to abandon Dak To and radioed that he would fight to the death though hopelessly surrounded and outnumbered.

Bao, whose troops are largely local militiamen, is called a "Black Thai" because that ethnic group has dark complexions and wears black pajamas favored by the North Vietnamese.

U.S. fighter-bombers today knocked out a bridge on Highway 14 five miles south of Dak To, but military sources expressed doubt one blown bridge would halt the North Vietnamese drive that a Pentagon spokesman described Monday as the opening of a long-expected general offensive in the highlands.

UPI reporter Matt Franjola flew today over the area by helicopter and reported the South Vietnamese troops appeared to be regrouping at Artillery Base Bravo, which blocks the highway just north of the village of Vo Dinh, 12 miles north of Kontum.

Franjola said a Communist force of 4,000 men, including artillery and tanks, was about six miles north of Bravo at sundown today. There were unconfirmed reports that four

Astronauts Slip Away To Earth

SPACE CENTER, Houston (UPI) —Apollo 16's astronauts escaped the dominance of the moon's gravity today and sped faster and faster toward Earth with a treasury of rocks that scientists think may include long-sought pieces of the primitive lunar crust.

John W. Young, Thomas K. Mattingly and Charles M. Duke showed the bright, gray-white moon receding behind them during an early morning impromptu telecast. They were reported on target for a splashdown in the Pacific Ocean Thursday afternoon.

Young and Duke walked on the moon, but today was Mattingly's day. His schedule called for an hour-long spacewalk to retrieve 6,500 feet of film from two mapping cameras in the spaceship's moon observatory.

The pilots refined their course toward the home planet with a bief burst from the spaceship's small control rockets at 11:29 a.m. EST.

The three astronauts rocketed out of moon orbit Monday night and, with that critical maneuver behind them, reported their morale had shot up "a couple of hundred per cent." They entered the pull of Earth's gravity at 9:36 a.m. EST when they were 216,001 miles out and heading home at about 2,900 miles per hour.

"I'll tell you, we can hardly wait," said Young, veteran commander of the mission that went from near-failure to success in five days.

Spaceflight meteorologists reported that weather in the landing area 1,400 miles south of Honolulu was expected to be satisfactory at 2:44 p.m. Thursday.

Duke buoyed the hopes of geologists when he reported the 245-pound collection of moon rocks stowed in Casper did not seem to contain volcanic samples. Instead, the rocks appeared to be older, beat up specimens that could unlock some of the moon's remaining mysteries.

At that time, Apollo 16 was 43,000 miles from the moon and Young reported, "at arm's distance, if you cup your hands around it, its about as big as a 50-cent piece."

Before leaving lunar orbit, the astronauts cast off the ascent section of their lunar module Orion. But they failed to set a critical switch and the spacecraft tumbled out of control, ruining a chance to crash it near the Apollo 16 landing site. The impact was to have created

Chief Frank Christ, Wife Leaving Marin

Acting Sausalito Fire Chief Frank Christ announced today he will leave his $18,744-a-year post to move to Siskiyou County next month.

Last night his wife, Delta, resigned, effective immediately, from the Sausalito School District board to which she was elected in 1970. Her resignation, coupled with the recent resignation of trustee Jerry L. Whitcomb, leaves two vacancies on the five-member board.

The 47-year-old Christ, who has been with the Sausalito department since 1961, said the family plans to move to a 20-acre ranch they own near the town of Etna sometime next month. His resignation, submitted yesterday to City Mgr. Albert St. Cyr, will become effective May 7.

The acting chief, appointed to the job in February when Chief Charles E. Masten left to become fire chief of El Monte, Los Angeles County, worked for the Mill Valley Fire Department for 10 years before coming to Sausalito. He was appointed assistant Sausalito chief in 1964.

St. Cyr could not be reached to say whether the city would appoint another acting chief or wait until the city council —now reviewing applicants for the post —selects a permanent fire chief.

The 45-year-old Mrs. Christ, elected to the school board in a June 1970 recall which ousted two trustees, has been board chairman for the past year.

She is a member of the Sausalito Women's Club and her husband is a member of the Sausalito Lions Club and the Native Sons of the Golden West.

Four of the couple's five sons will join them in the move to Siskiyou.

Secret Trip To Moscow By Kissinger

WASHINGTON (UPI) —The White House revealed today that Presidential Adviser Henry A. Kissinger made a secret visit to Moscow to confer with Soviet leaders about President Nixon's forthcoming trip and the new fighting in Vietnam.

"We are at the moment in a very delicate phase of international relations," Kissinger told reporters in defending the secrecy of the visit, which took place between last Thursday and Monday.

With Nixon's trip only a month away, Kissinger said, "one purpose of my going was to put before the Soviet leaders the considerations of the President on the major problems."

Kissinger dispelled speculation that Nixon's visit might be cancelled because of strain between the United States and the Soviet Union over U.S. bombing of North Vietnam.

After a meeting with Nixon and Secretary of State William P. Rogers, Kissinger said, the decision was made that he should travel to Moscow for personal direct exchanges.

Kissinger said Nixon "has been directly in touch with Brezhnev on important international questions for several years." He said Nixon's contact with Soviet leaders has been through normal correspondence and not by use of the "hot line."

Kissinger said he flew both ways by military plane. The disclosure of his Moscow visit recalled his 12 secret missions to Paris for private negotiations with North Vietnamese delegates and his secret trip to Peking to arrange Nixon's China visit.

White House Press Secretary Ronald L. Ziegler announced the visit in a simultaneous announcement with Moscow.

He said that by agreement with the Soviet leaders, it was decided "neither side would reveal the subject of the talks."

Asked whether the Vietnam crisis was the "principal reason" for the visit, Kissinger declined to answer directly but he said the "whole range of Soviet-American relations was discussed" including the most important issues.

He made it plain that the heavy fighting in Vietnam that has caused new tensions between the United States and Soviet Union was high on the agenda.

Tiburon Has Mayor; Recount Is Settled

The Tiburon City Council last night elected Councilman Albert H. Sennett mayor after seating attorney Allan N. Littman, victor in yesterday's recount. Littman was named vice mayor. (Another Tiburon City Council story, page 12.)

The recount of the April 11 election votes, requested by Anne L. Ellinwood — who had appeared to have lost to Sennett by two votes — proved her to have lost by four.

Also seated last night was freshman Councilman Albert Aramburu.

Miss Ellinwood received an ovation from a packed council chamber at last night's meeting when she answered the telephone adjacent to the council table before the new council had been seated, and told the caller, seeking recount results that she had lost.

Earlier in the day the recount had taken place in council chambers, and the phone number in the room apparently was given out as an election information phone.

"We found a terrible error in the votes," she said to the caller as the other councilmen and the audience listened, "It was a 100 per cent error." She went on to explain that she had lost by two votes in the original tally, but by four as certified by the recount committee. The applause began after she hung up.

Although the vote spread was increased by the recount to 902-898, the council adopted a resolution accepting earlier county figures showing the two vote margin because state law requires a recount vote actually change the outcome of an election before it can be certified by the council.

Miss Ellinwood said she is considering placing her name before the new council as a candidate for the planning commission.

The other member of the council to step down was mayor Denis T. Rice, who did not run for reelection.

Plan To Involve Young Voters Has Marin Origin

By BRYCE W. ANDERSON

A statewide organization to involve the new young voters in local government, with preparation during their high school careers prior to reaching the age of 18, is the brainchild of Peter C. Meyer, Marin County elections officer.

Already, Meyer has won endorsements of the Republican and Democratic State Central committees, Common Cause of California, and Frontlash. The New Voter is his name for the organization and for its official publication, one issue of which he and his wife, Patricia, already have produced.

He was to meet with the executive committee of the Marin County Chamber of Commerce and Visitors Bureau at 4 p.m. today to seek its endorsement of a pilot program in Marin County, which would involve testing a proposed course of study in local high schools and College of Marin. An exploratory meeting at the college with social studies teachers from high schools throughout Marin is scheduled next week.

"To make every voting opportunity a meaningful event.

"To open avenues of participation at local political levels.

"To provide basic education in election processes.

"To assess the implications of uninformed political action and

Retirement Announced By Keating

Veteran Marin Superior Court Judge Thomas F. Keating announced yesterday he will step down from the bench June 16.

In a letter to Gov. Ronald Reagan, who must appoint his successor, Keating said he would like to step down on that date 12 days before his 67th birthday. However, he agreed to stay on into July and August if necessary.

Keating first donned the jidicial robes more than 20 years ago after serving as a state senator from Marin from 1937 to 1951. He was a member of the San Rafael Planning Commission from 1932 to 1936.

Member of a pioneer Marin family, the judge was born in Sausalito and attended local schools before taking his law degree from the University of California in 1931.

Upon graduation, he joined the San Rafael firm of Freitas, Duffy and Keating.

His parents were also involved in Marin law as sheriffs. His father was sheriff from 1911 until his death in 1929, then his mother took over for two years.

Keating is a former chairman of the United Crusade in Marin and has been active in the boy scouts and conservation movements.

He was for 14 years a member of the Senate Fish and Game Committee, served on the Senate Rules Committee and was chairman of the Senate Judiciary Committee.

George Sanders Found Dead In Spain

BARCELONA, Spain (UPI) — Actor George Sanders, suave sophisticate of the movies, was found dead Tuesday in a hotel room at a seaside resort near Barcelona, the official Spanish news agency Cifra said.

Cifra said the 65-year-old actor's body was found in a room of the Rey Don Jaime hotel at Casteldelfels. He died from an overdose of a "pharmaceutical product," Cifra said.

Younger Opens Teen News Door

By DAVID DIETZ

State Atty. Gen. Evelle J. Younger issued an opinion yesterday that upheld access by newsmen to information dealing with juvenile detentions.

The opinion, which sought to clarify a 1971 state Supreme Court ruling, said state law does not ban newsmen from access to detention records or from attending juvenile court hearings.

As a result of the 1971 court ruling, Judge Joseph G. Wilson of Marin Superior Court ordered county law enforcement officials to withhold the identities of persons under 18 who are detained or cited for a crime.

The Supreme Court, in the case of TNG vs. California, had said Section 827 of the state Welfare and Institutions Code requires police to obtain permission of the juveniel court before releasing information to a third party.

Under this section, the court said further, police records come under control of the juvenile court, where they are confidential under state law.

In rebuttal, the California Newspaper Publishers Association has argued, among other things, that Section 827 refers only to police records when a case has gone to juvenile court and the court has incorporated them into the juvenile court file.

Judge Wilson told the Independent-Journal today he would stand by his order, yesterday's opinion by the attorney general's office notwithstanding. "I have to go by what the Supreme Court said," he remarked.

All police department officials reached in Marin told the Independent-Journal they would continue to obey Judge Wilson's order until a clarification was made.

In Sonoma County, where police agencies have abided by a similar order from the district

Secret Study Said Vietnam War Eternal

WASHINGTON (UPI) —A secret study ordered by President Nixon the day after he took office revealed that it would take up to 13.4 years to complete pacification of South Vietnam and that the Communists were capable of outlasting the Allies indefinitely.

The study was conducted by Henry A. Kissinger, Nixon's national security affairs adviser, who compiled the results in a memo entitled "Responses to National Security Study Memorandum 1."

Excerpts of the document were published for the first time this week, but today Sen. Mike Gravel, D-Alaska, was blocked by Senate Republican Whip Robert P. Griffin of Michigan in an effort to insert it into the Congressional Record.

Only four senators were present when Gravel, who read the Pentagon Papers last summer at a midnight hearing of an obscure subcommittee he heads, made his attempt.

Griffin quickly objected and said: "I don't know what the documents involve, but I think it unfortunate that the senator from Alaska would take it upon himself to declassify government documents." Griffin also said that if Gravel tried to read from his speech further, he would move to put the Senate into closed session.

"I feel that there is no information that would jeopardize the internal security of this country," Gravel told Griffin.

The Justice Department had no immediate comment on the case, which brought to mind the publication of the Pentagon Papers, the Johnson administration's study of the buildup of the Vietnam war. The Nixon administration sued to prevent newspapers from publishing the

Brief SALT Talk

HELSINKI (UPI) — U.S. and Soviet negotiators today held a brief plenary session of the Strategic Arms Limitation Talks (SALT) with expectations mounting for a partial nuclear arms agreement in time for next month's Moscow summit conference.

The meeting at the Soviet Embassy —the 120th plenary session since the SALT talks started here in the fall of 1969 — was described by conference sources as serious. It was the first full plenary session since the United States resumed bombing North Vietnam and Soviet chief delegate Vladimir S. Semenov went to Moscow for ensuing consultations.

UAW For Busing

ATLANTIC CITY, N.J. (UPI) — With only minor opposition, delegates to the United Auto Workers 23rd constitutional convention approved yesterday a resolution which gave qualified assent to the use of busing to bring quality education to all children.

The approval came shortly after Leonard Woodcock, president of the nation's second largest independent union, noted this was the first constitutional convention to be held without the later Walter P. Reuther, and said, "We still stand committed to the fight against injustice."

"Busing is not the issue . . . The issue is creating quality education for all," Woodcock said.

'Hidden' Disease

SAN FRANCISCO (UPI) — The nation's biggest "hidden" disease is high blood pressure, a painless ailment which will cut short the lives of many of the 10 million Americans who have it and don't know it, a panel of heart experts warned today.

They urged expansion of fledgling public health efforts to identify and treat the unknown half of the estimated 21 million Americans with hypertension — "one of the main causes of strokes, heart attacks and arteriosclerosis."

And they called on their fellow physicians to provide treatment for younger patients with high blood pressure rather than just advising them to "lose weight, watch your salt intake and live normally."

Bomb In Belfast

BELFAST, Northern Ireland (UPI) — Gunmen using a baby carriage filled with gelignite bombed Northern Ireland's main telephone exchange during the night then opened fire on British troops trying to evacuate 70 telephone operators and other persons from the building.

Snipers fired at troops when they arrived to try to clear persons from the telephone exchange in case there were more blasts. The soldiers fired back and hit one sniper.

The building was cleared but operators later returned to their switchboards.

Attack Stands

ATLANTA (UPI) — United Methodist Church delegates have refused to erase from the record an attack on evangelist Billy Graham as "a sort of high priest of a kind of new American folk religion."

The remarks were made Monday by Dr. Richard D. Pittinger of Huron, S.D., during a session of the two-weeks long general conference of the 11 million member denomination. Graham is a Baptist.

Pittinger described Graham as "one who wields vast influence with people in high places, who has become a sort of high priest of a kind of new American folk religion."

He said the evangelist has "on at least two occasions in my hearing made this comment on pending legislation relating to rat control in the ghetto: 'We had rats when I was a boy and we didn't ask the federal government to get rid of them for us. We got rid of those rats ourselves.'

"I submit the United Methodist Church must somehow publically disavow this kind of radical insensitivity."

Fleet Acknowledged

CAIRO (UPI) — Egypt acknowledged for the first time yesterday it has granted facilities to the Soviet fleet in the Mediterranean. It said it notified the United States in advance of its decision.

President Anwar Sadat made the announcement at a meeting with journalists and political leaders before his departure later this week to the Soviet Union, where he is expected to seek more hardware for the Egyptian war machine.

Sadat said previously that Egypt has granted facilities "that serve our interests" to the Soviets.

Trains Running

LONDON (UPI) — Railway workers across southeast England got back to work today after nearly two weeks of walkouts and disruption over pay increase demands. Officials reported commuter service "almost normal."

The railmen, mostly locomotive engineers, yielded to a court order to suspend a week-old work-to-rule to back demands for a 16 per cent pay hike. The government has offered 12.5 per cent.

Reagan Challenged

SACRAMENTO (UPI) — Rep. John M. Ashbrook has challenged Gov. Ronald Reagan to publicly debate whether President Nixon is now too liberal to merit the Republican party's renomination to a second term.

Reagan promptly rejected the challenge, declaring in a brief statement issued by his office: "I don't believe a debate with someone who by his own admission is not a serious candidate would serve any useful purpose."

Taiwan Earthquake

TAIPEI (UPI) — Four persons were killed and 11 injured last night in an earthquake that shook Taiwan for about five minutes. The victims were hurled from a commuter train in the Hualien area about 100 miles southeast of Taipei.

Planning Group Meeting Tomorrow

The Corte Madera Planning Commission, meeting tomorrow at 7:30 p.m., will continue its review of the first section of the proposed Madera del Presidio development on Highway 101 next to the Koch luggage plant.

During its last meeting on the subject, the planners heard developers plans for "Sunset Park," and neighbors complaints about the project. They began their own critique of the area, and are expected to continue Wednesday night.

USO Rake-Off Held In Vietnam

WASHINGTON (UPI) —Two former employes of the United Service Organizations claim USO workers in Vietnam made millions of dollars cheating GIs by inflated prices, a fraudulent mail order business and kickbacks.

REP. LES ASPIN
Presents charges

Rep. Les Aspin, D-Wis., Monday published the allegations in the Congressional Record, saying they "directly contradict claims by the USO that our GIs were not cheated."

Aspin's informants—both unnamed women who told stories about alleged scandal in the USO to the congressman' staff —detailed how USO concession items were overpriced by up to 400 per cent. They said one USO facility director made more than $2 million in Vietnam while earning $8,500 annually.

"If these allegations are true," Aspin said, "then the evidence is rapidly mounting that a gang of USO thieves cheated American GIs in Vietnam."

Defense Secretary Melvin R. Laird has dispatched investigators to Vietnam to aid in the probe of apparently fraudulent USO activities involving "very substantial" sums of money.

The USO is a $6 million annual operation, financed entirely by charity; it does receive some government assistance overseas in the sense that some of its recreation and social facilities for servicemen are housed in government facilities.

According to Aspin's informants, one operation headed by the director of the USO facility at Tan Son Nhut in South Vietnam offered exotic items such as crossbows through a mail order service.

However, the informant said, the pre-paid items were never sent to the GI's home in the United States and, "We were still getting letters back from GIs saying, 'Where the hell is my blowgun' or whatever it was."

The head of the mail order service received one bank statement "that had tens of thousands of dollars in it," the informant said.

Study Discloses Reason For Escalating Profits

WASHINGTON (UPI)—A confidential government study of 100 leading industries estimates that lack of competition causes the firms involved to reap bloated profits and waste billions of dollars a year through inefficient operation.

The Federal Trade Commission (FTC) study has been cited frequently by presidential hopeful Sen. George S. McGovern, D-S.D., who said the Price Commission should freeze all prices until the study is made public.

But Lawrence G. Meyer, the FTC official who directed the study, told UPI McGovern misused the statistics by interpreting from them that prices are inflated by more than $15 billion a year.

"The figures can't be used the way he is using them," Meyer said. The FTC's figures on excess profits and waste, he said, were only "rough estimates," far too inaccurate to be translated into realistic estimates to excess pricing.

Meyer declined to provide a copy of the study, but UPI obtained one from other sources. The study did not make the excess price estimates cited by McGovern, but it did provide data on estimated excess profits and waste from which the South Dakota senator computed his estimates.

The study concluded that concentrated industries—ones controlled by a few firms—not only waste more money and make more, but also adopt the "deception" of hiding some excess profits through bookkeeping ploys.

"We expect both waste and deception to be relatively more serious the higher the concentration," the study said. "When concentration is very low, the industry is competitive.

Based on this conclusion, which Meyer said was a common theory among economists since the 1930's, the FTC took the reported profit margins of 100 industries, added a figure to make up for estimated waste and hidden profits, and compared the total with 5 per cent—a figure picked as an average business profit.

Using that formula, the FTC estimated that auto makers' excess profits and waste total 9.1 per cent of every sales dollar. McGovern has used this figure to estimate that with $27.2 billion in sales, auto prices were inflated more than $2.5 billion a year.

Stereo Equipment Is Reported Stolen

A $200 stereo and amplifier were taken sometime between 9:30 a.m. Sunday and 8 a.m. yesterday from the offices of dentist J. L. Rosenberg at 1118 Irwin Street, San Rafael police reported today.

Burglars made their entry by prying a vent hole on the front of the building, police said.

Origin Of Life Held In Rocks?

MOUNTAIN VIEW (UPI)—Space Agency scientists have tested earthbound rocks that may bare some secrets of the origin of life.

The 3.4 billion-year-old rocks from a remote area of South Africa contained carbon which apparently predates the appearance of photosynthesis—thus supporting the theory of the chemical evolution of the origin of life.

Dr. Keith Kvenvolden, of the National Aeronautics and Space Administration, announced the findings Monday, but stressed that more studies were needed to make a final conclusion.

Organic carbon similar to that found in meteorites was discovered by researchers working with rocks from the lowest and oldest level of the 12 mile thick Onverwacht strata in the Barberton Mountain land of Southeastern Transvaal.

A layer of pre-cambrian rocks immediately above oldest level were virtually identical, but contained fossil evidence that its carbon was produced by early photosynthetic organisms, said Kvenvolden, a chemist at NASA's Ames Research Center.

"If the 3.4 billion-year-old ancient carbon from the lowest and oldest Onverwacht strata is, as it appears to be, of nonphotosynthetic origin, it could be either primordial and nonbiological in origin or contain the remains of those earliest pre-photosynthetic organisms," Kvenvolden said. "Further studies will be needed to determine this."

Kvenvolden conducted research on the rare rocks with Dr. J. William Schopf and Dorothy Z. Oehler of UCLA. The rocks were uncovered four years ago in the strata that has undergone only slight geological alteration since its ancient formation.

Marin Sewer Unit Meets Tomorrow

A resolution recommending that a system for reclaiming waste water be included in a proposed Southeast Marin Consolidated Sanitary Agency will be considered by directors of the Marin Municipal Water District at 1:30 p.m. tomorrow in the district office, Corte Madera.

The resolution, approved by both the advisory committee to improvement district A and environmental advisory subcommittee, calls for the district to include a "definite and real commitment" for future reuse of waste water into plans for the consolidated waste disposal system.

Humphrey, McGovern Hold Primary Keys

By U.P. INTERNATIONAL

Sens. Hubert H. Humphrey and George S. McGovern today were favored, respectively, to win the Pennsylvania and Massachusetts primaries with Sen. Edmund S. Muskie hoping for a sizeable share of delegates to keep his badly-floundering campaign alive until the Democratic National Convention.

The same-day presidential primaries in the two large eastern states hold a treasure of 239 delegate votes and the potential to ignite or cripple the campaigns of the three leading contenders for the Democratic presidential nomination.

But the outcome could also break so many ways that the three candidates might go into next week's Ohio and Indiana primaries, each claiming a share of the spoils and leaving the presidential sweepstakes every bit as confused as before the voting began.

The Pennsylvania primary is critical to the presidential ambitions of Humphrey and Muskie, running mates and political allies in 1968, now battling each other for dominance in the Democratic party's center.

They could both win.

Humphrey is favored to take the presidential preference contest, finally giving him the breakthrough he badly needs to prove that, at 61, he can still win. The former vice-president has never won a major, contested primary, although his attempts date back to 1960.

A major contender for the nomination off his one-sided win in the Wisconsin primary three weeks ago, McGovern is an almost prohibitive favorite to make it two straight in the Massachusetts' preference primary.

Labor Protection Bill For Men Clears Panel

SACRAMENTO (UPI)—The Assembly Labor Relations Committee has passed a bill extending to men protective labor provisions currently applying to women and children.

The bill by Assemblyman Willie Brown, D-San Francisco, was sent Monday to the Aways and Means Committee, which is headed by Brown, on a 5-2 vote.

The measure has been embroiled in the debate over the proposed equal rights amendment to the U.S. Constitution.

Labor has opposed the constitutional amendment because it did not preserve those working protections now applied to women and children. An attempt to tie Brown's bill to passage of the equal rights amendment failed before the Assembly approved a resolution ratifying the proposed 27th amendment.

Roselyn Brassell, a spokeswoman for Columbia Broadcasting System said the broadcasting industry objected to Brown's bill because it would control the maximum number of hours that male employes could work. She said that would stifle journalists and violate collective bargaining contracts regulating overtime.

Ford To Recall All '72 Montego, Torino Models

DETROIT (UPI)—Ford Motor Co. announced today it plans to replace the rear axles and bearings on 436,000 1972 model Mercury Montegos and Ford Torinos to ease the minds of their owners.

Ford had announced the recall of 396,000 of these vehicles April 17 to install bearing retain-er plates as a safety feature for the present axles and bearings. The new figure represents all the 1972 models sold thus far both in the United States and abroad.

A failure of the axles or bearings could result in a car's wheels falling off.

Kleindienst Probe May Not Be Over

WASHINGTON (UPI)—A new disclosure from one of President Nixon's top aides has triggered a demand that the Senate Judiciary Committee hold off a while longer on the attorney general nomination of Richard G. Kleindienst.

The aide, Peter G. Flanigan, sent a letter to the committee Monday answering questions submitted to him at the end of the panel's six-week investigation of Kleindienst, ITT and related matters.

Among other things Flanigan said Felix Rohatyn, a director of International Telephone & Telegraph, had raised the Justice Department's antitrust suit against ITT in a conversation with him. And he said he later passed Rohatyn's comments on to Kleindienst, who was assistant attorney general at the time—about one month before the Justice Department settled the ITT case out of court.

Kleindienst previously testified before the committee that he could not recall any contacts with the White House about the ITT antitrust matter.

Sen. Edward M. Kennedy, D-Mass., in response to Flanigan's comments, said:

"The conflicting statements of Mr. Flanigan and Mr. Kleindienst about the White House involvement in the settlement of the ITT case requires that both of them return to testify fully before the Judiciary Committee before the committee makes a recommendation to the Senate on this matter."

The committee is scheduled to meet later this week to tell the Senate whether it still recommends that Kleindienst be confirmed as attorney general. If it heeds Kennedy's demand that Flanigan and Kleindienst be recalled, the case could be extended indefinitely.

Planners Reject Apartment Unit

A development plan for the controversial Casa Madera apartment project near Corte Madera was rejected unanimously yesterday by the Marin County Planning Commission.

In rejecting the proposal, commissioners agreed with member Margaret B. Azevedo who labeled the project "overcrowded and oversized."

The proposal, submitted by builder Johnny Ribeiro of San Rafael, called for construction of 114 condominium apartments on an eight-acre site opposte the Cooperative Shopping Center on Tamal Vista Boulevard.

The site has been the center of controversy since last summer when the county approved high density zoning over the protests of Corte Madera officials and citizens.

Ronald E. Bartels, Corte Madera town manager, told the county planners yesterday his community opposed the proposed development as hotly as it did the rezoning.

He said his planning commission had raised six objections: A lack of open space, inadequate landscaping, too many three-bedroom units, poor traffic circulation, excessive density and massive structures.

Bartels was backed by Harold B. Wagstaff, Corte Madera city councilman, who said he felt the developer could reduce the number of units and still make a fair profit.

Others speaking against the proposal included Alberta Damas, a nearby resident, and Michael Peevey, a Fourth District candidate for the Marin County Board of Supervisors.

Councilman Edward W. Colthurst difered, however, saying the project should be approved because of the need for housing in the $30,000 to $35,000 range.

The proposal also found the county planning department split over its merits with Director Werner Von Gundell urging acceptance and Senior Planner Ray Smith opposing.

In rejecting the plan, the commission sided with Smith who said the building "configuration is reminiscent of World War II barracks."

Woman Ordered To Wait In Jail For Methadone

A 20-year-old Fairfax woman believed to be a heroin addict was sentenced yesterday in Marin Superior Court to stay in Marin County Jail until she is old enough to begin methadone treatment against the drug habit.

Judge Samuel W. Gardiner ordered Pamela Mae Wilson to stay in jail until Aug. 8, a day before her 21st birthday, because methadone can be administered legally only to persons at least 21.

She was also placed on two years probation for two felony counts of forging checks and a misdemeanor count of forging a signature of a credit card slip.

She was arrested Nov. 1 in a Sausalito shop after employees reported she tried to use a stolen credit card for a $126 purchase.

The check counts stemmed from two incidents in San Rafael where she cashed two checks for $260 in August and September that were reported stolen from a car in West Marin.

The plea bargain in the cases had called for her to serve no more than 90 days in jail, but she agreed to the longer period recommended by probation officer Jesse W. Johnson.

Johnson, who said her crimes had been committed to support her habit, added, "my purpose in recommending four months in the county jail was to get her away from heroin period."

Judge Gardiner said, "if she can't get methadone, then let's lock her up until she can get some."

Larkspur, State Object To Floating Creek Piers

The City of Larkspur and the State Lands Division have filed objections with the U.S. Army Corps of Engineers to two applications for floating piers in the Corte Madera Creek in Greenbrae.

The applications were made by Mr. and Mrs. John A. Moran, of 175 Upper Via Casitas, Greenbrae, and Betty Burger, through Western Dock Enterprises, 834 Vallejo Avenue, Novato.

Both applications specify that a ramp, dock and pier would be constructed on the creek.

According to Evan Hong, chief of the permit division of the corps, the State Lands Division objected to the applications because it feels that both docks "are encroaching on state lands." The division requested that both applicants seek state permits to build on the property before applying for U.S. Army Corps of Engineers approval.

In a letter from Harlan Barry, assistant city manager of Larkspur, the city stated that the "proposed dock does not conform with our policy that no finger piers be allowed."

According to Hong, decisions on the applications will be made after word is received from the U.S. Department of Interior and the California Resources Agency.

Planners Round Halfway Mark In Marin Farm Land Rezoning

Controversial rezoning of the county's 210,000-acre agricultural preserve rounded the halfway mark yesterday as the Marin County Planning Commission reclassified the third of five sections to be considered.

Commission approval followed nearly four hours of deliberation and resulted in some 30,000 acres west and south of Tomales Bay being restricted in new growth to one home per 60 acres.

Small areas around Olema and Five Brooks were rezoned to hree and five-acre lots, however, to allow for some expansion of those tiny communities.

Other land holdings, primarily in the Olema and Inverness Park areas, were excluded altogether and will be considered separately next month.

Yesterday's action came on a 4-1 vote with Commissioner George P. Leonard dissenting as he has in the past, claiming the rezoning is unnecessary. Commissioners Jack G. Nixon and William B. Lynch were absent.

The rezoning, supported by the county planning department and several conservation groups, is required under state law to protect the agricultural industry from the pressures of urban growth.

The law — the Williamson Act — states that lands within the preserve must be zoned in a manner compatible with agriculture. The planning department maintains that 60-acre zoning is the most compatible for Marin's dairying and livestock grazing operations.

Rezoning of the third section still must be ratified by the county board of supervisors which has already approved the first two sections — 60,000 acres east of Tomales Bay and 20,000 northwest of Novato.

While yesterday's hearing was lengthy, little new was introduced in testimony. Opponents branded it unfair since it might reduce property values and supporters applauded it as an end to land speculation and development.

Much of the session was devoted to individual parcels of land which property owners and their attorneys urged be excluded from the rezoning.

Several landowners such as Niels A. Schultz Jr. and Clarence Rodgers who have land near Olema, were successful in winning separate consideration.

Others, however, such as the owners of Deep Cove Ranch north of Tomales Bay State Park, did not fare as well.

The commission ruled that the ranch — being considered for inclusion in the Point Reyes National Seashore — should be rezoned in case negotiations fail with the federal park officials. Under the old zoning, the ranch could have been developed with one home per two acres.

The next rezoning hearing was set for June 5 and will consider the final two sections — the Nicasio Valley and Bolinas areas.

District Sells Collateral Items

More than 200 assorted items that had been left as collateral at Golden Gate Bridge toll booths for the past two years, have been auctioned off for $246.30 by the Golden Gate Bridge, Highway and Transportation District.

According to Captain Edward Ashoff, of the district, 10 times as many motorists are being caught without enough money since the bridge began charging 50 cents in only one direction.

The $246.30 is more than twice as much as the unpaid toll fees for which the auctioned merchandise was collected Friday, but that is unusual, the captain said. More often the tolls aren't covered.

TV Set Stolen

Larkspur police reported today that thieves stole a television set valued at $400 belonging to Phyllis L. Moser from her locked car parked in front of her apartment building at 10 Larkspur Drive Friday between 6:15 p.m. and 6:30 p.m.

Man Injured In Rear-End Collision

Carl Gomez, 25, of Windsor, was treated at Hillcrest Hospital for head cuts suffered in a two-car accident at 2:40 a.m. Sunday on Highway 101 at Washington Street, Petaluma.

The California Highway Patrol said his southbound car struck the rear of a car driven by Brustis J. Olhiser, 22, of Santa Rosa.

KPIX Schedules Jail Discussion

James W. L. Park, associate warden at San Quentin Prison, and San Francisco Sheriff Richard Hongisto along with a Stanford University professor will discuss jails and prisons on a special news feature at 10 o'clock tonight on KPIX.

Park said the discussion, moderated by Frank Gorin, will go beyond the original subject matter of jail breaks and will cover general prison conditions.

Third member of the panel will be Phillip Zimbardo, a psychology professor, who conducted an experiment last August on simulated prison conditions using students as guards and inmates.

The Marin Planning Commission Also:

RANCHETTES —Continued to May 8, a proposal to subdivide the 260-acre Elmer Martinelli Ranch at Point Reyes Station into 51 small ranches. The continuance came after the commission said it wanted the subdivision map redesigned to leave more open space.

REZONING — Continued to May 22, a proposal to rezone a lot on Auburn Street near San Rafael from apartment zoning to duplex zoning. The property, owned by George E. Oliver, who opposes the rezoning, was first considered for single family residential zoning but the commission agreed that was too low a density.

MILL VALLEY — Rejected unanimously a proposal from Blanda Telander that her small lot at the corner of Homestead Boulevard and Stadium Avenue near Mill Valley be rezoned to allow eight apartments instead of four.

EMBALMING —Approved unanimously a use permit application from Wendell M. Joost Jr. of Mill Valley to operate a "mortuary accommodation service" (embalming) at an existing building located adjacent to the heliport terminal near Richardson Bay.

EXTENSION — Approved unanimously a one-year extension of the Forest Hills subdivision map for property located north of the intersection of Homestead Boulevard and Ferndale Avenue in Tamalpais Valley. The development has been stalled by the sewer connection ban.

TENNIS — Approved unanimously a proposal from the San Geronimo Country Club to construct tennis courts and develop a tennis club in conjunction with the existing golf facilities.

PACHECO — Continued to May 8, a master plan calling for 600 townhouse and apartment units on the 519-acre Pacheco Ranch near Ignacio. The plan calls for 382 acres to be left in open space.

BUTTERFLIES — Continued to May 8, an appeal of a lot split approval for the Hurford Sharon property east of the intersection of Terrace and Ocean Avenues in Bolinas. The lot split was appealed by nearby residents who said development of the land would threaten the migration habitat of monarch butterflies. It was continued to allow the county counsel to determine if the split could be denied on environmental grounds. About 135 letters were received in support of the appeal.

Judge Orders Examination

Marin Superior Court Judge Samuel W. Gardiner has ordered a psychiatric examination for Frederick Robert Johnson of Novato, accused of entering a neighbor's house with intent to commit rape.

A second charge of entry with intent to commit theft was dismissed Friday by Judge Robert A. Smallman in Municipal Court.

Two Injured On Shoreline Highway

A car driven by a youth from El Cerrito, Contra Costa County, swerved to avoid oncoming traffic, hit a bank and turned upside down on Shoreline Highway near the Muir Beach overlook about 4:45 p.m. Sunday, according to the Highway Patrol.

Driver of the car, Richard A. Stachel, 19, was treated for multiple facial cuts at Marin General Hospital, and his passenger, Esther K. Sanchez, 20, of Richmond was reported by a spokesman to be in satisfactory condition in the intensive care unit with a head injury.

VOTER

Articles of incorporation as a non-profit corporation have been prepared, and will be filed as soon as a board of directors is named. Meyer hopes to have the board include representatives of the governor's office, legislature, state superintendent of public instruction, state Board of Education, and experts from the fields of education and government at district, county and local levels.

The New Voter, said Meyer, will concentrate on the local political scene.

"You can't get a young person all fired up about the presidential race and then expect him to take an interest in the local sanitary district," he said today. "But you can get him interested and involved in local political problems which he can see for himself, and he will go on from there to interest in state and national governments."

To do the job of preparing new voters, Meyer proposes to set up a course in local government to be offered in Marin schools on a pilot basis and made statewide after a year's shakedown. This would be augmented by summer courses at College of Marin and Dominican College in 1973 to prepare teachers from throughout the state. The magazine, the New Voters, would be used in the classrooms to augment whatever texts were produced or adopted.

Either a foundation grant or federal funds of $100,000 will be sought to pay for the first year's work, Meyer said. Both are available for such a project, "and we are the first on the scene," he declared.

He plans to publish the New Voter (for the first issue of which he paid from his own pocket) on a monthly basis beginning with opening of school next September, if funds are forthcoming.

"There is no problem getting endorsements," commented Meyer. "This is needed, and everybody I tell about it is quick to endorse it. It is just a matter of getting organized."

He plans to set up seminars and conferences in addition to the summer school sessions for teachers, with texts, lesson plans, discussion leader manuals and other printed materials to be produced by experts in government and education.

The initial issue of New Voter indicates the type of information Meyer feels this new bloc of voters needs. It includes a directory of California county registrars of voters, a brief explanation of the state legislative process, an article on the importance of one vote, and a "new voter quiz" on election procedures and how ballots can be cast, along with information on the state central committees of the two major parties and on the municipal elections held this month.

Meyer stressed that the organization is completely nonpartisan, designed to get the interest of new voters and about-to-be new voters and give them the education they need to participate in the governing process, through the ballot and otherwise.

Youths Arrested In Car Theft

Two Georgia youths were arrested by Novato police at 12:05 a.m. yesterday on suspicion of car theft after they were discovered asleep in a stolen car at the north end of Simmons Lane.

Jimmie Shelton Webber, 21, of Claxton, Ga., was booked at Marin County Jail, and his companion, Bruce William Lee, 17, of Fort Jackson, Ga., was taken to Juvenile Hall, officers reported.

Webber's bail was set at $1,250 and he was scheduled to appear in Marin Municipal Court today.

The car was stolen from Marvin Messex of Visalia, Ga., on April 18, police said.

Preliminary Hearing

A preliminary hearing in Marin Municipal Court has been set for May 9 for Michael John Ontiveros, 23, of San Francisco who is charged with trying to cash two stolen checks totaling $650 at a bank in San Rafael last year.

Woman Assaulted

A woman from Anderson, Shasta County, was raped and robbed in Marin City at about 11 o'clock last night, according to sheriff's deputies, but further details of the attack were unavailable, they said.

Hub Driver Is Booked; Pot Probe Is Made

A 25-year-old San Anselmo man was booked into Marin County Jail on suspicion of drunken driving, possession of marijuana and possession of narcotics paraphenalia early today, according to the California Highway Patrol.

Officers said Michael J. McCarthy, of 4 Greenfield Court, was stopped on Highway 101 near Third Street in San Rafael about 11:10 p.m. yesterday, and arrested. While being searched at the jail, officers said they discovered what they believe was marijuana, and in his car found a device for holding a marijuana cigarette.

He was to appear today in Marin Municipal Court and no bail was set.

Officers said his car was stopped because he was driving erratically.

an artificial moonquake to be recorded by the seismometer Young and Duke left behind.

But the astronauts successfully deployed a little satellite designed to measure radiation and magnetic forces around the moon. Dr. David W. Stangway, chief geophysicist at the Manned Spacecraft Center, said an identical satellite left behind by Apollo 15 "has told us a lot of very exciting things" about the peculiarities of the moon.

The astronauts were so impressed by the view of the moon as they sped away that they beamed a 15-minute telecast 240,000 miles to Earth.

"You know Pete, if you took this view you just saw of the moon and put it in a movie everybody would say you were just faking it," Duke told ground communicator Don Peters. "You can't see any stars, just pure blackness and that white-gray body sitting out there."

The camera then showing the pilots with heavy beards. When Young appeared before the camera, he held up his hand and said:

Peevey Campaign Office Opened

Michael R. Peevey, candidate for the Marin County Board of Supervisors, has opened campaign headquarters in San Rafael at the Depot, 930 Tamalpais Avenue, and in Corte Madera at 626 Tamalpais Drive.

A reception at the Corte Madera headquarters will be held from 5 to 7 p.m. on Saturday.

Mental Health Plans Volunteer Training

A training course for mental health volunteers will be offered by the Marin Association for Mental Health beginning at 1 p.m. May 15 at the psychiatric unit of Ross General Hospital.

The course, which consists of five two-hour sessions, trains volunteers to join the Community Friends Program. On a one-to-one basis, members of the program help persons recovering from mental disorders during their first months of readjustment to community living.

Marin Hospital Fire Report Due

The Marin Hospital District board of directors will receive a report from its fire protection committee when it meets at 7 p.m. Tuesday in the Coral Room at Marin General Hospital.
p.m. today in the Coral Room at Marin General Hospital.

The board will also receive reports from the chief of staff, volunteers, Community Health Center and the personnel committee. It will receive the March financial statement, consider rotation of bank accounts and bad-debt write-off.

Larkspur Planners, Rec Panel To Meet

The Larkspur Planning Commission, meeting today at 8 p.m. with the city's park and recreation commission, will consider adoption of a master plan for parks and recreation.

The commission will also consider an ordinance requiring a five-foot-high fence around all swimming pools in Larkspur, adoption of criteria for denial of subdivisions and review the study district status of land east of Highway 101.

PAPERS

Pentagon Papers but was overruled by the Supreme Court.

Parts of the Kissinger study were published this week by Newsweek magazine and columnist Jack Anderson, and the Washington Post published the memo in today's editions.

The documents show Nixon received "profoundly different" judgments from government agencies on the state of the Indochina war and the actions he should take.

The Joint Chiefs of Staff, the American military command in Vietnam, the U.S. embassy in Saigon and the Commander in Chief of Pacific forces tended to take a "hawkish" and optimistic view. A more skeptical and pessimistic slant was taken by the civilian Office of the Secretary of Defense (OSD), the Central Intelligence Agency and the State Department.

Advisers differed sharply about the validity of the "domino" theory, the effectivness of B52 strikes, the length of time it would take to "pacify" the Vietnamese countryside, and the prospects for shutting off military aid to North Vietnam from China and the Soviet Union.

The Kissinger memorandum said, however, that there was "general agreement" that the South Vietnamese armed forces "alone cannot now, or in the foreseeable future, stand up to the current (1969) North Vietnamese and Viet Cong forces."

Kissinger's memorandum said there also was a consensus that "under current rules of engagement the enemy's manpower pool and infiltration capabilities can outlast allied attrition efforts indefinitely." It said the Communists were still capable of launching major offensives despite their losses during TET, 1968.

The survey showed that optimists and pessimists differed about how long it would take to complete pacification in South Vietnam but that both concluded there would not be "anything close to complete success within several years."

"If the 1967-1968 pacification rate ... is sustained the first interpretation implies that it will take 8.3 years to pacify the 4.15 million contested and VC population of December, 1968; the second view implies pacification success in 13.4 years," the survey said.

WAR

tanks had advanced to within two miles to the east of Bravo in an apparent flanking movement.

Defending Bravo were infantrymen of the 22nd South Vietnamese Division who were able to make their way south when the forward defenses 25 miles north of Kontum crumbled Monday. They were reinforced by paratroopers who evacuated Rocket Ridge, an artillery base west of Kontum, which was to have defended an invasion valley.

There were 13 U.S. advisers in the Tan Canh area at the time the attacks began Monday and eight were unaccounted for tonight.

Capt. Raymond H. Dobbins, 35, of Marietta, Ga., one of those who made it to allied lines today after hiding out all night inside the captured base said six Americans and four helicopter crewmen were killed when their rescue chopper was shot down over Dak To.

Only Dobbins and four others were known to be still alive.

A critical situation also was reported in Cambodia where the High Command said 12 Communist tanks were reported moving in on the besieged capital of Svay Rieng, 78 miles southeast of Phnom Penh on Highway 1 leading to Saigon.

Fall of Svay Rieng would give the Communists control of another 25-mile stretch of the highway in the Parrots Beak sector which juts into South Vietnam only 35 miles from Saigon. They have already seized control of 60 miles of the road, and a command spokesman said the situation was "critical."

At An Loc, 60 miles north of Saigon and another major Communist objective, the South Vietnamese were reported still holding on. The commanding general said the South Vietnamese were mounting a "counteroffensive" after U.S. planes had inflicted heavy casualties on the enemy.

Bookkeeper For Bolinas PUD Quits

Helen McKay, bookkeeper-clerk for the Bolinas Community Public Utility District, has resigned from the post she had held since October, district board chairman Marguerite K. Harris reported.

The board at its Saturday meeting accepted the resignation, effective May 15, and is now seeking applicants for the job, she said.

attorney's office, the situation was identical. John Hawkes, acting district attorney, said he hadn't received Younger's opinion yet.

The attorney general's opinion, written by one of his deputies, Arnold O. Overoye, was the second to come from his office on the matter in several months. In February, Younger's office concluded that other police agencies could be given juvenile records.

That ruling noted that various state laws, such as those governing motor vehicle use, specifically require that the records be given to state agencies such as the Bureau of Criminal Statistics and the Department of Motor Vehicles.

But it said nothing about whether records denied the public could be shown to the press. As a result, Assemblyman Robert Monagan, R-Stockton, asked for additional clarification about news media access to juvenile records.

Overoye noted in his opinion that the governor's special study commission on juvenile courts in 1960 issued a report that said juvenile secrecy laws never were intended to bar the press from hearings or records.

The 1960 study was approved by the Legislature the following year, Overoye said, and is the latest expression of legislative intent.

In a discussion of his opinion with United Press International, Overoye said judges in juvenile court still have the authority to exclude newsmen from juvenile hearings. However, he said, it was the attorney general's opinion that the law of the state does not ban newsmen from all such hearings or any access to juvenile detention records.

Overoye noted that the 1960 governor's commission said newsmen should be allowed to see such records and attend hearings because of "their voluntarily adopted code of ethics."

The deputy attorney general believed clarifying legislation was needed in the matter in view of the confusion resulting from last year's Supreme Court ruling.

Girl Attacked At Knifepoint

A 14-year-old girl was sexually molested at knifepoint Sunday on a fire trail off the Corte Madera Grade by a man who gave her a ride as she was hitchhiking on Miller Avenue in Mill Valley.

Police said a white male, about 25-years old with shoulder-length blond hair, picked the girl up near the downtown area about 5:59 p.m., then pulled a knife and ordered her into the back seat of the off-white station wagon.

He drove to the fire trail, according to police, molested the girl and left her there.

Woman Is Hurt In Boulevard Accident

A San Anselmo woman, injured yesterday when the car in which she was a passenger collided with another on Sir Francis Drake Boulevard at Elm Avenue near Kentfield, was treated yesterday for a bump on the head, according to a Marin General Hospital spokesman.

Ram-Pyari Pal, 32, of 12 Laurel Avenue was riding in a car driven by Ram Pal, of the same address. Their car collided about 9:19 p.m. with one driven by Jean M. Van Riper, of 1349 Butterfield Road, San Anselmo, according to the California Highway Patrol.

Bomb Threats In Las Vegas

LAS VEGAS, Nev. (UPI)—At least 15 Las Vegas hotels and gambling resorts have been threatened with bombing unless they agree to a $2 million payoff.

The threat came in identical letters received Monday. Fifteen were turned over to the Federal Bureau of Investigtion and authorities refused to comment on the case. However, it is believed all 21 major downtown and strip hotels received copies of the typewritten letter which was mailed from Texas on Sunday.

The letter did not spell out the time and place of the payoffs but its author indicated that he doesn't care whether the money is paid jointly or by an individual hotel, as long as he gets $2 million.

Marinite Gets Year On Drugs

I-J Special Report

SAN FRANCISCO — A Mill Valley man has been sentenced in superior court to one year in county jail after pleading guilty to charges of selling LSD.

Roger G. Leibowitz, 40, of 40 Hillside Drive, was sentenced Friday by Judge Walter Calcagno. His jail term, however, will not begin until he is sentenced June 29 in U.S. District Court on a seperate matter.

In that case, Leibowitz was arrested March 11, 1971 in San Rafael, and charged with conspiracy to sell LSD. On Feb. 28, he pleaded guilty to the charge.

In his sentence Friday, Judge Calcagno gave Leibowitz a suspended state prison sentence, three years probation, and the stay of execution until his sentencing in federal court.

The decision ended a case that had run for more than a year. Leibowitz was arrested with another Mill Valley man in a San Francisco motel after police said the pair arranged for sale of 36,000 tablets of LSD. That man, Charles S. Wismer, 21, of 342 Live Oak Drive, was sentenced to nine months in county jail.

Third Life Term For 3 Murders

I-J Special Report

SAN FRANCISCO — A San Francisco man pleaded guilty yesterday to the third of three murders — including the parents of a San Rafael woman — and was sentenced to a third concurrent life imprisonment term.

Harry Conwell, 43, entered his guilty plea in Superior Court before Judge Walter Calcagno. He was charged with the killing of Elinor Cushman, 75, who died five five months after she was beaten in her San Francisco apartment on Aug. 13.

The Cushmans were the parents of Jean Wiedenmeyer of San Rafael.

Housing Discussion Set In Marin City

The Marin City Council, concerned that improvements to the community's public housing are not proceeding as fast as they should, last night set a special meeting to discuss the public housing modernization program for 8 p.m. Monday in the Manzanita Center.

Council member Royce McLemore said Melvin Randolph, housing manager for the Marin County Housing Authority, will be requested to appear to discuss progress of the improvement program designed to upgrade the public units. "Nothing is being done on this program, although the money has been budgeted for it," Mrs. McLemore said.

The council also set a public hearing to review the new Marin City master plan for 10 a.m. May 6 in the Manzanita Center.

Jail Status Clarification Is Wanted

I-J Special Report

SANTA ROSA — The Sonoma County Board of Supervisors yesterday joined with three other counties asking the state to clarify its position on keeping convicted felons in county jails.

The supervisors said the current shift of keeping inmates in county jails rather than state prisons has caused both physical and financial problems.

Sonoma Sheriff Donald Striepeke blamed the state policy for violence at the county jail last month, saying many of the prisoners who led the disturbance would normally have been sentenced to state prisons where facilities are available to handle them.

Sonoma supervisors joined in the resolution with supervisors from Marin, Solano and Napa counties. They said that rumors that major prisons will be closed may put even a more pressing burden on county jails.

The four counties have been discussing the possibility of building a joint maximum security jail to house county inmates who would normally have gone to state prisons in recent years. The board said it hoped for answers promptly from Gov. Ronald Reagan and Raymond Procunier, director of the state Department of Corrections, so planning can move ahead.

Too Late To Kick When Tax Falls Due

If the county board of supervisors and the various city councils, school boards and special district boards were to launch into budget hearings right now, they likely would have surprising attendance by the public.

Fuming and feeling frustrated after paying record-high property taxes, John Q. Taxpayer is looking for the guys who did it to him. He wants to know where the money went.

By the time budget hearings are held this summer, however, John Q. will have cooled down considerably. In fact, he will have cooled to the point that he likely won't bother to attend any budget discussion of any of the dozen or so jurisdictions that have their hands in his pockets through the power to tax.

EACH YEAR at budget time, the Independent-Journal urges attendance at the meetings, pointing out that the appropriations then authorized will fix the size of the tax bills to follow. But each year it is the same story: The only budget hearings drawing much of anybody are those of the board of supervisors, and they are attended principally by organized groups who are after the tax money — more of it.

There's a reason for this, apart from apathy.

Those who attend budget sessions find themselves frustrated all over again. They are not furnished the information on which the board or council is basing its decisions. Mostly they can't tell what the members are talking about. When they ask questions, they often get rude treatment. And so, in most cases, they give it up as a bad job after one or two tries.

NON-ATTENDANCE by the public makes things nice for the treasury raiders, who find no one there to oppose their projects. Also, it enables the elected officials to pose as defenders of the public purse, trying their darndest to hold down the tax bill but somehow unable to succeed.

Sometimes this is a spurious pose.

Let's take, for instance, the Marin County Board of Supervisors, whose budget has escalated most rapidly of any (except that of the county schools department, now done separately) in the past couple of years.

In 1970, County Administrator Alan Bruce proposed a budget totaling $36,024,555. After weeks of "efforts to cut," the supervisors approved one totaling $37,022,804 — almost a million dollars more than the administrator had proposed.

Last year, the board did a little better. It actually cut almost $300,000 from the budget Bruce proposed. But it started out with one of $45,511,980 — the biggest one-year increase, by far, in the county's history. The one it approved, totaling $45,229,158, was still some 26 per cent above the previous year's.

WHAT HAPPENED was that department heads got the board to restore cuts in their requests which had been made by the administrator sometimes, we suspect, with full knowledge that they wouldn't stay cut), and the pressure groups — consistent attenders of budget hearings — were present with their hands out.

The supervisors listened to those who were present. The rest of us have just paid the bill.

It is frustrating to contend with financial rigamarole and political and bureaucratic double-talk at budget hearings. But unless the public makes its wants known, in no uncertain terms, there will be no hold-down of taxes. And this means appearing not just once, and not just before the board of supervisors, but again and again, at the budget hearings of all those taxing agencies.

Statistics, News Stories Prove Crime Not Just Cities' Problem

There are many good reasons for moving from an overcrowded big city to the wide open spaces of town and country America.

This truth was brought home to my wife and me by two recent news items.

ONE CAME from Washington, D.C., where we made our home for 25 years prior to last September. When we lived in Washington, people were afraid to visit us because they'd read and heard so much about the high incidence of murder, robbery, mugging, rape and other violent crime. President Nixon spoke of Washington as "the crime capital of the nation."

Well, it isn't any more. The latest FBI crime-index reports show that Washington has achieved a 18.5 per cent reduction in serious crime since 1969. And this downturn took place while the crime rate for the nation as a whole was steadily rising.

SHORTLY AFTER we learned how much safer the streets have become in Washington, we came across another news item, this time concerning the area in which we now live. According to a report released by a New York organization, the area around Augusta, Ga., and adjacent Aiken County, S.C., in which we settled last fall, has the highest homicide rate in the entire nation.

This report was greeted by some shrill outcries of protest from local chambers of commerce, but no one who reads the daily papers of Augusta or Aiken could find it hard to believe that we really deserve this grisly distinction.

In his classic study of "the Mind of the South," sociologist A. J. Cash said there always has been a strong streak of violence in the southern character. He said that in 1942, and 30 years later I can attest it's still true.

EVERY MONDAY, the Aiken Standard carries a front-page roundup of weekend police activity. I read it with a mixture of horror and fascination. Shootings and knifings, often fatal, are sufficiently commonplace to warrant one or at most two paragraphs. Breakins and burglaries usually are summarized statistically, with no details given unless one of them was particularly spectacular.

Occasionally there is a lighter note. One day the roundup included a single paragraph stating that police were searching for an unidentified man who had parked his car in front of a home at midday, removed all of his clothing, and given chase to a lady who had been spading a petunia bed in the front yard. It was implied, though not explicitly stated, that she outran him.

Aside from disproving the widespread notion that city life is dangerous and small town life is dull, these facts have a significance which ought not be overlooked in any discussion of the "crime problem."

Crime is not just an urban problem; it is a national problem. No one can run away and hide from it.

WHAT OUR READERS SAY

Letters for "What Our Readers Say" are welcomed. To be published, they must bear the writer's signature and address (only the city will be printed, but street or post office box address must be included.) Try to limit letters to 200 words. The editors reserve the right to cut long letters, or to reject any that may be libelous or in bad taste.

Wives Encouraged To Become 'Dropouts'

Since Marin County has one of the highest divorce rates in the country, Life Magazine's recent article "Dropout Wife" (March 17) makes interesting reading for those of us who went through it all. Especially so, since local groups like the Marin Unitarian Fellowship has an ambitious program of phasing out marriages, leaving untold pain and misery in the wake of its egregious success.

The "Letters to the Editor" to this article (Life, April 7) are significant, since they point out the paradox of the situation. If a husband leaves his family, he may go to jail for non-support. If a wife does the very same thing, she is hailed as "liberated", while leaving her husband broke, saddled with house, debts, children and home-care, and with the continued responsibility of financial support for her. When the law is finally changed to recognize a wife's responsibility, in addition to her rights, wife-dropping-out — along with such groups as the Unitarian Fellowship of Marin — may come to a well-deserved, screeching halt.

Cal-Vet Bond Act Approval Is Urged

I write this letter in support of Cal-Vet Proposition One on the June 6 ballot.

Proposition One is a $250 Million Cal-Vet Bond Act. It would authorize the state to sell bonds and provide, from the monies acquired, loans for California veterans to purchase homes and farms in our state at a reduced interest rate.

Funds for this model state program, which has been in being for the past 50 years, is now exhausted. The last $50 million of bonds authorized in 1968 have been sold and used to fund loans for homes and farms of California veterans.

The beautiful part of this program, in addition to providing low cost home loans to California veterans instead of a cash bonus plan used by most other states, is that it costs the taxpayer absolutely nothing, it is completely self-supporting, self-liquidating . . .

Proposition One has been endorsed by every major veterans organization in the state. In addition, it has the backing of organized labor, chambers of commerce, businessmen, taxpayer groups, Democrats and Republicans, consumer groups, state legislators and citizens in every walk of life. This bond act was placed on the ballot by a unanimous vote of the state Legislature and the signature of the governor . . .

I therefore, urge all voters to vote yes on Proposition One on the June 6 ballot.

No Longer Loyal, Wants Hanoi To Win

I am not now nor have I ever been a member of the Communist Party or any other "subversive" organization. Contrarily, I am a white, Anglo-Saxon, formerly Protestant, middle-class, American and Marin County employee.

About seven years ago I became aware of the existence of Vietnam. About six years ago I started signing petitions and marching in protest against our involvement in their civil war. About five years ago I was a plaintiff in a suit aginst the U.S. government for return of taxes unconstitutionally used to wage genocidal war against the Vietnamese. We lost. Six years and four years ago I worked for as many "peace" candidates as possible in the electoral process. They were all defeated. I became quite pessimistic about the efficacy of loyal, legal and peaceful dissent.

Admittedly, biased as I am against the political right, I believed in the glimmer of hope allowed by President Nixon in his de-escalation policies and removal of troops. After all, didn't Ike stop the Korean War? Meanwhile, the left kept warning of Nixon's substitution of electronic and aerial warfare in place of ground troops. But I wanted to believe that Nixon really would stop the war and so was lulled into apathy and aquiescence.

All along I felt uneasy and a little guilty about opposing my government's actions. Now that is all changed. Since the resumption of bombing North Vietnam, I am no longer a loyal but protesting American. I am an unloyal, protesting American.

I hope with all sincerity that the North Vietnamese and the Viet Cong defeat the U.S. military — that the remaining U.S. forces are pushed into the sea — that Richard Nixon becomes politically annihilated again and forever more as representative and symbol of the American fascist movement — that all the fascist supporters of Nixon and the military are overwhelmed and ideologically obliterated by world wide revulsion and reaction.

Power to our people and the People's Republic of Vietnam!

Day Care By The Government: Poor Idea And Bad Timing

(Reprinted from
Wall Street Journal

When President Nixon vetoed a proposed child care program last year, he described it as the most radical legislation to emerge from the 92nd Congress. Nevertheless, the subject of child care is very much alive on Capitol Hill, where several modified plans have recently been drawn up.

Mr. Nixon was probably right when he said the original child care bill was flawed by "fiscal irresponsibility, administrative unworkability and family-weakening implications." Although probably only a cryptographer could be expected to understand the vague language of that bill, the intent seemed to be that eventually the federal government should undertake a comprehensive range of health, education and social services for just about every child in the nation, regardless of family income. Even supporters agreed that the proposed $2 billion initial appropriation would soon cost many times that amount.

Sen. James Buckley asked whether we really want the federal government to become "the most important and ultimately the strongest arbiter of child-rearing practices in the United States." It is legitimate to ask what values any comprehensive federal program would instill in pre-schoolers, but the question suggests a reputation for effectiveness that the government does not deserve. For example, a study of day care money for fiscal 1969 found that Congress allocated $22.6 million nationwide. Yet the states — because of transfers to other programs, lapsed appropriations and carry-overs into future years — actually managed to spend only $4 million of that.

In view of the failure of the much-ballyhooed war on poverty, it is surely reasonable for the administration to question the wisdom of plastering another bureaucratic layer over what is deemed to be another pressing social problem. And at a time when a national newsweekly can seriously raise the question of whether the U.S. is going broke, we would think that even official Washington should hesitate to vote another multi-billion-dollar program.

Nixon, Advisers Weighed Risks Before Ordering Bombing Raids

WASHINGTON — The President and the half-dozen men who took the decision to bomb Haiphong and Hanoi weighed two sets of risks one against the other before the final word went out. Not the least of the risks on one side of the balance sheet was that this country would be torn apart once more by violent dissension.

On the other side of the ledger was the risk that if the Communist offensive was not checked, the South Vietnamese Army might be overrun. Then the plight of the 70,000 American troops still in the south would be desperate. In this light wasn't the commander-in-chief compeled to risk escalation of the bombing beyond anything up to this point in the war? This is an inside view of the decision-making process.

THE RISK TAKERS adding up the score to date believe they have accomplished their limited objective. Gasoline and oil dumps in the environs of Hanoi and Haiphong were almost totally destroyed. The flames were so great that they could be seen from the aircraft carrier Kitty Hawk 110 miles offshore. Hundreds of trucks were also destroyed.

A year to a year and a half would be required for the Soviet Union to replace these stores. This does not mean that the offensive from the north will be brought to a full stop. In the pipe line or at battlefield centers are sufficient stores to fuel the Communist drive for at least another two months. These stores are so dispersed as to be beyond the bombers' reach.

The decision makers seem to have been almost as much in the dark as the rest of us on why Mscow chose to give Hanoi long-range and advanced weapons for a full-scale offensive. Medium-size we could have taken; that would have worn off. This is the melancholy reflection of those trying to cope with the big push.

The Soviet decision is related to the time last Nvember when Henry Kissinger, the President's security adviser, believed that his secret talks with the North Vietnamese in Paris were about to reach a successful conclusion. Doveish critics have always been skeptical that those talks could bring a negotiated settlement. But Kissinger was certain that the war was soon to be ended at the conference table. He insisted that Hanoi would even accept a cease-fire if it was within the framework of an over-all political settlement.

The Nrth Vietnamese went so far as to give a specific reason — the illness of Le Duc Tho — why they could not meet a proposed date. This was unprecedented. Then, as Kissinger waited for a further response, Moscow is believed to have signalized the go-ahead. That would have been between Nov. 5 and 17, but this is largely conjecture.

AS THE MASS of new, advanced material was moved in, it was widely believed that the offensive would come in February while President Nixon was in Peking. This seems to have been the assumption of Moscow. That would have caused the utmost embarrassment for the President and his Chinese hosts.

The biggest risk was that the meeting in Moscow on May 22 between the President and the Soviet leaders will be called off. No one will say what the cut-off point may be. Moscow reports four Russian ships were hit in Haiphong harbor. If two ships were sunk (three?) (four?) would this inevitably put an end to the meeting on which the Nixon administration has put such a high priority?

Bringing the war back to the front pages as the B-52s rain down thousands of tons of bombs on the south and the north, with new civilian casualties and masses of refugees, is bound to stir a reaction.

The administration rests its case largely on Communist violation of the demilitarized zone with the full-scale movement of men and arms across what was in the 1968 agreement to have been a sanctuary. But that is a paper-thin defense, since the DMA, so often shot over, has long since become only another battleground.

Driver License Not Reliable Identification It's Believed

By EARL G. WATERS

Efforts of the airlines to tighten security by the use of drivers' licenses as a means of identification points up the trend over the years to the widespread reliance upon this instrument.

As State Motor Vehicle officials are quick to cite, the driver's license was intended only to serve the purpose of identifying the operator of a motor vehicle.

Its development into a general purpose identification stems largely from the practice of those in trade who have resorted to its use in cashing checks and extending credit. Bar owners, seeking to avoid trouble with alcohol control agents, also have depended upon it to weed out minors in quest of the forbidden spirits.

The retailers were instrumental in securing laws requiring a photograph on the license, which is now compulsory although the thumbprint remains optional.

UNFORTUNATELY the driver's license only serves its purpose in the hands of honest people. Its widely accepted use for check cashing or credit is an enigma in itself, for it certainly has nothing to do with one's financial standing.

And, as a means of identification it isn't even a surety for its original purpose, that of identifying a vehicle driver. Happily the highly developed computerized driver license files permit officers to check the fidelity of any questionable license with the Department of Motor Vehicles in Sacramento in a matter of seconds.

But retailers and others, which now includes the airlines, do not have this service available to them. And even if they did it wouldn't be a guarantee. It's not 100 per cent for the officers.

For the truth is that bona fide licenses are easily altered by experts. So it doesn't protect the bar owner as much as he may think it does, nor can it be taken by anyone for absolute identification.

In addition there are thousands of counterfeit licnses in circulation as indicated by check fraud investigators. And while the check made by the traffic officers will expose both the altered and fictitious licenses, it will not detect those which have been secured from the state under false names and addresses.

LICENSES ARE ISSUED at 148 field offices and 22 mobile units of the Motor Vehicle Department. By applying at different offices it is possible to get licenses under different names and addresses. Since the physical description set forth on the license is from a form filled out by the applicant, these licenses could also vary as to descriptions. Of course, all would have a picture of the same person.

Perhaps no one person has secured 170 different licenses by visiting each of the different offices, but the practice of having more than one license is not isolated. Keith Ball, chief of the Drivers License Bureau, discloses that between 200 and 250 duplicate licenses are discovered each month. He says the discoveries are made by sharp-eyed clerks who notice the similarity of photographs and not by any scientific method.

While the department expects to overcome the altered and counterfeit license problem this July with the adoption of new secret markings in the license visible only by special light, the duplicate problem can be overcome only by legislative action.

This would be a new law requiring the fingerprinting of all original applicants as well as the first four years of renewals for those now holding licenses.

The fingerprinting of some 12 million licensees and about 800,000 new ones annually presents a significant cost. But with the wide usage of the license for identification it would be the only sure way of making it a reliable document.

Young Look On City Councils May Change Established System

The potency of student power was felt at the polls two weeks ago, and now that the dust is settling, even the die-hard cynics are mellowing.

The clean sweep of three recent Sonoma State College graduates for the Cotati City Council was viewed either as an outrage or a great victory for changing attitudes. Some oldtimers were bitter, predicting that marijuana would freely bloom in the city park and that bedlam would rule. Even they seem to have mellowed since the election.

ALTHOUGH STEPHEN Laughlin and Geoffrey Dunham alienated some by denouncing the escalation of the war as their first official act, most believe they will take a practical attitude toward their jobs and will tackle mundane but pressing problems such as leaky water lines and inadequate streets.

When fellow winner Annette Lombardi returns from Italy next week and the young people become the council majority, the normally dull meetings should play to packed houses.

From the number of votes they received, it was obvious that support came from beyond the newly enfranchised young people. Even if 100 per cent of the registered students went to the polls (highly unlikely) they could not have won without votes from older residents.

Sonoma State students and graduates did well in other Sonoma County elections as well. In Rohnert Park, Sonoma State alumni president Louis G. Beary joined fellow alumnus Warren K. Hopkins on the city council. Margaret Sheehan, a 19-year-old student, ran a very respectable fifth for the three available seats there.

In Santa Rosa, Sonoma State student Mike Loomis, also 19, placed fourth in a race for two available city council seats, and student Jim Phillippi finished a strong fifth in a contest for three seats open on the board of education.

VOTERS IN OTHER cities will no doubt be watching the Cotati City Council closely. If the young councilmen do well, it could break the ice for other young candidates.

The "established system," within whic all young people are urged to work, may never be the same again.

Despite Temporary Setbacks, Polarization Program's Working

WASHINGTON — Everyone talks about the success of the "Vietnamization" program in Vietnam, but little attention has been paid to the success of the "Polarization" program in the United States.

The Polarization program in the United States, considered the best means of dividing the country, was started just about the time the Vietnamization program began, and the two programs are unalterably tied together.

MALCOLM MOODY, director of Polarization for the entire United States, which includes I Corps (New England), II Corps (the South), III Corps (the Midwest) and IV Corps (the Far West), insisted that despite what the media had written, Polarization was working in the United States, and he predicted that the entire country would be polarized by 1972.

In his large, spacious office across the street from the White House, Moody showed me a map indicating the progress of the Polarization program since President Nixon took office.

"We've had setbacks," he said, "and you have to expect them when you're polarizing a country as large as this. First, you have to win the confidence of the people. Then you have to persuade them Polarization is good for them. It isn't easy."

MOODY SAID he had been worried for a time. "The campuses were quiet, there was little rioting in the ghettos, the students were trying to work within the system and the country was making some effort to come together. I was under a great deal of pressure to explain why Polarization wasn't working.

"But you can't have Polarization unless you give the people a reason to be polarized. After our invasion of Cambodia things calmed down. President Nixon didn't help by announcing the SALT talks and taking a trip to China.

"We kept sending Vice President Agnew out to the different corps areas hoping he could polarize the countryside, but in the last year or so it wasn't working. This is not to criticize Agnew. He did such an effective job in 1968 and 1969, but there wasn't much left for him to say in '70, '71 and '72.

"The people weren't listening and we were in serious trouble."

"WHAT TURNED the program around?" I asked.

"The first thing was the busing issue. Busing of schoolchildren was one area where people were willing to be polarized. When we realized what we had, we ran with it. People who wouldn't get involved suddenly joined up, and now, thanks to the administration's position, we have more people at the end of the poles than we ever had before."

"That's fantastic," I said.

"But we couldn't have done it with busing alone. The big breakthrough came when the President decided to bomb Haiphong and Hanoi. This woke up the students, it brought out the antiwar demonstrators, it split Congress and led to all the acrimonious gut reactions that had been buried for two years. But B-52 raids made everyone forget China and a possible detente with the Soviet Union. We managed to polarize the young people again."

"YOU'VE DONE a good job," I told Moody.

"The credit does not belong to me. It belongs to the President. Our agency can do just so much, but if the President doesn't back us with his decisions, Polarization just won't work."

"The administration maintains it isn't the President but the media which is responsible for Polarization in this country. How do you explain that?" I asked.

"The President is a modest man. As long as Polarization is working, he doesn't care who gets the credit for it. If the American people want to believe that the press and TV news people are responsible for Polarization, it's perfectly all right with Mr. Nixon."

Powers Report No Question Of Romance

SYDNEY (UPI) — Pacific rowers John Fairfax and Sylvia Cook said today their 8,000-mile journey in a 35-foot rowboat had forged a mutual respect but there was no question of romance.

Fairfax told newsmen at Sydney airport before their departure for London, "After all, if you're rowing you don't feel very romantic.

"We've developed a great respect for each other, which is a hell of a lot more important," he said. "Now we'll be friends for life, which is more important."

Fairfax said that although they had lived together to see if they were compatible, they had never been in love.

"We are still friends. We feel just the same as before and of course we still have the same fights," he said. "But we knew each other for some time before the journey so why should we change?"

Two Men Deny Assault Charge

Two San Francisco men charged with robbing, kidnapping and raping a Mill Valley woman pleaded innocent yesterday to the counts during arraignment in Marin Superior Court.

Judge Samuel W. Gardiner set a jury trial for the week of June 12.

Charles Moultry, 23, and Louis Charles Lee, 22, were arrested March 29 after a chase across the Golden Gate Bridge.

The 28-year-old victim told police the two men held her up in her driveway, then forced her to ride around Southern Marin while they took turns raping her at gunpoint.

Released two blocks from home, she called for help and sheriff's deputies ran down the car after chasing it from near Marin City.

Sick Behavior Held Possibly Inheritable

WASHINGTON (UPI) —Nearly every American family has at least one member with some sort of mental disorder and there is growing evidence that various forms of sick behavior —including alcoholism and criminality —may be inheritable, a research scientist said Monday.

Dr. David Rosenthal of the National Institute of Mental Health, discussed "Genetic Factors in Behavioral Disorders" at the annual meeting of the National Academy of Sciences.

Rosenthal, chief of the psychology laboratory on intramural research programs at NIMH, listed major mental illnesses —or "behavioral disorders," as some scientists prefer to call them —and cited studies implicating genetic (inheritable) faults in all of them.

"There is sufficient evidence for genetic factors in all the behavioral disorders for us to take the genetic hypothesis seriously," Rosenthal said.

He said there may be more than 60 million schizophrenics in the U. S. population of 200 million. These are persons who are afflicted to some degree with loss of contact with the real world and subject to many kinds of behavioral disorders.

In addition, he said, there are 9 million Americans with "a serious drinking problem" and their number increases by about 200,000 annually. It is estimated that one child in five between ages 10 and 17 will wind up in juvenile court.

When you try to add in the neurotics, he said, the emotionally disturbed ones who don't wind up in the sicker categories, you get into figures regarding those affected "almost impossible to estimate."

"We need not continue this recital of figures for too long, but it should be clear that almost no family in the nation is entirely free of mental disorders," Rosenthal uaid. "Indeed, it may well be that the so-called 'normal' person, with respect to mental health, does not represent a norm at all, but rather an ideal — relatively rare — that most of us would like to achieve."

Rosenthal said inherited genetic traits have been implicated to some extent in homosexuality as well as in alcoholism and other "affective" or emotional departures from what is loosely called the norm.

"Genetic analysis is still a tough and difficult business, but we "seem to be making some progress," Rosenthal said.

In the case of criminality, Rosenthal listed ways in "which different types of genes can contribute to a common behavioral disorder." These include abnormal brain waves, low I.Q., a characteristic body build, chromosomal oddities and a psychopathic personality.

Kennedy's Name On Ballot Upheld

EUGENE, Ore. (UPI)—A circuit court judge Monday upheld the right of Oregon's secretary of state to place the name of Sen. Edward Kennedy, D-Mass., on the state's May 23 primary ballot.

Eugene attorney Charles O. Porter had filed a suit asking that Kennedy's name be removed from the ballot, arguing that Secretary of State Clay Myers had not followed the state's Administrative Procedures Act for choosing potential candidates to be listed.

Lane County Circuit Court Judge Edwin Allen ruled the act did not apply to Myers' responsibility for listing candidates.

HOW TO PLAY

WINNING BRIDGE

By ALFRED SHEINWOLD

Fast Clock Isn't Admired And Same Applies To Bridge

We don't admire a clock that is fast, but one that is on time. The same principle applies to the play of a bridge hand. There is little virtue in making a play quickly if you have chosen the wrong time to make it.

NEED RUFFS

West opened the king of spades. The singleton diamond would have been more effective, but West thought he didn't need ruffs with his strong trumps behind a suit that had been bid and rebid.

South won with the ace of spades and led a trump toward dummy. West played low, and dummy won with the queen. East's club discard showed South that he had to get to his hand and lead another trump toward dummy. Unluckily for him, South got to his hand with the ace of diamonds.

Now East stepped up with the ace of hearts, cashed the queen of spades and hopefully led a low club. East won with the king of clubs and returned a diamond for his partner to ruff, defeating the contract.

TIME THE CLUB

South made his mistake when he led a diamond to his aie. The correct play is to give up a club trick then and there.

There's no real chance of saving that club trick. When West takes his ace of hearts, he will surely cash the queen of spades and lead a club.

EAST GAINS NOTHING

What is the advantage of leading a club early? The trick is given to East before he can give his partner a ruff. East gains nothing by leading a diamond, since West must still follow suit.

South can get to his hand to lead a second trump toward dummy either with a diamond or by ruffing a club.

$83 Million In Junk On Moon

SPACE CENTER, Houston (UPI)—The Apollo 16 explorers Sunday left an $83 million junk pile on the moon.

John W. Young and Charles M. Duke Jr. abandoned an $8 million moon buggy, a $25 million scientific instrument package, the descent half of the lunar module and assorted other pieces of equipment valued at about $30 million.

The lunar rover was a "lemon" its first two days on the moon, but performed so well Sunday that Young and Duke hated to leave it behind.

And, the spent third stage Saturn rocket, costing $20 million, crashed on the moon a week ago.

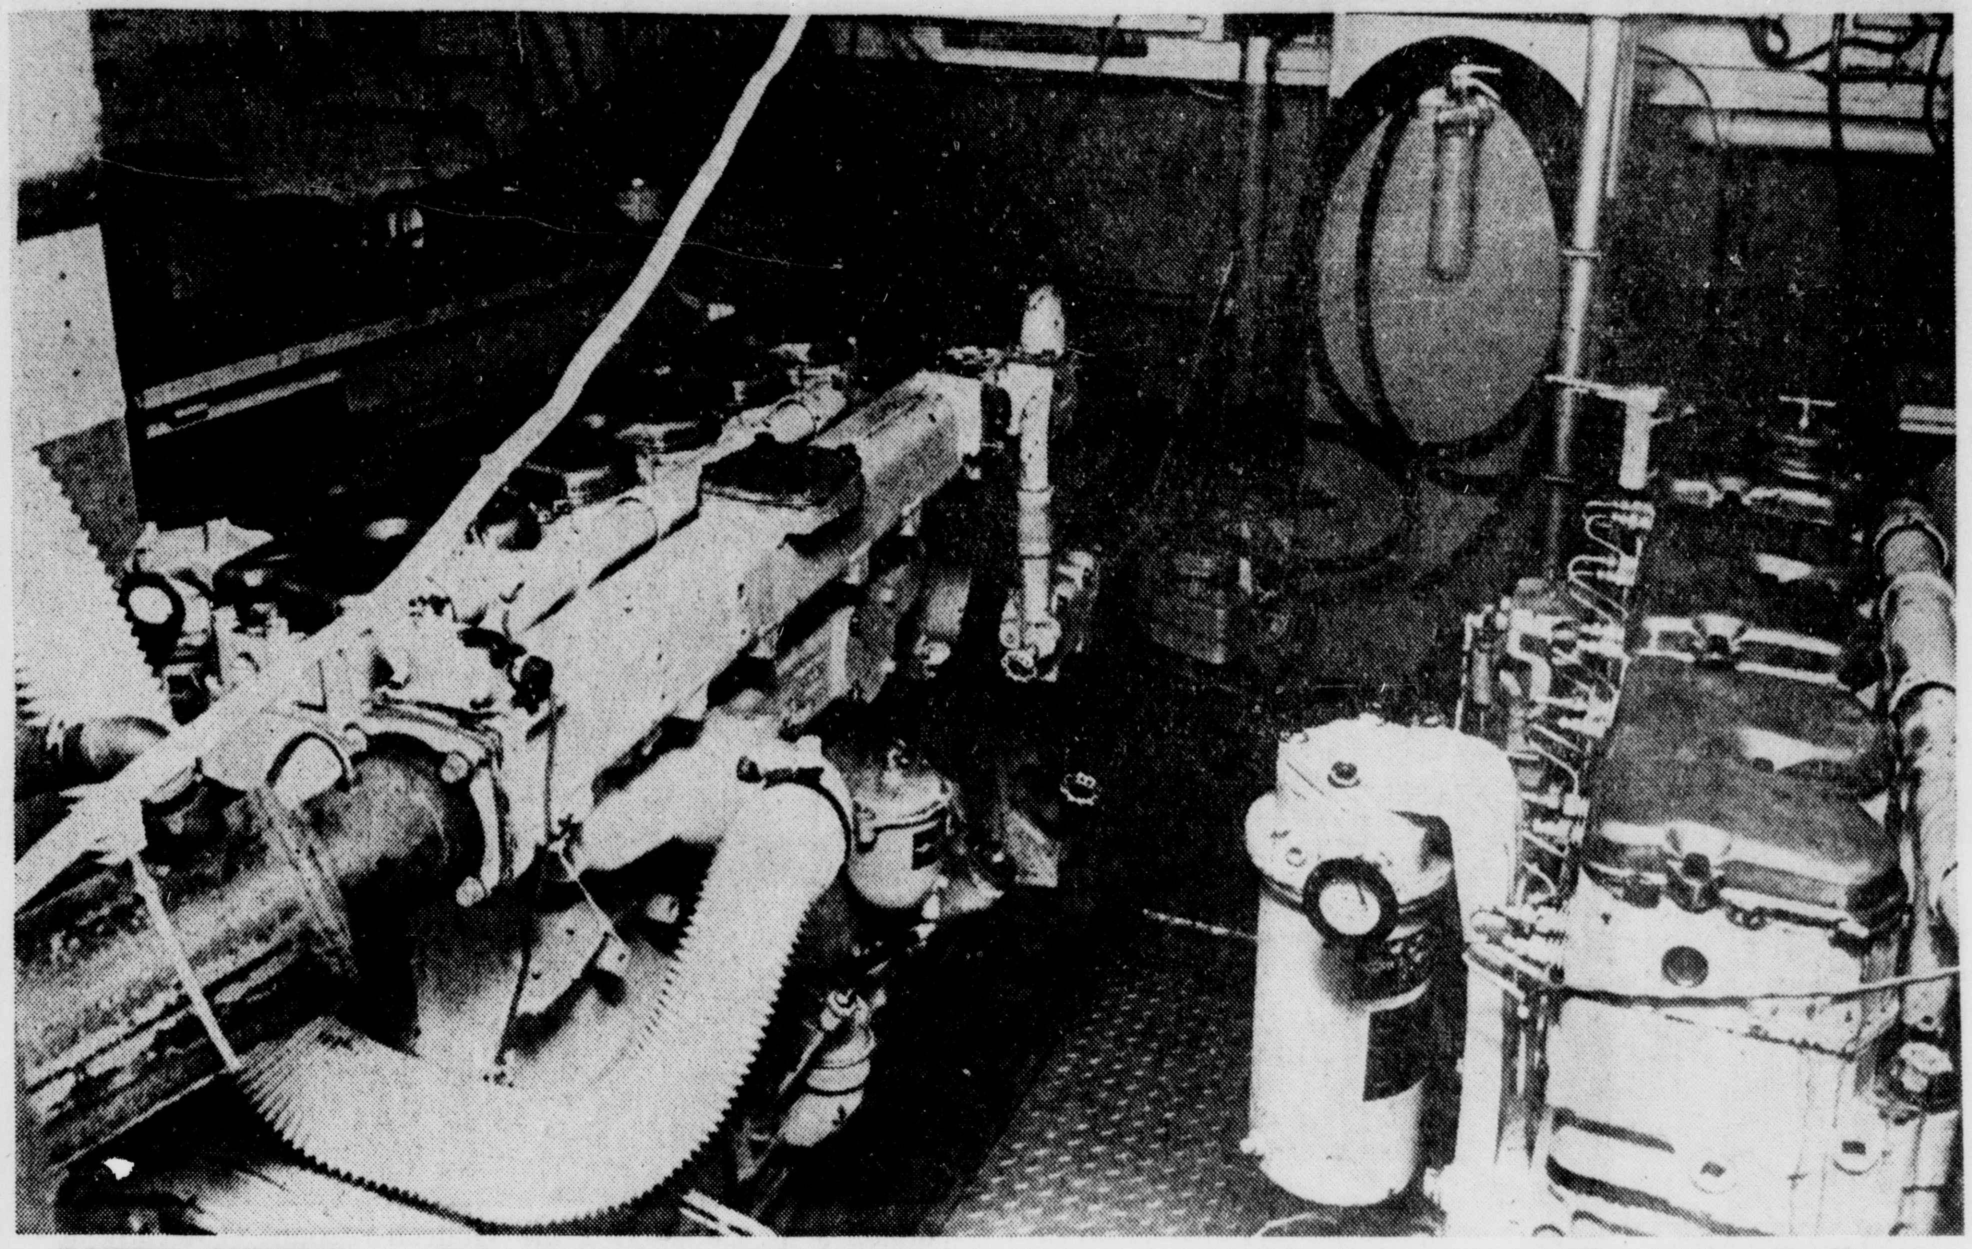
DOCK SIDE — Odus Hayes, the Sausalito yacht maintenance man who brought the Princess Mary down from Seattle, stands on the boat's foredeck in the Sausalito Yacht Harbor.



POWER SUPPLY — Twin Cummings 175-horsepower diesels, installed in 1970, are the heart of the boat, which can reach up to 15 knots. The ship also has a dumbwaiter to carry food directly from the galley to the wheelhouse which in turn is connected with the captain's quarters.

The Princess Is On The Block

By MARC NURRE

Like the bridegroom who marries an experienced woman, the new master of the Princess Mary won't have any right to question her past.

The fact that Ernest Hemingway's signature appears in one of her early logbooks, the fact that she's cruised all over the world, the fact that she comes equipped with a special honeymoon cabin on her aft deck, the fact that she's changed her name at least once —all these things will have to remain a mystery.

They'll have to, because nobody knows much about them. And the princess, nee Maria Dolores, isn't talking.

She sits now at berth 2E of the Sausalito Yacht Harbor waiting to be auctioned Friday for unpaid taxes. Preview showing will be tomorrow.

Her owners, Guy O. and Beverly Foss of Seattle, Wash., bought her from a young man in Seattle and have never done much research on her history. What they, and others, do know about her comes from papers left on board by her many owners. They discovered Hemingway's name in the logbook,but can't account for it.

Built in 1919 at the Blanchard Yard in Seattle, she is 92 feet long, 14 feet wide and weighs 56 gross and 33 net tons. Papers show she has been lengthened once, and received two new 175-horsepower engines in 1970.

A dumbwaiter runs from the galley to the bridge, and she is centrally heated and has been outfitted with electronic navigation equipment and depth-sounding gear.

Like a mini-skirted old lady, her interior is part modern with new shag carpeting and colorful upholstered chairs in contrast to detailed woodwork of the walls. An upholstered settee amidships and open to the weather allows for comfortable traveling in good weather.

She does show her age, however. Varnish is peeling from some parts of the decking and fittings are corroded in some places.

Odus Hayes, Sausalito boat maintenance man who brought her down from Seattle for Foss, said she rolls in heavy seas, but otherwise runs well.

"It's a narrow boat," he said.

"It's known to be a roller." He said she can hit 15 knots.

The trip from Seattle took three days, he said, beginning in Lake Union, through the locks into Puget Sound and then southward, hugging the coast.

"That's a bad trip just about any time of the year," he said, but he had no problems making it.

Foss, an insurance and investment counselor, owes about $17,000 in federal taxes, according to tax records in the Marin County recorder's office, which is the reason the princess, and her history, are up for auction by the Internal Revenue Service.

ABOARD PRINCESS MARY — Well cared for paneling (left) on the ship's interior contrasts with a modern shag carpet and bright upholstery in the honeymoon cabin, accessible through a rear deck door. The galley (center) looks like any landbound kitchen and is beneath the wheelhouse. Racks to hold glasses during rough seas are installed in the rear of the galley. View from the wheelhouse shows the care which went into the ship's construction. Throttles are to the left, instruments on the front panel, and compass to the right.

NEW VOTE COUNT — In a scene to be repeated often in Marin in the wake of the April 11 municipal elections, Tiburon officials conduct a recount of ballots for the city council. The recount affirmed that Anne L. Ellinwood (in background, chatting with unidentified man) had lost her council seat. Conducting the Tiburon recount yesterday at city hall were (seated) Gertrude Schleiger, Vivienne Winblad, Dorothy Levitan (hidden) and Harry Matthews, while Asst. City Clerk Louise Mirata watched over table. The woman (left) with sunglasses was unidentified.

Cotati Council Approves Subdivision; Split Vote

The Cotati City Council last night approved two more subdivision units with its two young councilmen complaining of frustration and abstaining in the vote.

Stephen Laughlin and Geoffrey Dunham said they could not legally vote against the final maps for the Holiday Park subdivision because there was no substantive discrepancy with the tentative map as approved by the former council.

They said, however, that they could not vote in favor of the plans because they were elected on a platform to preserve Cotati's rural character.

"It should be noted that the configuration of the Holiday Park development is contrary to the character of this community," they said in a joint statement. "In light of the above we have chosen, with no lack of frustration, to abstain on the matter."

The newcomers chided the former council for approving the tentative maps and said that if some of the former councilmen had abided by conflict of interest laws, there would not have been a quorum to vote on the development. No councilmen or points of conflict were named.

Councilmen Frank P. Dolinsek and Herbert Winter gave the plans two favorable votes against the two abstentions in the 10-minute meeting. Councilman-elect Annette Lombardi is still in Europe and did not attend.

In other business, the council named Laughlin as its liaison to the plannning commission.

French Report Mikes In Nets

CHERBOURG, France (UPI) —Maritime authorities said today fishermen have found microphones in their nets in the same area where the French atomic submarine La Terrible is scheduled to make a test run in May.

The maritime officials said a Soviet fishing fleet appeared two months ago in this area off the Normandy coast. Fishermen at the time questioned its presence because the season was too late for herring and too soon for mackerel, the officials said.

The officials said naval security personnel and the Defense de Securite Territoire, the French secret service, were investigating the mysterious brick-colored plastic objects, the size of a fist, which contained tiny wires and were attached to a thick cable.

Tiburon Council Votes Freeze On Development in R-3 Zones

By a 4-1 vote, the Tiburon City Council last night adopted an urgency ordinance to control development in the city's R-3 zones while proposed zoning ordinance changes are being developed. (Another Tiburon City Council story, page 1.)

The council took the action over the protests of owners of a 15.6-acre parcel of land behind the Tiburon Peninsula Club and asked the planning commission to give priority to rezoning the land.

The ordinance had been proposed at an earlier meeting by Councilman Branwell D. Fanning to put an end to approval of such developments as condominium housing by only the city's design review board, as presently allowed.

Dissenting Councilman M. Carlisle Becker said he thought the R-3 zones in the city were small, and already developed to such an extent that "we're taking an action which is tantamount to closing the barn after the horse is out."

Councilmen also passed another urgency ordinance which included 12 more parcels, or 14 acres, of land near Hacienda Drive in a building moratorium until plans for open space acquisition are final.

But the council in the same ordinance provided that a procedure for obtaining a use permit variance on the frozen land be established, and that the procedure not restrict the owner from applying for the number of buildings which would normally be allowed on the property by present zoning ordinances if the 14 acres were considered as one parcel.

The council adopted the amendment to the ordinance over the cautioning of City Atty. Robert I. Conn, who said that the amendment was contradictory to the ordinance, and that since such a variance did not exist for other land frozen by the city, an inequity might exist.

The Tiburon City Council Also:

BLACKIE'S PASTURE — Authorized new mayor Albert H. Sennett to sign formal agreement with Samuel Shapero and the Tiburon Peninsula Foundation for acquisition of Blackie's Pasture. The acquisition was previously approved in principle by the council.

SERAFINO ANNEXATION — Annexed a 10-foot-by-150-foot strip of land at 5070 Paradise Drive owned by Anthony Serafino. The city had been asked by the Marin Local Agency Formation Commission to annex the property as a condition of it also being annexed to the Tiburon Sanitation District.

FINANCIAL CONSULTANT — Introduced newly-hired city financial consultant Vernon Perry, who said he would work on plans for general obligation bonds which could finance the acquisition of much of the city's open space, and would have a report on the possibilities within 60 days.

LINEAL PARK — Postponed until its May 8 meeting discussion of hiring a landscape architect to design a master plan for the Richardson Bay lineal park.

RETIREMENT CONTRACT — Amended the city's contract with the public employees' retirement system to include the city's new police department members.

HORSE PASTURE — Set May 22 as the hearing date for a nuisance abatement hearing on horses presently pastured on the Congregational Church property at 175 Rock Hill Road.

CAMPING ORDINANCE — Postponed until its May 8 meeting consideration of a redrafted ordinance prohibiting camping on private property within the city.

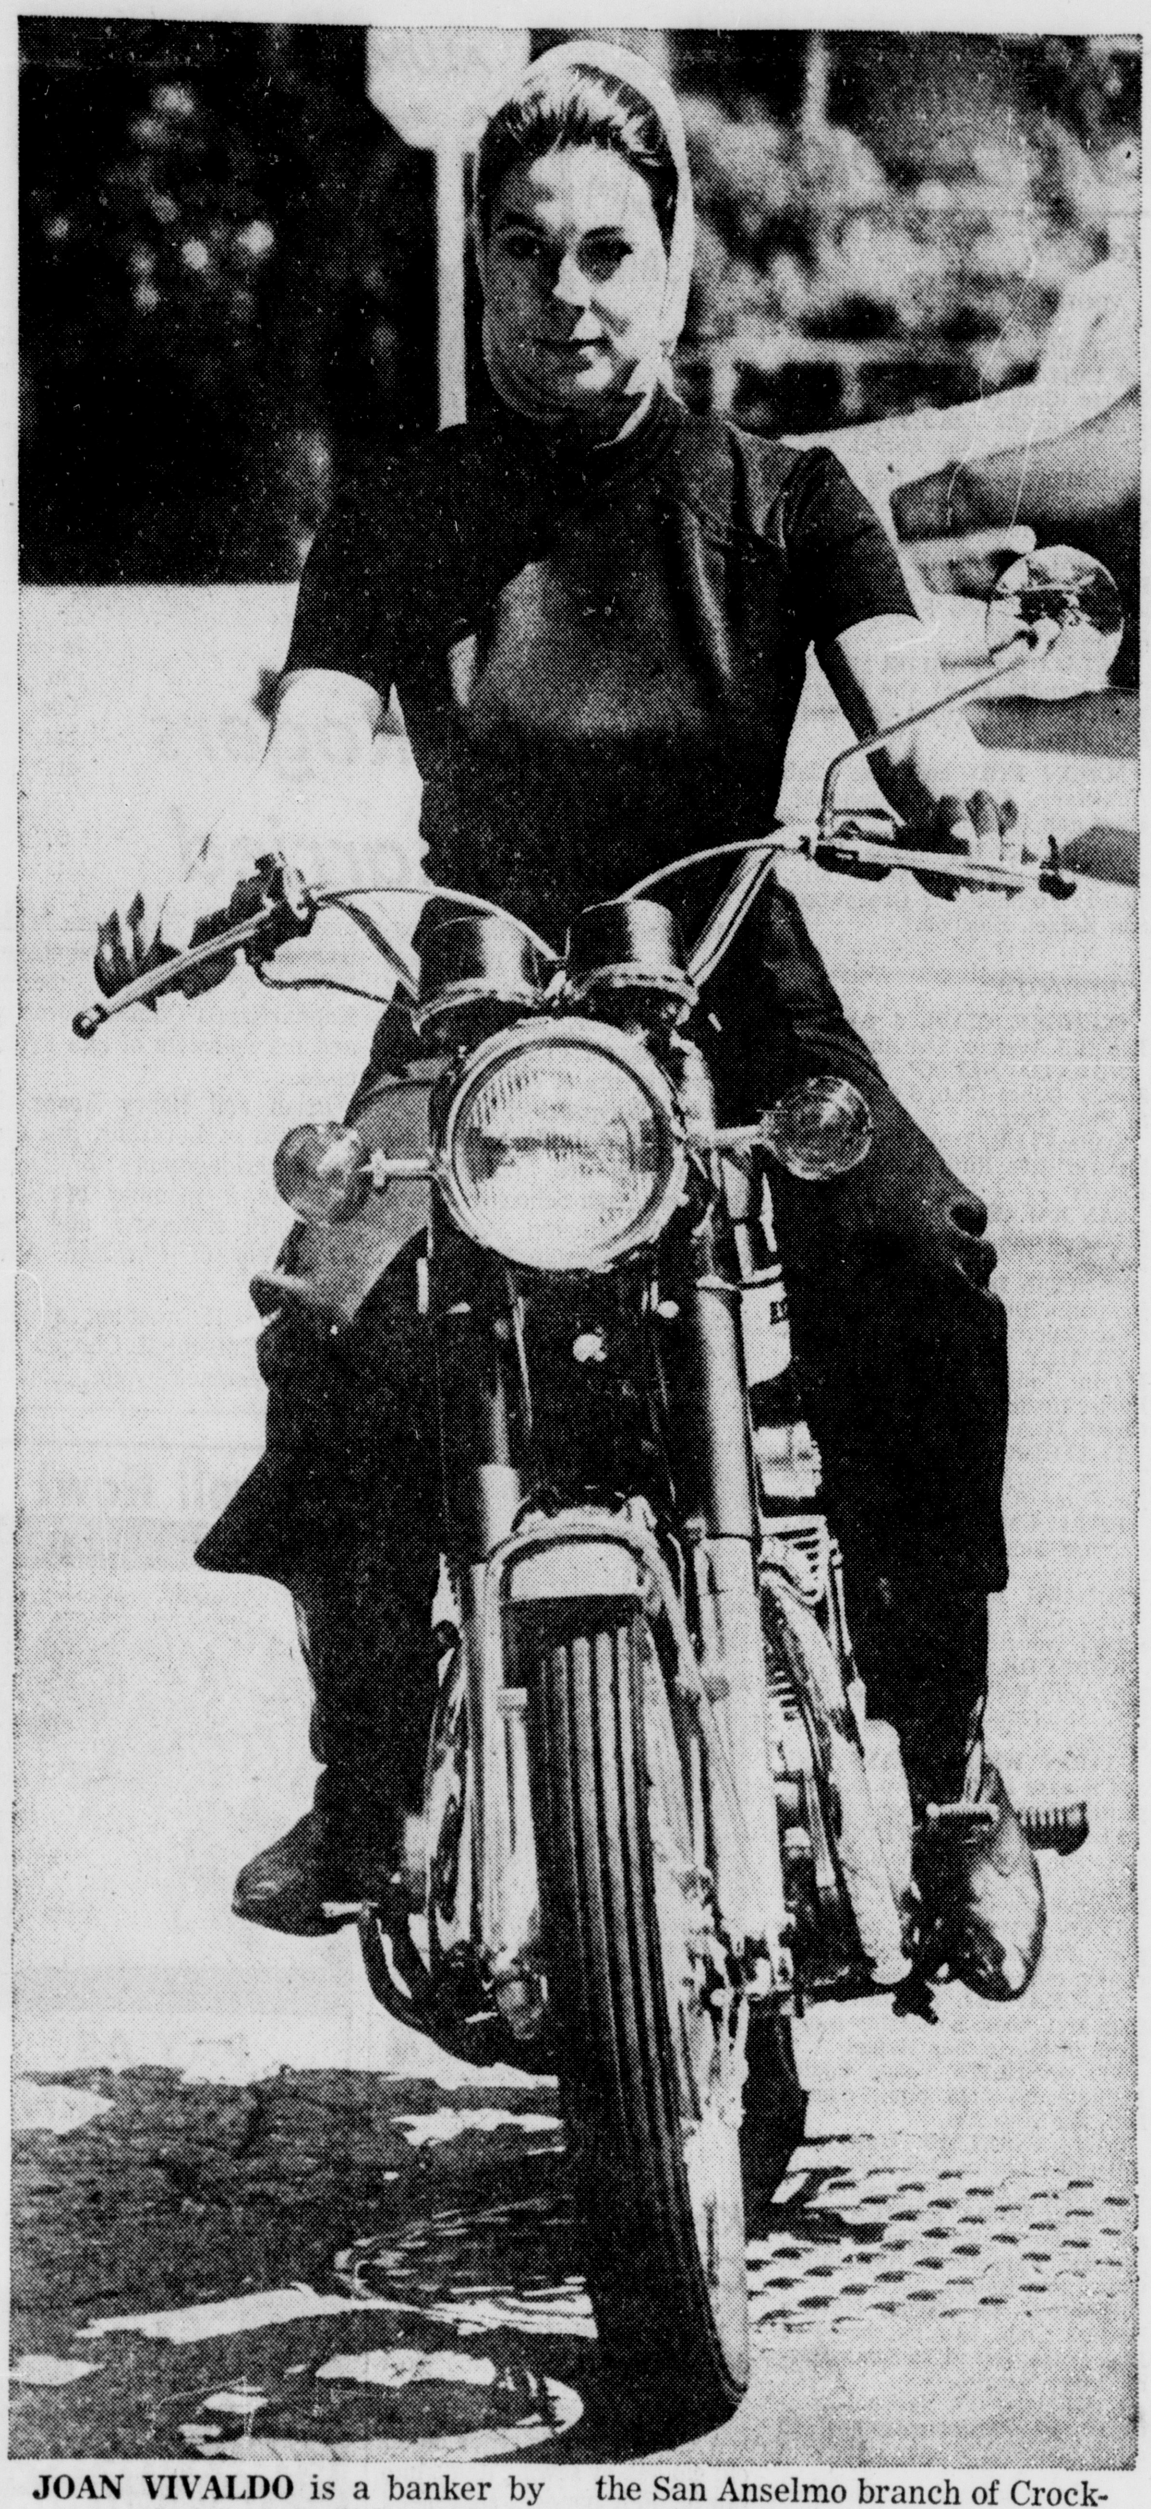
Marin Women



JOAN VIVALDO is a banker by career, but in her off hours loves to ride the Marin hills on her bike. Now assistant manager of the San Anselmo branch of Crocker Bank, Joan at 27, looks forward to a long career in banking.

Promotion Was A Surprise For Bank's New Assistant Manager

By BARBARA HOSMER

At age 27 Joan B. Vivaldo is surprised to find herself assistant manager of a bank branch office.

In 1969 Joan was transferred from the Fairfax branch of Crocker Bank to the San Anselmo branch as a utility clerk. Then, last December, she was promoted to assistant manager of the eight-employee branch.

"Yes, I was surprised to advance that quickly," she said, adding that the recent government orders to upgrade women employees might well have had something to do with it.

She did it without coming up the usual route as a manager-trainee, and she believes her breakthrough came when, as a commercial and savings teller, she was performing operations supervisory work "without the title."

Now she takes charge of branch operations, "helping out the operations section of the bank and overseeing the clearing out of paperwork at the end of the day."

She also has the authority to approve loans, which she didn't have as a platform assistant.

Now in her fifth year, Joan enjoys her banking career.

"I like the ways it comes out even each day," she said, adding, "hopefully."

Joan first began with the bank in Fairfax, riding her 350 Honda to work from her San Anselmo home. She worked as a commercial accounts clerk, a proof clerk, and then as a commercial savings and loan teller.

A graduate of San Rafael High School, she attended City College of San Francisco and College of Marin, taking night school courses at College of Marin in physics, genetics and lapidary — "I really liked doing that," she said with a laugh.

She also has taken courses from the American Institute of Banking, which offers accounting, bank operations, commercial law, speed reading, installment credit and bank management and other related subjects.

Joan still rides her Honda on weekends and, as a member of the board of directors of the San Anselmo Chamber of Commerce, looks forward to San Anselmo Country Days — "I'll be in the food booth selling hotdogs."

Joan is also recording secretary of the Credit Women of Marin and has been publicity chairman for the Marin County American Institute of Banking.

Her parents are residents of Peacock Gap. Her sister has worked for Wells Fargo Bank and her brother-in-law was with Redwood Bank, which, Joan said, "meant my family had to distribute their bank accounts around."

Swimming and reading are favorite activities in her leisure time.

Asked if she intended to make banking her entire career, Joan replied with enthusiasm, "Yep, retirement's in 2009."

She admits that to some, banking still has a staid image. But she disagrees.

Once, she said, a man came in with a wooden door made out as a check. "We had to tell him that the machines were not set up to process anything like that.

Gives The Eye Definite Shape

For depth, the crease hollow is emphasized by stroking back and forth, reaching above it and out. Then, using the narrow sponge end, square off the corner and bring color down to meet outer end of the eye. Fill in between with more shading. Pull blue along under eye in one stroke, and deepen the color of the crease with violet.

Wedding Day And Its Crises

By PATRICIA McCORMACK

NEW YORK (UPI) — The chapel lights dim. "Oh Promise Me" has been sung. The guests stand at attention for the bridal procession.

So what happens?

The bride won't go into the chapel. She's got cold feet or stage fright—or both.

The bridegroom, maybe he's holding things up by noticing that he's got on bedroom slippers. Or he remembers the wedding rings are in another suit.

A man who's been kind of a "father of the bride" at 10,000 weddings cited those and other hitches in an interview about wedding day crises. Stanley Lewin, president of Continental Hosts Ltd., has taken care of large and small details as caterer to all Kinds of weddings in the metropolitan New York area.

To get that hotel wedding off on the right foot when the bridegroom showed up in bedroom slippers, the banquet manager lent his own patent leather pumps. They were a little large but much preferred to a pair too small.

LEWIN SAYS cases of lost items aren't so easy. One bridegroom, looking for his car keys, took all the papers out of his pocket and put them on the roof of his car. He retrieved the keys, then drove off, letting his marriage license fly to one of the four winds. Special dispensation from the mayor of New Rochelle was required to get that wedding ceremony into the records.

In recalling another "lost" item, Lewin tells of the father of the bride who, standing at the front of the chapel, literally lost his pants down to the ankles in the midst of the ceremony.

The dignified gent looked neither to right or left as the much too large pants with the rented tux slipped. And in just as dignified a stance he retrieved the trousers after the bride and bridegroom said their "I dos."

ONCE HE took a bridegroom

Once he took a bridegroom aside and told him—"Brother, I wouldn't wear those boots if I were you." "Oh, don't worry," the bridegroom said. "I'm wearing these for the ceremony." He held up sneakers.

Uniform Program

Charts appearing on pantyhose packages enable a consumer to tell the proper size garment, but these chart designs and size ranges vary from manufacturer to manufacturer. For this reason the National Association of Hosiery manufacturers has recommended a standardized program, which will soon be used in virtually every hosiery plant in the country, according to association spokesmen.

Marin College Series On Budget Stretching

Two lecture series for families trying to stretch the budget to include minimal needs in Marin will be offered by the College of Marin, beginning this week.

Tonight at 7:30, the course will begin at San Rafael High School, and on Thursday at 7:30 p.m. it will be offered at Novato High School.

Robin Sparks, the instructor, has surveyed the community to establish needs and interest areas for such consumer information.

Her first lecture will focus on the supermarket and the buying of foods. It will cover food stamp purchase and ways in which food can be obtained in Marin on an emergency basis. She will also discuss comparing food prices and reading labels and new information on health foods and organic food.

The series will continue weekly at both locations, Tuesday in San Rafael, an Thursday in Novato.

May 11 both classes will meet together for a food demonstration at the Pacific Gas and Electric Co. auditorium in San Rafael.

The series will cover clothing and sewing, low cost meals, cost of credit, loans available, appliances and home furnishings and the housing scene in Marin.

No fee will be charged. Registration may be made through the College of Marin vocational education office.

GENERATION RAP

DEAR HELEN AND SUE:
"Longing Adoptive Parent" who urged unwed mothers to give their babies up for adoption, got more brickbats than bouquets, but here's the other side: We've been waiting two years for our child and my caseworker says we'll be lucky if we can adopt for at least another year. We didn't specify "perfect, white, and under a year old" — we were willing to accept a partially handicapped, white or Indian child up to two years old.

Helen, you suggested trying for "hard to place" children — older youngsters, mixed-race babies, etc. It's very easy tc tell someone who is adopting not to be too fussy, but it's cruel to tell them they should take anything available. Even psychiatrists agree it takes a very special couple to raise an interracial child. It is also difficult for older youngsters to adjust to a new family, and vice versa. — 24 MONTHS PREGNANT AND STILL WAITING

DEAR RAP:
The real culprit in the shortage of adoptive babies is I abortion. If a girl becomes pregnant, she should shelter her own child long enough to allow him life — either with her or with two parents who could give him so very much. Legalized abortion (over 160,000 babies exterminated in New York state alone last year) is robbing man"longing adoptive parents" of children they would love and cherish -- G.K.

DEAR RAP:
Bully for you two — who suggested adopting "hard to place" older children if babies weren't available any more.

I just sent a college graduation gift to the adopted daughter of a friend. This girl was adopted at age four, with a terrible history of sadness and mistreatment at the hands of a drunken mother and a series of "fathers." After the traumatic first year of adjustment, the girl blossomed to her full potential. She's a fine, talented, loving, beautiful person, and her parents consider themselves the luckiest of people.

I see the 15-year-old adopted son of friends — he's vice president of his student body — who came to them at the age of five, with a diagnosis of nearly total autism (complete withdrawal from the world). Did they have a hard time? You bet! He wouldn't talk for six months. But you should see him now!

One of my students is almost totally deaf, the adopted daughter of a couple who were "too old" for a baby. She's highly successful, charming, and plans a career teaching normal children. When these folks took her, they were warned of possible mental retardation (which turned out to be only deafness). What would have happened to her in an institution?

I can think of at least 10 children, adopted when they were over three, who are enriching the lives of barren parents with the guts to face challenge. More genuine "family love" between parents and children is hard to find.

With all the "unwanted" children needing families, I have nothing but pity for two humans who must ask why a pregnant teenager won't give up her baby. Not that I advocate always keeping the baby: young unwed mothers sometimes don't make the best parents, and they must face their decision squarely.

I only say: If you really want a child, don't limit yourselves when so many hard-to-place children are waiting. — MOTHER, FRIEND AND TEACHER

DEAR HELEN AND SUE:
I am a single mother. In the beginning I had many doubts and fears, but I loved my baby and chose to keep her. She will never suffer from having just one parent. I work hard but my life is meaningful, never empty. I have never once regretted keeping her, and I never will. Nor, I believe, will she ever regret that I did! — A.R.

DINNER AND dancing for four? Why not plan your dining room furnishings to allow room for post-dinner exercise? This move might quickly convert. Just move the Baker Sheraton-inspired table, and Louis XVI chairs out of stage center and invite your dancingest friends. The corner cupboard, also by Baker, is another space-saving idea for a convertible dining room.

INSIDE YOUR HOME

Turn Dining Space To Dancing Room

By CAROLYN S. MURRAY
General Features Corp.

In crusading against misused space at home, the dining room has been my pet target. Recently, I saw an interesting solution to the multiple-use idea for a family dining room and the idea is worth passing on, particularly since it also provides some room for physical activity.

The owners had been dancing teachers in their youth, but during recent years they had drifted away from dancing except when they had an opportunity to go out on the town. They attended a Glenn Miller "revival meeting" a few months ago and rediscovered the joy of dancing together and watching other couples dance while they rested.

THEIR DINING room was arranged in the traditional way: central placement for the table, low-hung chandelier and wall-to-wall carpeting. No place for dancing after dinner in that situation.

They decided to take up the carpeting and install a handsome parquet floor that would make a good surface for dancing. Without the carpeting the room seemed to need color value, so they had the walls painted a warm russet color with white molding and trim. They raised the lighting fixture and added two spotlights on the ceiling. Finally they replaced the dining table and chairs in the central spot.

Now they merely move their table and chairs aside for their dancing sessions and no one worries about the hazard of clobbering a head on the chandelier. Two speakers have been hooked up to their living room stereo system, so they can have low-key dinner music plus all the accouterments of a mini ballroom.

DINNER GUESTS are really quick to accept an invitation since they know the evening will not disintegrate into a political hassle or a split between male and female conversationalists.

The nicest bonus has been the crossbreeding of ideas and dance styles between two generations. Now the three teenage youngsters expect their parents to stick around and share in the dance program, and some neighbors have added post-dinner dancing to their entertaining plans. It's better than all that solitary jogging!

Heart Disease More Likely

Men are 10times more susceptible to heart disease than women, according to Dr. Albert H. Domm, medical director for the western office of Prudential Insurance Co.

The number of wives outliving their husbands is increasing, and in the past decade the number of women in the 65-plus bracket has increased by nearly 29 per cent.

In the over-65 age group, seven out of 10 women are widows, contrasted with the three in 10 men who are widowers.

Dress Designer Dresses Up The Streets

By GAY PAULEY

NEW YORK (UPI)—"You wouldn't neglect your house. Why neglect your town?"

MOLLIE PARNIS
Speaking bluntly

Mollie Parnis, fashion designer of renown, speaks bluntly about the role of citizens in improving their surroundings. Miss Parnis, whose business is dressing elegant women, is putting $25,000 cash into dressing up New York City.

"Big cities can do only so much," said the designer. "Now it's up to the people to pitch in. You don't throw litter around in the apartment or house. Why do you throw litter on the streets?

"If the sanitation department cleans a street and two hours later, it's a garbage heap, it is not the city's fault.

"Training really should begin in school," she said, noting that most European cities stay clean because the children are taught from toddler age to use trash containers.

"WOMEN TODAY are the ones showing special concern," said Miss Parnis in an interview. "Despite Women's Lib, they're still the housekeepers. Poor city houskeeping bothers them esthetically."

You can cite examples by the dozen in almost any city where women have taken the lead in improving neighborhoods. In New York for instance, Mrs. Albert Lasker funded the initial plantings on the islands on Park Avenue, turning them into seasonal flower beds by the acre. Mrs. Jean Mauze, sister of Gov. Nelson A. Rockefeller,gave a vest pocket park. Mrs. Vincent Astor donated a playground.

Miss Parnis put her clean-up campaign to work with a $25,000 check to the office of Mayor John V. Lindsay. The money will be used for prizes ranging from $500 to $750 to tenants' groups, block associations, schools and colleges, apartment houses and stores that do the best clean-up and beautifying of their neighborhoods by July 1.

Then in September, the prizewinning neighborhoods will be re-examined and prizes of $1,000 more will be given to each of the two groups showing the best sustained effort. Judges will include Miss Parnis and John DeLury, head of the Uniformed Sanitationmen's Association.

THE DESIGNER, whose clothes are in the wardrobes of several First Ladies, said the "dress up your neighborhood" project actually stemmed from a visit to Jerusalem in 1967 after the war. To help in block-to-block restoration, she gave $25,000 to Jerusalem's mayor. The prizes in this case are paid from interest on the principal.

"Then" she recalled, "I ran into John Lindsay one evening socially and was telling him about the success of the Jerusalem project."

The mayor told her, "You know, I think the cities have done about all they can do. Now it's up to the citizens."

Miss Parnis, a dyed-in-the-wool New York booster, thought the apathy of citizens in every urban area grew from the fact that "until recently, people knew that someone else did things for you. It applies to schools, parks, neighborhoods...."

Since her project was announced she's heard from concerned citizens in other cities by phone or letter and said she's quite willing to outline for any group how the New York plan is run through the city's Environmental Protection Administration.

SHE WAS surprised at "the number of secretaries of executives who've called to say, 'What can I do?'"

Said the designer, "Well, you can plant a tree in front of your house but you really need neighborhood cooperation. Form a block association."

(The designer lives in an apartment on Manhattan's upper East Side where the area for decades has been dressed up. No block association is needed).

"I am convinced," said Miss Parnis, "that people do want to improve their surroundings. All they need is a boost."

Some Words By Mr. Kenneth

Finding a good hairdresser is not easy, according to coiffeur Mr. Kenneth. If you see someone with a hair style you like, ask her who did her hair, he advises.

He said he disapproves of women who walk into a salon and make an appointment with whomever is free.

This applies mostly to hair cuts, he said, because a set can always be washed out, but you will be stuck with a poor haircut for months.

Double The Life

A piece of aluminum foil placed between the ironing board pad and the cover will make your ironing go faster and double the life of your cover.

Be our guest in the White House

You will know as much as anyone about what goes on in the White House and in the Presidency by the simple act of reading the I-J. (Only the President and intimates will know more).

For the I-J, through its United Press International reporters, is virtually "in residence" as much as the President. Which makes you our welcome guest to the White House.

Our reporters are constantly alert to staff and cabinet meetings, to affairs of international import, to the diplomatic front, to the comings and goings which make the White House a world center of significant news. The job is sensitive. It requires a sixth sense to know when news of major concern is about to break. And concern in how to "break" it accurately and without bias.

Be our guest and stay as long as you like. Our columns lead right to the White House.

Young Musicians Plan Scholarship Benefit

The Orchestra Piccola will present a concert Sunday at 3 p.m. at the Outdoor Art Club in Mill Valley as a benefit sponsored by the Club for its $250 music scholarship. The award will be presented at this time to the winner of auditions held on April 23.

DANCE REVIEW

Xoregos — A New, Dynamic Vitality

By MARIE RAMEAU

SAN FRANCISCO — Something's new in San Francisco — a pocket-size modern dance troupe in the Attic, atop an old warehouse on the city's waterfront. There, these dancers study, rehearse and perform to capacity crowds.

The group is the Xoregos Dance Company, a fixture on the San Francisco scene for several years and now demonstrating a new and dynamic vitality. It is producing sensational results.

What particularly distinguished this group is its strong and authentic historical content, as in a recent program which opened with Klarna Pinska's revival of Doris Humphrey's "Soaring," to Robert Schumann's romantic piano composition of the same title. The work, originally staged for the Denishawn Company in 1922, was given its first professional presentation in 50 years when the Xoregos company began its 1972 spring season in March. Because this work has been neither notated nor filmed, Klarna Pinska has reconstructed from memory of the 1930s, when she taught at the Denishawn House in New York.

Among the earliest of modern dances, the choreography's deceptive simplicity masks the stylistic delicacy and airiness no longer endorsed by most contemporary dancers, followers of the Martha Graham tradition; hence the dance's long retirement. The focal point is the huge, floating blue scarf deftly manipulated by four dancers, while a fifth, originally Doris Humphrey, this time radiant Linda Dobson, dances in the center. All wear exact replicas of the modern leotard's prototype, the silk jersey "flushings" of the 1920s.

Director Shela Xoregos's "Turning" superficially resembles Jerome Robbin's "The Cage," staged for the New York City Ballet in the early 1950s. Both were inspired by Franz Kafka's "Metamorphosis," but there the similarity ends. "Turning," unlike "The Cage," is choreographically strong enough to stand by itself with no vestiges of the latter's plot, in which a female insect devours the male.

Also, Miss Xoregos's musical selection was far more challenging — the electronic "De Natura Sonoris" by Polish and avante-garde Kristof Penderecki. Guest artist Grace Doty, former prima ballerina of Pacific Ballet, and powerful Glenn-Charles Musagetes, formerly of San Francisco Ballet, despite their classical training, made an astonishing transition to the very different — and difficult — idioms of modern dance at its best.

Mary Shelton's "Poem" was danced a capella by Miss Xoregos, whose mastery of dance forms defies imagination. It appears she never stops moving and her every movement is like a deep breath or a poetic line. On the other hand, when she pauses in balance, she is still, and the pause becomes a silence. There was none of that up-tightness in her dancing seen in so many ballets.

The feature of the evening was choreographer-dancer Gary McKay's version of the Russian tale "Petrushka." Since Fokine first staged the ballet in the second decade of this century, few have attempted it since, and even fewer have succeeded. McKay scored a smashing success, utilizing most of the Stravinsky music. Costumes and a bare minimum of props were expertly designed and coordinated by Paul Shank.

Grace Doty gave a masterpiece of stylization: whimsical, brittle and mischievous as the ballerina doll. McKay danced the title role of the mad, sad puppet in the Shrovetide Fair, as if possessed by his lunatic passion for the ballerina. His performance was tragedy on a grand level.

The "Brahms Waltzes" (Opus 39) were staged by Charles Weidman in 1958 as a tribute to Doris Humphrey, "because these were the movements she loved and did so well herself." The dances, like the music, were strongly contrasting in mood, from velvety melancholy to exuberant joy. Shela Xoregos in her solos was exhilarating with her impulsive, spontaneous leaps and brilliant timing, and the four supporting dancers were splendid.

The Xoregos company does not attempt to expand into a large performing group, but prefers to remain a concert-size core of seven dancers. Their program was a revelation in the possibilities of concert dance.

"Petrushka" continues through Sunday evening at the Attic, and the group takes on another 20 dancers and actors for its full-length "Salome," which runs from Thursday through Sunday.

Drug Abuse Education Funds For Two Groups

Two groups in Marin County are among those who have received 817 grants under the federal Drug Abuse Education Act of 1970 for training of community drug abuse education teams, according to Department of Health, Education and Welfare officials.

One team, headed by county Drug Abuse Coordinator Lloyd Churgin, will include a juvenile officer, teacher, parent, and a high school student, Churgin said. This team, composed of Mill Valley residents, will work in conneciton with Edna Maguire School, he said.

The other team, headed by James Hull, a counselor at San Jose Junior High School in Novato, will include personnel from the school as well as representatives from Hamilton Air Force Base.

Both teams will receive grants of as yet undecided amounts for training at Mills College in Oakland, one of eight regional centers in the country for training in a program designed to help people in local communities combat drug abuse.

Times of the training have not been set yet, Chrugin and Hull said.

Village Square Owners Elect

Robert D. Satterwaite has been reelected president of the Village Square Association of Corte Madera, according to secretary Janice Valk.

She said D. G. Kimmell was elected vice president of the group, and Hanni Butter reelected treasurer.

The group also has voted to begin a membership drive May 1.

ANGELA LETTERS TO JACKSON READ

By MARY LEYDECKER

SAN JOSE — The jury in the Angela Davis case today heard a damp-browed prosecutor read aloud, the curious mixture of love and revolution in letters from Angela Davis to Soledad Brother Geroge Jackson.

But an 18-page document — variously described as a letter or a diary and said to contain the most explicit expressions of Miss Davis's feelings for Jackson — was not allowed in evidence.

The document, found in Jackson's San Quentin cell after he died in a bloody escape attempt at San Quentin last August was ruled out at least temporarily by Judge Richard E. Arnason.

The judge told prosecutor Albert W. Harris Jr., however, that if irrelevant material in the epistle is edited out, he might allow the jury to hear it at a later date.

The prosecution received another setback today when the judge said that he would not allow Lt. W. R. Sellmer, a San Quentin guard, to testify about what has been described as "love play" during a meeting between Jackson and Miss Davis last summer in a holding cell at the Marin Hall of Justice.

The prosecution contends that Miss Davis helped plan the escape attempt which ended in the August 1970 shoot-out in which Judge Harold J. Haley was killed, because of an overwhelming passion for Jackson.

Today Harris, frequently mopping his brow, read three "Dear George" letters in which Miss Davis combined phrases like "I have come to love you very deeply" with revolutionary rhetoric. "I regret that I am lying on the only warm spot in this big double bed," she wrote in one letter.

She described Jackson as a "beautiful black warrior" and spoke at length at how she viewed the role of the black woman in the revolution she advocated.

"We must learn how to rejoice when pigs' blood is spilled," she said. Again, speaking of her love, she wrote "Something in you has managed to break through the fortress I've erected around my soul." In another letter sent to Jackson in June 1970, Miss Davis wrote of trouble she said she had got into because of her involvement with the Soledad brothers and told him "there are beautiful plans ahead."

She said she had many things to talk to Jackson about and "it wouldn't be too cool to write them in a letter." Two of the letters were found in a search of Miss Davis's Los Angeles apartment after the shoot-out and the other was seized at Soledad prison. The judge ruled that both these seizures had been legally made.

He said today, however, that the testimony of Lieutenant Sellmer about the events during the holding cells would violate the attorney-client privilege, apparently because the conference had been held in order that Miss Davis and Jackson could confer together with their attorneys.

After the reading of the letters, which took Harris about half an hour, the court was recessed for a lengthy unexplained conference between the judge and the lawyers.

Hearings Are Completed In Fairfax Chief's Case

By MARY LEYDECKER

The longest running public attraction in Fairfax came to an end last night with fired Police Chief James R. Orr hearing himself described alternately as an alcoholic adulterer and as an upstanding lawman.

At the final hearing of Orr's appeal of his firing by City Administrator Robert E. Crowe, two attorneys took turns summing up their views of the evidence presented during 38 sessions in the Fairfax Women's Club.

The five-man Fairfax Board of Review now has 10 days to decide the fired chief's fate, but Chairman Freeman Blake, a neatly bearded high school teacher, said the board may ask for an extension of time.

During four hours of closing arguments, a faithful audience of about 50 persons listened to City Atty. Wallace S. Myers and Orr's lawyer, Leonard Shaw, trade jibes.

Myers, a lawyer of the old school with a flowing mane of graying hair, got two turns — with Shaw only allowed one argument, according to rules set up by the board.

Myers painted Chief Orr, who sat glumly slumped in a chair, as a man who not only incompetently and inefficiently ran his department but also was untrue to his "good and faithful wife" and was an alcoholic who was probably not cured.

Myers dwelt heavily on testimony concerning police clerk Marsha Kittelman, with whom Orr had been accused of having improper social relations and of showing favoritism.

"It was never his wife, but always Marsha Kittelman who went along with him to meetings and on overnight trips," Myers said of the chief. The city attorney said with disparaging inflection, "I don't know what they did, because I wasn't there."

He called Orr (who was described by his own attorney as not having had a drink in a year and a half), a man "who poured from the bottle without measure."

Orr suffered blackouts, Myers claimed, after drinking and he said that accounted for his not remembering certain incidents during his testimony.

In upholding Crowe's firing of Orr, Myers said, the city council "didn't want to take the responsibility of having a police chief who suffered blackouts."

He asked the board rhetorically if the members wanted to take the responsibility of rehiring Orr on the assumption "he's never going to have another drink."

Myers also listed Crowe's other charges against Orr — including ones that he failed to report two alcohol sale violations to proper state authorities, did not provide proper training for himself and his men, pointed a loaded gun at an officer and drank heavily.

Shaw, however, said that Orr was the victim of Crowe, a young city administrator who had been in office less than six months when he fired the chief.

He continuously referred to what he called Crowe's attempts to "get a little surgery accomplished" by firing Orr instead of helping him to improve the department.

Many of the charges were exaggerated in their seriousness, Shaw said, and gave "an insight into what Mr. Crowe was willing to do to carry out his goal."

As for Mrs. Kittelman, an attractive young woman clad last night in a lowcut peasant blouse, Shaw said there had not "been a shred of evidence" that the chief was unfaithful to his wife.

As a matter of fact, Shaw said, Mrs. Kittelman's husband, who sat beside her last night, and Mrs. Orr, quietly listening in the front row, were along on family vacations which the two couples took at Lake Berryessa.

"This whole case has been tried by inference," Shaw said, adding that Crowe and Myers "tried to leave a nasty, dirty image."

Shaw said that "the proof of the pudding is in the eating" and pointed out there have been no claim, no grand jury investigation nor any state or federal investigation of the Fairfax police department.

He concluded by saying that if the board does not restore Orr to his job, he will "forever be precluded from earning his living in law enforcement."

Kentfield Teachers Ask Raise

Kentfield School District teachers last night asked the district board for a 5.5 per cent pay increase for the 1972-73 school year.

William Tasca, chairman of the Certificated Employees Council, representing teachers, indicated teachers would present additional requests for changes in fringe benefits at the board's next meeting, according to Supt. Anthony G. Bacich.

The proposed salary schedule ranges from $7,720 per year for a beginning teacher to a maximum of $15,440 per year after 13 years, Bacich said. The current schedule runs from $7,320 to $14,640.

"No change was requested in the structure of the schedule," Bacich said, "only in dollar amounts." The current payroll for certificated personnel amounts to $875,000 he said, and the requested increase would amount to $55,000.

The Board also allocated $1,000 in the 1972-73 budget for a one-year lease with Encyclopedia Britannica Films to provide $5,000 worth of film strips, flat pictures and transparencies.

After lengthy discussion, it put over for further study a decision on whether to switch next school year from California Dental Service to General American Life for employee dental coverages.

Its next meeting is at 8 p.m. May 8 at Wolfe Grade School.

Dixie School Board To Discuss Leaves

Leave policies for teachers will be discussed by the Dixie School District board at a meeting at 8 p.m. tomorrow in the board room of the administration office at 35 Trellis Drive, San Rafael.

Other topics on the agenda include reports on various special teacher programs in elementary schools.

Sentence Issued For Burglary

George Zack Gaines, 20, of San Rafael was sentenced in Marin Superior Court yesterday to four months in jail and three years of probation by Judge Samuel W. Gardiner.

The sentence was part of a bargain whereby he pleaded guilty to a reduced charge of attempted burglary.

Sausalito Is Sued In Building Moratorium

Owners of 162 acres on Wolfback Ridge, noting a two-year history of frustration in their efforts to develop their land, yesterday filed suit against the City of Sausalito for $3.5 million, the value they place on the property.

The suit filed in Marin Superior Court claims the city has turned down five efforts to build homes and, most recently, clamped a one-year moratorium on residential building that runs until next March.

The suit on behalf of Mr. and Mrs. Edward R. Fitzsimmons of Berkeley, Mr. and Mrs. Frank W. Lynch of San Jose and Dorothea Melchers of Bangkok, Thailand, claims their plan was the only one in the works at the time and their land was the only remaining large parcel in the city.

"Plaintiffs are further informed and believe that their decision to file a subdivision map was the sole cause of instituting the moratorium," the suit filed by Oakland attorney Steven H. Goldfarb said.

The city council, when it adopted the moratorium, said it needed time to study what lands it wants as open space and how to acquire it.

The suit calls the moratorium "a taking of the plaintiff's property for public use without just compensation."

The suit further claims the city knew Lynch, an invalid who owns no other land according to his attorney, had to develop or face foreclosure and "wilfully frustrated" development to obtain the ridge for open space.

The city turned down the property owners' claim April 10.

Driver Injured

Stephen J. Gehlke, 26, of 924 East Cotati Avenue, Cotati, was treated at Hillcrest Hospital for face cuts suffered in an accident at 3 a.m. today on Corona Road at North McDowell Boulevard, Petaluma. The California Highway Patrol had no details of the accident.

Moore Campaign Party Scheduled

An informal outdoor party will be held Sunday at the Harry J. Moore For Assemblyman Headquarters, 1114 First Street, Novato.

Beverly and Lynette Stark of Daly City, accordion and banjo players, will entertain at the event, 2-5 p.m.

Nancy Dole and Pat Warrent are chairmen. Dr. and Mrs. Ellis Mitchell, Mr. and Mrs. Robert Eddy, Dr. and Mrs. Robert Rettig, Mr. and Mrs. Luis Pena, Mr. and Mrs. Howard Wright and Jack Pratt will be hosts.

Late Filings By Homeowners Still Accepted

Marin County Assessor Bert W. Broemmel said yesterday residents who missed the April 17 deadline for filing homeowner's exemptions still may file for a partial exemption.

Broemmel said late filings will be accepted through June 15 but under state law will be eligible for only 80 per cent of the standard $750 deduction from assessed valuation.

A homeowner is eligible for the exemption if the home he owns is his primary place of residence, Broemmel said.

In some instances, he continued, living units attached to commercial buildings may be claimed if owner occupied. If rented, however, they may not be claimed.

He added that late filing is permitted under a new law which also gives the county board of supervisors the final say over whether such filings will be accepted.

Preregistration Is Set In Sausalito

The Sausalito School District will hold kindergarten preregistration for the 1972-73 school year beginning next Monday and continuing through May 12.

Parents may register their children weekdays from 8:30 to 2 p.m. at Bayside School and from 2 to 4 p.m. in Room 4 of the Manzanita Children's Center in Marin City. Two evening registrations, from 7 to 9 p.m. will be May 3 and 10 at the district office, 630 Nevada Street, according to Supt. Lawrence A. Lindberg.

Sewer District Approves Letter

Homestead Valley Sanitary District directors last night approved a letter to the local agency formation commission clarifying the district's earlier endorsement of a plan to form a large sanitary district in Southern Marin.

Board president James G. Macnichols said the letter endorsed the formation of such a district to consolidate treatment and large-scale movements of sewage, but left to be discussed the question of sewage collection and the dissolution of sewage district boards.

Macnichols said the letter was to allay fears of other boards that they could be disbanded by the formation of the large agency.

The agency formation commission will hold a hearing May 10 on the question, he said.

Sausalito Council To Study Goals Today

Sausalito's goals and priorities will be among topics discussed at a special study session of the city council at 8 p.m. today in city hall.

The council will also discuss procedures for appointments to boards and commissions, formation of a committee to study remaining open space in the city and the council's agenda format.

HOW TO KEEP WELL

By DR. THEODORE R. VAN DELLEN

Quest For Longevity, Virility Has Made Charlatans Rich Men

Man's desire for longevity and virility has made rich men of many charlatans. Oldsters have paid dearly for concoctions varying from crocodile urine to Hadacol. Fetal lamb cells and procaine injections are among the latest to be touted. Fortunately, the Food and Drug Administration has kept these out of the United States. But those wishing to part with their gold need only to cross our borders.

WE DO not mean that the medical scientists are not studying the possibility of retarding or delaying the aging process. Data on the physical, mental, and chemical differences between the young and the old are impressive, but of little practical value. By the time a person gets old, irreversible changes have occurred.

The body usually is in a stage of growth and development up to the age of 20; thereafter, the slow downhill course culminates many decades later in old age and senescence.

IF ANYTHING is to be done to preserve youth, it should be done early in life. And, since there are no magic potions to delay aging, our best bet is to avoid hazardous situations, habits, and activities that speed the process. This brings us back to "good old clean living" and utilizing known health measures. Try to avoid the risk factors that hasten heart attacks and cancer.

THE MOST promising research in gerontology is being done on the cellular changes that take place with advancing age. There are definite alterations in the various protein and nucleic acid molecules within and around the cells of the body. The molecules link together and fill in the spaces between the cells like a frozen metabolic pool. Researchers are trying to develop enzymes that will break down these links to allow normal cells to develop and encourage the diffusion of hormones, nutrients, and protective antibodies through the tissues.

Cellular research offers more hope than trying to find a magic rejuvenating pill.

VIEW TOWARDS DEATH VALLEY — Twenty-three students spent a week hiking and exploring terrain like this, on what was called an Easter Ecology Expedition from San Rafael High School. In addition to learning about life among the plants and animals of the desert, they learned about life among themselves.

People-Learning In Death Valley

By JAY GOODWIN

There's more to learn about in the desert than sand, insects and wild flowers.

That's the lesson that 23 students at San Rafael High School brought back with them from a week's trip to the Mohave Desert and Death Valley.

"Besides the studies of the desert environment, I learned more about people on this trip than at any other time in my life," said one enthusiastic student. "I've really learned how to be friends with everyone, and this is the most important lesson of all."

The trip allowed the students to interact with themselves and their teachers on an informal and enjoyable basis, but it was designed, primarily, as an opportunity to study the natural environment of a desert oasis.

The students and six adults piled into a bus provided by the school district for the Easter vacation trip and headed south, arriving a day later at an oasis in a desolate section of the Mohave Desert.

Other students who had visited the same site on three previous class trips had nicknamed the area Arnold's Roost, but nobody from this year's journey seemed to know why.

For three days, the group hiked throughout the area, examined rock formations, studied insects, plants and animals and exchanged the information they had gathered.

Each morning they split up into three smaller groups to concentrate on plants, insects or geology. Under the leadership of the adult supervisors, they gathered information first hand, rather than in a classroom — by turning over rocks, investigating old mines and catching insects.

"We were not forced to learn, we were encouraged to appreciate the wonder of our environment and offered assistance whenever we needed it," said one student. "It was a beautiful and ideal learning situation for both understanding human nature and the natural perfection of our environment."

The trip was organized by Bernard Keener, an earth and environmental science teacher at the school and cost each participant $25. The students, who came back with rave reviews for the journey, apparently were somewhat doubtful before they arrived in the desert.

"When I first got there," explained Vickie Germany, a sophomore, "I thought I wouldn't see any animals. But wow! All those animals, birds, plants and 91 varieties of insects. They came out of nowhere."

After living with each other for a week, the group was reluctant to head for home.

INSECT EXPERT — Beverly Erreth, an elementary school teacher in Novato, surveys a dried up river bed near Arnold's Roost. She led groups of students on daily insect-studying tours. By the time the week had ended, the group had identified 91 different types of insects.

(Expedition photos)

"We stopped every five or 10 miles on the way back to look at the plants or flowers in the desert. Actually, we just didn't want the trip to end," said another student.

Back at San Rafael high school, the group has water samples to study from the tiny stream at Arnold's Roost and flowers to convert into an herbarium. In addition to the tangible souvenirs, they also have their memories.

"How we were able to relate on some sort of harmonious level still baffles me," admitted one of the desert explorers. "But we did it! And because we did it, I was and still am thoroughly satisfied."

Pacheco Ranch Plan Gets Planner Delay

The U.S. Development Corp. has submitted plans for 400 singlefamily homes, 300 apartment units, 12.9 acres of offices and 12.9 acres of commercial area on the 519-acre parcel.

Planning technician James Miller said the Marin County Planning staff has proposed that the Pacheco Ranch be retained as open space, and since county action is pending, commissioners agreed to continue the matter.

Since the area is unincorporated, plans were submitted to the county, but referred to the city planning commission for comment, because the area is slated to be annexed to Novato.

Also set aside temporarily was prezoning the ranch land from limited agricultural to planned community district.

The Novato Planning Commission Also:

TENNIS CLUB — Approved a revised master plan for the Olive Ridge Tennis Club on 33 acres at Olive Avenue and Deer Island Lane, which locates the proposed tournament stadium to the area near the overflow parking lot.

OAKS APARTMENTS — Approved a master plan by Fabian Bobo for 58 apartment units on 3.37 acres on the east side of South Novato Boulevard, north of Yukon Way.

MARIN HIGHLANDS — Recommended prezoning 3.2 acres on the west side of Santa Maria Drive in Marin Highlands Unit No. 4 to single-family residential.

PINHEIRO RANCH — Continued until May 8 prezoning of the Pinheiro Ranch, west of Highway 101, north of downtown, until May 8. Burns Properties Inc. of Sausalito plans to develop a shopping center at the site.

BYZANTINE FAIR — Continued until May 8 an application by Justin D. Winnell III for a use permit to operate a Byzantine Faire on six weekends, June 17 through July 23, at the Satori Ranch at the east end of Atherton Avenue.

Commissioner James F. Picchi was absent.

Investor Faces Loan Charges

AKRON, Ohio (UPI)—D. Donald Lowers, who owes approximately $10 million to 1,400 creditors in the United States, Canada and Australia, was arrested by the FBI Monday on a warrant charging him with making false statements to obtain bank loans.

He was released on $5,000 bond pending a hearing.

A federal grand jury indicted Lowers on two counts of making false statements to obtain loans from the Richland Trust Co., Mansfield, Ohio, in 1971.

For seven years Lowers operated an investment business, promising 8 to 30 per cent on investments made in the form of short-term loans to him. He was declared bankrupt March 10 after listing assets of $1.2 million and debts of $11.2 million.

Electrocuted Youth Identified

A youth found electrocuted Sunday near a Pacific Gas and Electric Company transmission tower on Alto Hill has been identified as a 16-year-old Tiburon youth, Bryan Canfield Brown, of 251 Karen Way.

Coroner's deputies said the identification was made by Redwood High School officials after officers had found a high school mathematics test in Brown's pocket.

The youth's mother is Phoebe Brown, of Tiburon, deputies said. She thought her son was on his way home when the incident occurred, they said.

Volunteer Park Labor Being Asked

The Rohnert Park Recreation Commission last night agreed to ask for volunteer labor and cash donations to complete park projects that would have been funded by last month's park bond issue.

A $195,000 park bond issue was defeated by voters on April 11. Recreation Director James Pekkain said the commission agreed that another vote would not win passage in the immediate future.

The commission agreed to form a committee to organize volunteer workers to make the planned improvements at Alicia and Benecia parks and to seek donations from service clubs and organization to fund the projects.

In other business, Pekkain reported that Argonaut Constructors is providing free fill for the planned El Colegio Neighborhood Park. Commissioners Nancy Mettert and Ronald E. Rasmussen were named to work with Pekkain in planning the park development.

The commission also agreed to a joint meeting with the planning commission on May 4 at 7:30 p.m. at the Benecia recreation building to review future growth and park needs.

Baptiste Named To ABAG Housing Unit

I-J Special Report

BERKELEY — Marin County Supervisor Arnold M. Baptiste has been appointed to a 10-member regional housing task force by the Association of Bay Area Governments.

Association president Donald Dillon, a Fremont city councilman, said the 10 representatives of local government will have the "politically sensitive" job of directing ABAG's staff in preparation of a regional housing plan. The task force also will draft guidelines for use of federal housing funds.

Retroactive Pay Hikes Are Approved

Five per cent retroactive raises for the Sausalito School District's 68 employees were approved last night by the district board.

Supt. Lawrence A.Lindberg said the salary hikes, which will cost the district about $40,000, will be etroactive to July 1, 1971.

Salary negotiations in the district were broken off last August because of the wage and price freeze imposed by President Richard M. Nixon, according to Lindberg, and the employees did not receive pay increases for this year as a result.

Trustee Barbara Harris, chairman of the board's finance committee, said the committee had determined the district can afford the additional expenditure.

The Sausalito School District board also:

SHARING — Heard a report from Lindberg that he will meet with superintendents from the Reed and Mill Valley School districts to discuss ways of sharing students, staff and programs.

HIRING — Authorized employment of these persons: teacher Robert Thomson as summer school principal at a salary of $1,250; Joseph A. Pagano as substitute bus driver, and Judith Mello as substitute superintendent's secretary.

CONSULTANT — Agreed to pay Lee S. DeLuca, financial consultant for the Marin County Schools Office, $7 an hour for working with the board finance committee in evening meetings to prepare a 1972-73 operating budget for Sausalito.

APPLICATION — Authorized the superintendent to apply for $2,210 in Federal Title III funds to purchase science equipment and materials.

COMMITTEE — Appointed trustee Betty Times as board representative to a district committee which will work to implement the Stull Bill which requires yearly evaluation of student and teacher performance.

AUDIT — Voted to employ the firm of Leader, Jarvis and Keigwin to audit the district's 1971-72 records for $1,600.

Tennis Plan Questioned By Board

The Corte Madera Board of Design last night raised questions about the tennis courts proposed at Madera Del Presidio, questioned the density of the project and the amount of space planned for streets and parking, according to Board Secretary Elizabeth Long.

Board Vice Chairman Morgan L. Griffiths was a vocal critic of the proposal during its first planning board hearing last week.

Griffiths recommended that the Park and Recreation Department carefully examine plans for tennis courts proposed on the entrance strip to the development, with regard to wind exposure, draining and lighting.

Griffiths and board member C. William Thomas both recommended to the planning commission that two buildings, comprising 12 units out of 144 proposed, be eliminated from the project, allowing visual access to green areas on the site.

The pair also felt that too much area in the development would be devoted to streets and parking. They suggested to the planning commission that carports could be eliminated by putting parking underneath the buildings.

Explosion Leads To Discovery Of Hash Refinery

LOS ANGELES (UPI)—A chemical used to refine marijuana into the more potent drug hashish exploded, critically injuring a teen-ager and leading authorities to the first hashish refinery uncovered in the United States, sheriff's deputies disclosed Monday.

Capt. Norman Hamilton, head of the sheriff's narcotics detail, said the explosion Sunday night resulting from the accidental igniting of the chemical caused third-degree burns on Robin Rojo, 19, of Palos Verdes.

Rojo was hospitalized at Los Angeles County-USC Medical Center where he was booked on several drug charges.

Will Represent Sewer District

Directors of the Sausalito-Marin City Sanitary District last night appointed director George F. Carney as district representative to the Advisory Committee To Improvement District A.

(District A was established two years ago by the Marin Municipal Water District to prepare plans for a consolidated sanitary agency to handle waste disposal in Southeast Marin and the advisory committee is composed of representatives of nine Southern Marin sanitary agencies which will be included in the consolidation.)

Carney will replace Cyril G. Hansen who resigned from the representative's job because of the press of other business.

Deadline Extended On Middle School

The Mill Valley School board last night approved a 54-day extension of a construction deadline at the Mill Valley middle school, but told the contractor that he must finish the building by May 30.

The board also asked that it be advised at each meeting about progress in moving into the new school and in moving Alto School to Edna Maguire School, according to Carroll D. Killingsworth, director of business services.

The contractor, Dickman Construction Co. of Mountain View, had sought 67-day extension, but this was pared by the district's architect and building inspector to the 54-day figure, Killingsworth said.

Also at the meeting, Supt. James A. Collins asked that interested persons attend the board's May 8 meeting to hear a report on possible district boundary changes being prepared by County School Supt. Virgil S. Hollis.

The Mill Valley School District Board Also:

DEVELOPER'S REQUEST — Authorized board president William P. Everts Jr. to meet with the firm of Harter and Odenthal, who plan the Madera Del Presidio development in Corte Madera, to discuss future school site on the development. The board had sent a letter to the developers earlier asking that such a site be set aside, Killingsworth said, and that developers have asked that they be allowed to begin some of the development without doing so.

STRAWBERRY SCHOOL MASTER PLAN — Heard from Fred Holmes, a Strawberry School parent working on a landscaping master plan for the school, that the next step is to plant six large willow trees. Beautification, he said, is funded largely by the Strawberry School Fair, to be May 6 from 10 a.m. to 4 p.m.

MULTIETHNIC COMMITTEE — Heard Alfred Gordon, principal of Strawberry School and chairman of the district's multiethnic committee report that Martin Luther King Day, Jan. 14, was successful because teachers spent time discussing contributions made to society by minority and ethnic groups, and that the district is working with the multicultural institute in San Francisco as part of its in-service teacher training program.

BELL LANE — Postponed for clarification the proposed dedication of Bell Lane in front of Tamalpais Valley School to the county for road maintenance.

SUMMER SCHOOL — Approved an extension of the regular school year to July 14 for educationally and visually handicapped students only.

PARENT COMMITTEE — Postponed for further study a proposal to set up a committee to report on district activities to parents.

SCREENING COMMITTEE — Set Saturday as the date on which the principal screening committee will select three applicants from a field of 12 for the principalship of Old Mill School. The board will interview the final three.

INSERVICE COMMITTEE — The committee, formed to look for ways to improve the district, reported that communication was the first priority, according to Killingsworth.

SUPPLIES — Approved a contract for $18,174 with the H. S. Crocker Co. of San Francisco for school supplies for the coming year.

SABBATICALS — Approved six-month sabbatical leaves for teachers Shirley Noakes, of Strawberry School, and William Castelli of Park School, and a one-year sabbatical for Louise Yahnian at Old Mill School.

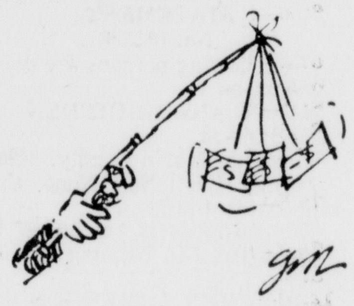
The Deposit On The Rent



Helen and Jim were enchanted with the view-and-fireplace apartment they found. The landlord said they could have a lease, but they would have to put up a deposit for the last two months rent.

They did — and moved in. Some time later, Jim lost his job at the electronics firm where he worked. Because of this he got a month behind in the rent. Then he found another job in another city. This meant he and Helen had to move.

"We're pretty short of money," he told the landlord. "So please take the month's rent I owe you from our deposit, and give me back the second month's rent.

The landlord said, "You broke your agreement by not paying me when you were supposed to. So I get to keep the full amount."

Jim took the case to court and got back one month's rent. The court said that where a deposit of rent money is for "security," then, at the end of the rental period, the landlord has a duty to return it, less any unpaid rent or damages. Here he only had a right to one month's rent. The rest he had to return to the young couple.

Landlords and tenants sometimes squabble over the amount of "damages" when the tenant leaves. The landlord is only entitled to a "reasonable amount."

Such disputes are often settled in small claims court. The landlord and tenant may each tell their version of the case. Sometimes the judge will have to go to the premises to look over the carpets, walls, drapes, etc.

In a landlord-tenant dispute over the condition of the premises, the landlord would be wise to present "before and after" photos along with bills for reasonable costs of repairs. This will help him prove his claim.

Suppose a landlord in bad faith keeps all or part of the tenant's deposit? Then he can be ordered to pay $200 additional punitive damages as well as the actual damages.

It's usually a good idea for tenant and landlord to draw a simple written agreement. This should say what if any cleaning charges there will be. Also who pays for what damages that might occur. Plus any other points they discuss and agree on.

Editorial Prompts Big Patrick Suit

William Penn Patrick, a pilot and two aircraft companies yesterday filed a multimillion dollar libel suit against the Tiburon Ebb Tide because of a December editorial about "kid games" played over an airport radio.

The suit filed in Marin Superior Court on behalf of the millionaire San Rafael cosmetics manufacturer and Richard Bingham, a flight instructor and mechanic, and Spectrum Aire and American Air Museum claims they were libeled by an editorial which charged them with wrongful use of the traffic advisory radio frequency for the county airport north of Novato.

Patrick is asking $1 million exemplary damages, $500,000 for "embarrassment, humiliation, great mental suffering and anguish," and $250,000 for damage to his business ventures.

Bingham is seeking $625,000 and the two air companies $1.55 million each.

As well as the Tiburon weekly, the suit names publisher John Luc, who wrote the editorial of Dec. 27, and his wife, Nadine.

Luc, a pilot himself, said he refused to print a retraction as requested because the editorial was true.

The editorial charged that Patrick and his employees were dominating the radio with horse-play such as, "Dickie, Dickie, I'm under your right wing."

The suit drafted by San Francisco attorney Robert L. Moran said, "Plaintiff's reputation as a responsible and trustworthy person and as an accomplished pilot is injured and defamed by such statements of careless and reckless airmanship."

Man Killed In Zoo Bear Pit

PERTH, Australia (UPI)—An unidentified young man climbed into the bear pit at the Perth zoo Sunday and was killed by two polar bears.

The man climbed a wire fence and dropped about 20 feet into a pool in the pit after scuffling outside with a number of men and a woman. The two animals attacked him and a rag soaked with gasoline was ignited and thrown into the pit to distract the bears long enough for zoo attendants to pull him out, but he already was dead.

Congress Decides Inaugural Budget

WASHINGTON (UPI) —The next presidential inauguration won't take place until January, but Congress has already decided how much it will cost—$650,000.

The Joint Congressional Committee on Inaugural Ceremonies approved a budget of that size Monday for the event.

Meeting On VD Will Be Tomorrow

The importance of educating children about the dangers of venereal disease, and how that education may be given in the classroom, will be discussed at a public meeting at 8 p.m. tomorrow in Olney Hall of College of Marin.

The program, sponsored by the Marin Medical Society Auxiliary, Bay Area Venereal Disease Association, and Marin County superintendent of schools office, is designed to acquaint parents with the need for VD education and how it is proposed to present it.

Sidney Smith, personnel coordinator for the county schools office, will give an "Overview of VD Education in Marin County." Jan Cobble, executive director of the Bay Area Venereal Disease Association, will speak on "Legal Status of VD Education."

Mrs. Charlene Arbogast, a teacher at Bret Harte Junior High School in Hayward, will give a demonstration of how students are taught about VD. This will be followed by a film prepared for showing in schools, "VD — A New Focus."

Need for emphasis on teaching about venereal disease dangers is shown in figures by the Marin County Health Department on the increase in reported cases of gonorrhea in the county. In 1960, about 100 such cases were reported. Last year, there were more than 1,600.

Tomorrow's program is part of an all-out effort for improved education about venereal disease by affiliates of the California Medical Society. It follows a program at College of Marin last week, and a Sunday television show on KPIX (channel 5) which featured Dr. Ellis Mitchell of San Rafael, president of the Bay Area Venereal Disease Association.

San Rafael Quake Report Unfounded

A report from an East San Rafael homeowner that her house trembled during what she thought was a minor earthquake brought word from the College of Marin geology laboratory that no earthquake occurred in Marin yesterday.

Schools Give Up On Tax Hike Election

The Petaluma Board of Education yesterday gave up plans for another tax rate increase election, acknowledging that few opinions or votes have changed since last month.

Tax rate increase elections for both the elementary and high school districts failed March 21.

The board gave serious thought to another try at the polls July 25 just for the financially-pressed elementary district. Board member Sol Fishman suggested the board ask a 50-cent increase rather than the 88-cent increase that failed last month and include the limitation that it would be in effect for three years or less.

On the vote, Fishman got support only from board president Dr. William K. Kortum. Fellow board members Arthur L. Lafranchi, Daniel B. Plumley and Robert T. Stimson said another election would be a wast of time and money.

Members of the audience also advised against another election. Representatives of parent-teacher associations said even their members would not support another election.

At its regular meeting at 8 p.m. today, the board will receive preliminary budgets for 1972-73 and consider methods to reduce elementary operations by $158,000 to balance the budget.

The board has said it will consider closing Grant School and putting all elementary schools on double sessions to reduce costs. Bus transportation in the wide Penngrove School attendance area also may be dropped to save money.

The possibility of relocating San Antonio Continuation High School from the Sonoma-Marin Fairgrounds to Grant School also will be studied as a way of saving the $6,000 per year fairgrounds rent.

Vote, Funds Not Related In Larkspur

Larkspur candidates spending reports indicated today that money doesn't necessarily mean victory at the polls, as proven by the fifth-place finish of Earl J. O'Grady, second biggest spender.

O'Grady, who polled 854 votes, finished fifth in the seven-way race for three council seats. He reported contributions and expenses of $961.44.

Alice B. Vincilione, developer and executrix of the Adolph A. Tiscornia estate, contributed $150 towards O'Grady's unsuccessful campaign. She also contributed $100 to the campaign of candidate Jame Epidendio, who finished last.

Biggest spender was William G. Fleckles, who finished third with 979 votes. He reported contributions of $160 toward expenses of $1,629.28.

Third largest spender was Robert H. Lee, who finished first with 1,059 votes. He reported contributions of $458.01 and expenses of $955.32.

Fourth largest spender was Joan Sestak, who finished second with 1,396 votes and reported contributions of $825 and expenses of $783.68.

Fifth largest spender was Elizabeth Johnson, who ran sixth with 676 votes. She reported contributions of $355 toward expenses of $422.25. The majority of her contributions, $300, came from Boardwalk I residents.

Sixth largest spender, Mrs. Epidendio, polled 338 votes and reported $315 in contributions toward expenses of $417.45.

Smallest spender Benton A. Sifford Jr., who filed a statement declaring he spent less than $200, finished fourth with 913 votes.

"This is KGK, your completely independent station."

Flahive Top Spender, 1st In Election

Vote-getting ability and candidate spending showed a direct relationship only in the first-place finish of Robert J. Flahive in the Corte Madera municipal election.

Second-highest spender I. Thomas Zaragoza, who finished fifth with 692 votes, reported no contribution and expenses of $697.

Third highest spender Robert P. Simmons, who finished second with 833 votes, won reelection by four votes. He reported contributions of $200 toward expenses of $638.95.

Defeated incumbent Byron D. White, who finished fourth with 733 votes, filed a statement that he had not spent more than $200. Town Clerk Betty S. Behel and Town Treasurer Frank Bigley, both running unopposed, filed similar statements.

Herber C. Leney, who finished third with 829 votes, had not filed a spending report as of yesterday. He will get a recount tomorrow.

(Winners are required to file financial statements before they are seated, other candidates by May 16, according to Mrs. Behel. If Leney wins tomorrow he must file before being seated.)

5 Will Attend Affairs Council

Five Marin students are among 130 students from 33 high schools, and colleges in Northern California who have been awarded scholarships for a conference on foreign policy being sponsored by the World Affairs Council of Northern California.

The Marin students are Roland Dersjant, William Dobbs and Steven Lewey, all of Terra Linda High School, and Janet Bauer and James Ponzetti, who attend San Rafael High School.

The conference, to be held May 5, 6 and 7 at Asilomar in Moneterey County, will feature talks by New York Times Washington correspondent, Max Frankel, government officials and John Karefa-Smart, former Sierra Leone foreign minister.

The students were chosen from more than twice as many applicants.

Boeing Seeking Chinese Market

SEATTLE, Wash. (UPI)—Boeing Co. representatives are in China to develop a possible market "even in a modest way," it was revealed Monday.

Boeing President T. A. Wilson was asked during a report to stockholders if he had sales representatives in China.

"Yes, we do have some people in China right now," he replied, but "I think it might be misleading to say that a major contract could develop immediately."

Wilson's report was the first official word that Boeing personnel, sent to Hong Kong several weeks ago, had entered China.

Awami League Deaths 17,000

DACCA, (UPI) — Pakistani army troops killed more than 17,000 members of the Awami League during the nine-month liberation war, according to a preliminary party survey disclosed yesterday.

The Awami League, dominant party of the former province of East Pakistan, spearheaded the revolt that led to the creation of Bangladesh.

Quoting the survey, a party source said that in every city, town and village the Pakistan army looked for pro-Awami League workers. If they found them, the source said, they were killed, and if not their homes were burned and their relatives were victimized.

Environmental Split Settled

Environmental quality study, a subject postponed by Novato's lame duck council on April 4, got off its feet last night after a meeting in which the environmentalists and the new council differed, split into separate meetings and finally settled their differences.

The new Novato City Council and Novato Environmental Quality Committee agreed on an abbreviated and more general resolution creating and outlining the duties of the committee.

Deleted from the committee's plan was a city health department to carry on an educational program for family planning and a street tree program.

In its final form, the council agreed to the creation of a nine-man committee which should be advisory only to the city council and other city agencies on the environmental quality of the city planning area.

The areas of study by the committee would include, but not be limited to:

DEVELOPMENT AND GROWTH — Monitoring the environmental impact over growth and development including location and expansion of population.

POLLUTION — Air, water, visual, sound and solid waste.

BEAUTIFICATION — Use of natural materials to enhance the aesthetic appearance of the city in landscaping, trash receptacles and utility appearances.

The resolution is to be put in final form by the city staff for later council action.

The meeting at its outset turned into an exercise in semantics and a discussion of the powers of the committee.

The committee had prepared a three-page outline of its duties and functions. That was the proposal on which the old council would not act.

The meeting reached an impasse with Councilman Fred R. Ruegg and Dr. Gregory J. Graham, committee chairman at odds on the functions and duties of the committee.

The joint meeting then split into two groups with the council, councilman George C. Quesada absent, going into another room in the parks and recreation building and the committee staying in the conference room.

"We knew we would not get all of our points in our resolution and Brown's proposal does give us a lot. Let's accept it and if it doesn't work, we can ask for a change," said Stanford A. Warner of the committee.

"It's better than a poke in the eye with a sharp stick," said Lorene Bunker of the committee.

In the other room, Ruegg objected to giving the committee the power to make recommendations to the city engineer and city staff. He said it was circumventing the chain of authority.

When the two groups reconvened, the council found that the committee was agreeable to Brown's shortened version with a few word changes.

The two bodies agreed to meet together semiannually to discuss the areas of concern of the committee and council.

Councilmen Dorothy Young and David Price Jones wanted the committee to study open space. Jones also wanted them to study "heritage trees" and agricultural preserves within the city.

The council adjourned to 8 p.m. today for its regular meeting.

Petaluma Boys Are Arrested

Two teen-aged Petaluma boys have been arrested on suspicion of burglary.

A 16-year-old boy was booked into Sonoma County Juvenile Hall and a 15-year-old companion was released to his parents. On the advice of the Sonoma County district attorneys office, police refused to name the youths.

Officers said they were arrested Thursday when Hilda Church, 811 Sixth Street, reported prowlers in her garage. Officers said a tire inflator and some small change had been taken from the garage.

Motorcyclist Hurt As Cycle Overturns

John James Marshall, 29, of San Francisco, was treated Saturday at Marin General Hospital for a fractured shoulder received in a motorcycle accident, according to hospital records.

California Highway Patrolmen reported that Marshall overturned on his motorcycle at 3:15 p.m. on the Lucas Valley Road about five miles west of Highway 101.

New Park's Dedication Is Saturday

Stafford Lake Park, a Marin County recreation project, will be dedicated at 12:30 p.m. Saturday with a program sponsored by the North Marin Federation of Homeowners.

The event, marking completion of the first phase of park development at the North Marin County Water District Reservoir, will include a picnic, nature hike and fishing.

The ceremony will start with the unveiling of the Stafford Lake Park sign at the 65-acre site, west of Novato. Supervisor Arnold M. Baptiste is scheduled to conduct the ceremonies.

The Novato Civic Foundation will plant trees, the San Marin High School Band will perform and naturalist Elizabeth Terwilliger of Mill Valley will lead the nature hike starting at 2 p.m.

The federation will have free beer for adults and soft drinks for minors and will sell hot dogs and hamburgers for those who don't choose to bring a picnic lunch.

First phase development at the park included an entry road from Novato Boulevard, parking area for about 100 cars, installation of a lawn area, planting of native trees, an irrigation system and restrooms.

Ultimately the park will have picnic areas for up to 500 persons, parking spaces for 200 cars, an education center, pond, bicycle rentals, hiking and riding trails.

Westmoreland Hit By A Tomato

EL PASO, Tex. (UPI)—Army Chief of Staff Gen. William C. Westmoreland ignored a small band of agitators when they threw tomatoes at him on a reviewing stand, police said.

Three young persons accused of participating in the tomato throwing were charged with disorderly conduct and released on $400 bond each Saturday.

Sheriff Mike Sullivan said while he was on the reviewing stand, eight or 10 persons carrying an American flag upside down on its staff, a Viet Cong flag and armloads of tomatoes approached the stand.

Jail, $1,500 Fine To Hub Pot Seller

A 21-year-old San Anselmo man who admitted living off marijuana sales for two years was sentenced yesterday in Marin Municipal Court to serve four months in jail and pay a $1,500 fine.

Judge Samuel W. Gardiner also placed Julian Crawford Johnson II on three years' probation as part of the deal under which he pleaded guilty.

He pleaded guilty to felony possession of marijuana for sale and a misdemeanor count of battery on a police officer and charges of transporting pot, possessing cocaine and a second charge of battery were dismissed last month.

Deputy Dist. Atty. Vernon F. Smith Jr. recommended state prison.

Johnson was arrested Oct. 20 by narcotics agents who arrested 12 persons and seized marijuana and drugs valued at more than $11,000.

Agents said they found 50 kilos of marijuana in a car and five more in the house at 43 Manor Drive.

Johnson, talking to deputy probation officer Georgia Sells, said, "I was engaged in selling marijuana for about two years for a living. I did it because I could make a lot more money than at any other job. I considered it neither immoral nor unethical."

Some Renovations For Air Force One

WASINGTON (UPI) —Air Force One, dubbed the "Spirit of '76" by President Nixon, has been undergoing its annual renovation, this time including the addition of improved equipment for communicating with satellites throughout the world.

The work is being done at New York's Kennedy Airport. The plane was scheduled to return to Andrews Air Force Base outside Washington later this week.

A Teddy Bear Burglar Gets County Jail Time

Robert Andrew Kraft Jr., 19, of Larkspur was sentenced yesterday in Marin Superior Court to four months in jail for a burglary in which he took, among other things, a teddy bear, a pencil sharpener and a little rubber statue of pirates.

Judge Samuel W. Gardiner also placed him on two years probation.

Kraft's guilty plea was part of a deal under which an unrelated misdemeanor charge of possessing stolen property was dismissed.

The youth described as immature and naive by a probation officer was arrested Nov. 28 with his 15-year-old brother while in the process of taking a variety of petty items from a shed.

"It is the silliest thing in the world, Gardiner said, "but if something more valuable had been there, I suppose it would be gone."

To Conference

Taddeucci Beds Down Among Sport Stars

By RALPH CHATOIAN

The smell of alcohol, or the hospital beat:

When Giants promotions manager John Taddeucci of San Rafael was assigned to a room in St. Mary's Hospital, S.F., he found himself right between a pair of sportsmen of the pro ranks. In the room on one side of Taddeucci is 49er halfback Doug Cunningham and in the room on the other side is Golden State Warrior Cazzie Russell.

Taddeucci and Russell are both in the hospital for the same reasons, back operations, but for Cunningham it's a bit of knee surgery. I'm told that Cunningham suffered a little pain toward the end of last season and he finally decided to go under the knife to fix a bum knee.

The dapper Taddeucci has been involved in some domino games via Ma Bell's facilities with Noble Hamilton Jr. of Ross, a paper company exec and super sports fan who is also in a hospital bed, at Marin General. Noble, between domino games, is supposedly diagramming football plays he plans to mail to Cal's new head coach Mike White. Of course you know where Hamilton spent his college days. Yep, another "old blue."

In another part of Marin General is Mrs. Letha Jenkins of Fairfax, former principal of Ross Grammar School and avid member of the Northern California Giants Boosters who had to miss the Giants' "home opener" last Friday because of surgery.

Not in the hospital but feeling very sick is NorCal Giant Booster Pres. Allan Murray of Kentfield who is missing one 1969 Mustang, stolen from in front of the Jack Tar Hotel Friday night. The car color, in Murray's words, is "very dirty blue," unless the thief has sent it through a car wash.

BELVEDERE's MIKE MACHETTE, singles player for the University of Southern California tennis team, was a winner again yesterday in the Trojans' 6-3 victory over University of Arizona. He beat Arizona's Jim Logan 6-1, 6-4. Teammates of Machette are Marcelo Lara and Raul Ramirez, members of the Mexico Davis Cup team. No wonder the USC netters are rated No. dos in the nation. (No. uno is Trinity College of San Antonio, Tex.)

RADIO STATION KTIM of San Rafael will be loaded with live baseball coverage this season. According to the station's heavy plans, there will be 13 games a week on the average. There will be daily Oakland A's broadcasts, six Little League games per week and one Marin County Athletic League prep game on Fridays.

According to the station's Little League schedule, announcers Bob Dinsmore and Rich Turner will be skipping all over the county — Mill Valley on Monday, San Rafael National on Tuesdays, Twin Cities (Larkspur-Corte Madera) on Wednesdays, San Rafael American on Thursdays, Novato on Fridays and Marinwood on Saturdays.

FIRST REPORTS from Player Periscope of Novato, a company which keeps statistics of minor leaguers throughout the country, is very promising for two Marin players. Tom Corder, in his first few games as third baseman for the Bakersfield Dodgers of the California League, went four for 10 (.400) and John Dolinsek, first baseman for Oklahoma City Astros of the American Association, went three for four in his first game. But on the other hand, Russ Dillon has been racked in his two appearances as a pitcher for the Richmond, Va., Braves of the International League and although not suffering a loss, has an earned run average of 24.00 after three innings of work. All three players are Novatans.

Series Clincher Sought By Bruins

ST. LOUIS, Mo. (UPI)— General Manager Milt Schmidt of the Boston Bruins admits that "this is going easier than we thought."

The Bruins have clobbered the St. Louis Blues in three straight games in the Stanley Cup semifinals and could move into the finals against the New York Rangers with a forth win tonight at the St. Louis arena.

"We had no idea this series was going to go the way it has," said Schmidt. "The Blues' goaltending was the difference in their series against Minnesota, and they probably had a letdown."

The Bruins have bombed three St. Louis goalies, Jacques Caron, Ernie Wakely and Peter McDuffe, and have outscored the Blues 23-5 in the three games. McDuffe has been sent back to the Denver farm club, so either Caron or Wakely will start for the Blues tonight. Gerry Cheevers will be in goal for the Bruins.

The Blues have been almost totally unable to stop the Boston power play made up of Johnny Bucyk and Johnny McKenzie on the wings with Phil Esposito in the slot and Bobby Orr and Fred Stanfield on the points. Both of McKenzie's goals in Sunday's 72 win came on the power play.

St. Louis Coach Al Arbour says, "the last three games speak for themselves, and I'm very disappointed, and our players are disappointed. The Bruins are a fine hockey club and they're certainly proving it against us."

Concession Pact Gains Approval

SAN FRANCISCO (UPI)—A revised contract aimed at providing the city with $5,000 additional revenue from Candlestick Park concession stands has been recommended for approval.

The Finance Committee of the Board of Supervisors has suggested an okay of the new pact with Stevens California Enterprises Inc.

In exchange for all concession rights at baseball games for the next 21 years, Stevens has agreed to pay the city 25 1-2 per cent of its gross sales and possessory interest taxes.

Tovani Is San Rafael Cage Coach

Junior varsity basketball coach Bret E. Tovani has been named to replace Michael J. Diaz as head coach at San Rafael High School, principal Peter Palches announced yesterday.

Diaz will remain as athletic director. "Mr. Diaz has been planning to give his full attention to the A.D. assignment for some time," said Palches. "Bret is a natural for the job and his outstanding record as a coach made him the obvious choice."

Tovani, 27, has been teaching at San Rafael for four years, and was a player on Diaz' Marin County Athletic League championship team of 1962. "I really didn't think I'd get a head coaching job this quickly, mainly because Mike is so young," said Tovani.

Tovani graduated from San Rafael in 1962 and from San Francisco State College in 1967 with a B.A. in geography. He taught briefly at San Rafael and Terra Linda high schools before accepting a permanent position at San Rafael in the fall of 1968.

Now Tovani teaches anthropology and environmental studies, and is going for a Master's degree in interdisciplinary studies in education at San Francisco State. He coached J.V. basketball for four years, with last year's team compiling an 11-3 league record.

Tovani lives with his wife and

Writers Honor Sharman

By U.P. INTERNATIONAL

One National Basketball Association coach was honored, while another surrendered his post.

Los Angeles Laker coach Bill Sharman was named NBA Coach of the Year. Sharman, 45, who paced the American Basketball Association Utah Stars to an ABA title last year before moving West this year, received 42 votes from a panel of three writers in each of the 17 NBA member cities.

While Sharman was receiving his honor, Atlanta Hawk coach Richie Guerin stepped up to the team's general manager position after coaching his squad for eight years. Guerin said his first goal will be to fill the coaching spot. He is considering candidates at the present time.

Meanwhile, it was reported Sharman beat out Tom Heinsohn of Boston and Al Attles of Golden State for the NBA's top coaching choice. Heinsohn and Attles tied for second with three votes each.

Sharman, who played on four title teams with the Boston Celtics from 1957 to 1961 and coached for two years in San Francisco in 1967 and 1968, also had a taste of baseball player. He was on the Dodger bench in 1951 when Bobby Thomson hit the homer that won the pennant for the New York Giants.

When the NBA chose its silver anniversary team in 1970, Sharman was one of the 10 players selected. He proved his concentration on the court by becoming the best free throw shooter in the history of the game, including one streak of 56 straight free throws.

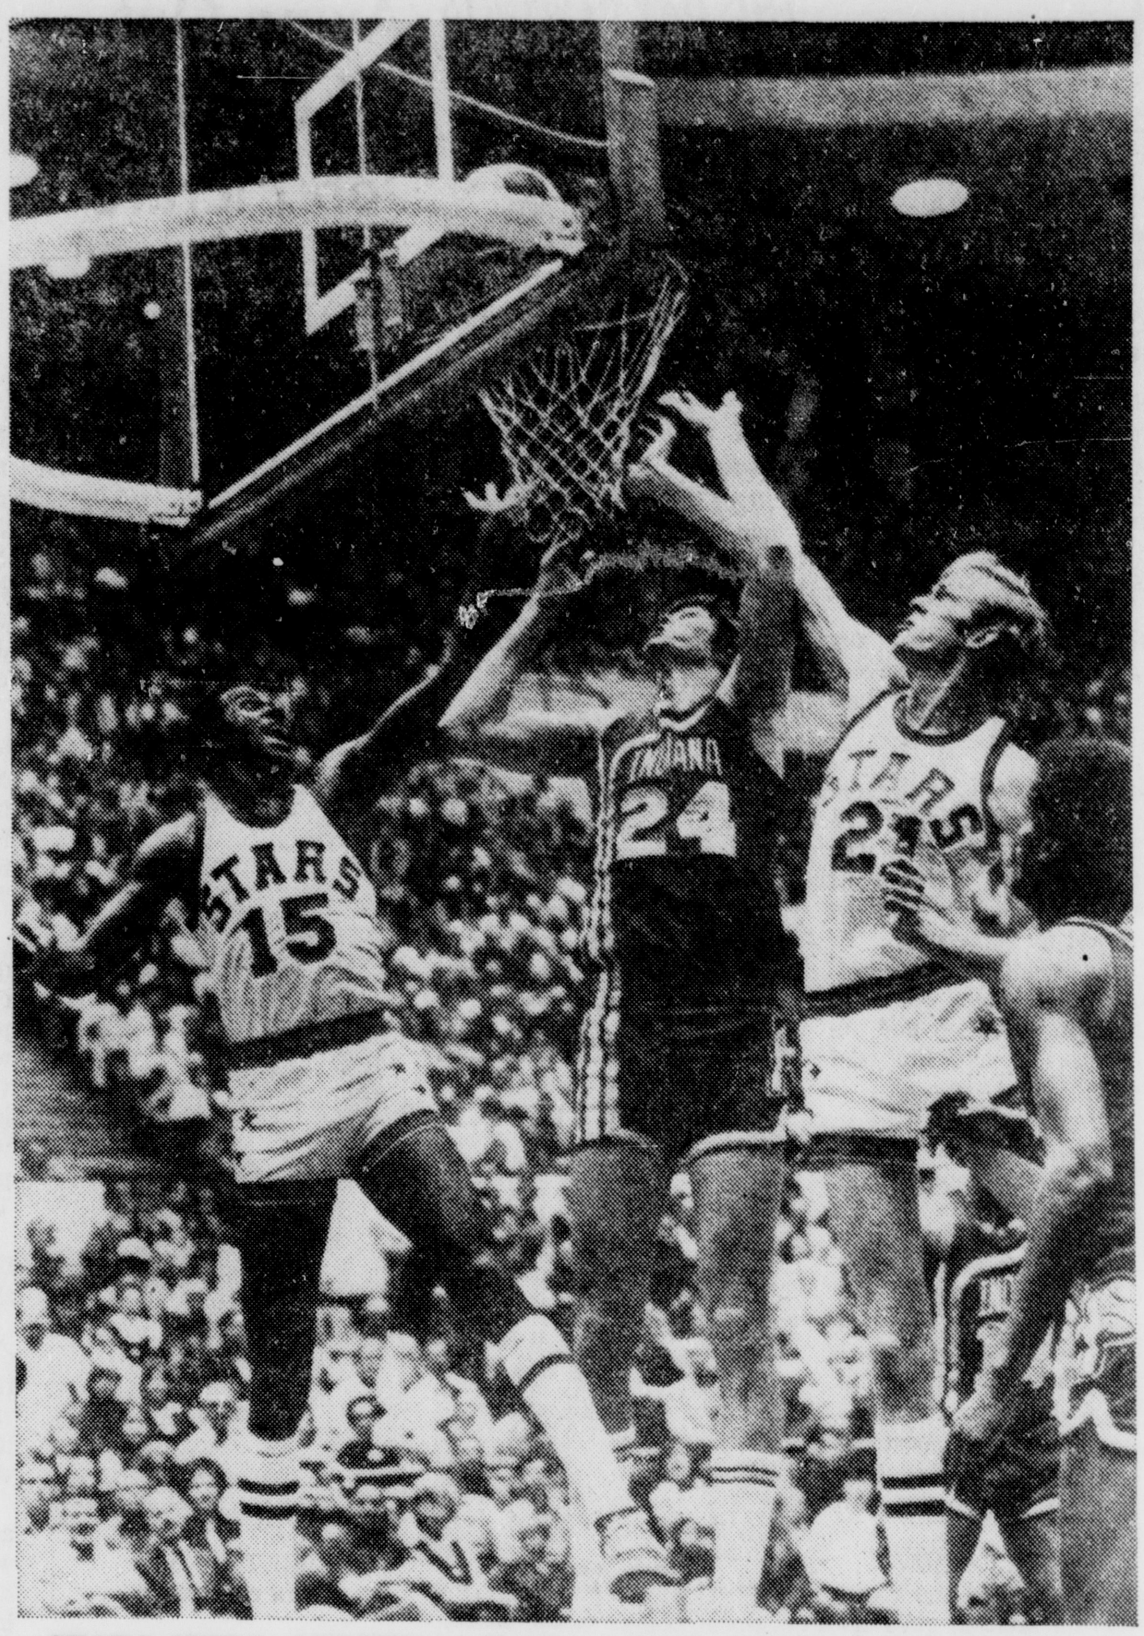
"There are no secrets in this game," Sharman claims "a player who is in the best shape possible is in a position to function and reach maximum efficiency."

HUNTER, A'S IN NEW YORK FOR 2 GAMES

NEW YORK (UPI)—Weather permitting, Catfish Hunter of the A's will go after his first win of the campaign tonight at Yankee Stadium, where the A's open a two-game set with the New York Yankees.

The A's have a narrow lead in the American League West with a 4-2 record but the top four teams are within 1-2 game of each other.

Oakland fell to Minnesota 8-4 Sunday as Bobby Darwin, surprise star of the American League's early going continued his rampage with a single and a homer. That was his third homer in as many meetings with the A's.



STARS WELL ARMED — Utah Star performers Jimmy Jones (15) and Austin (Red) Robbins (21) surrounded Indiana's Bob Netolicky in a rebound battle last night at Salt Lake City, Utah, during the American Basketball Association Western Division playoffs. Utah won, 139-130, to take a 3-2 game lead in the series.

A LOT OF CAVIAR — W. H. McNew of Olivehurst stood next to his 405-pound sturgeon he caught on the Sacramento River at Verona, near Knight's Landing, Yuba County. The eggs from female sturgeon are processed into caviar and this one will provide enough caviar to last McNew for years to come.

405-Pound Sturgeon Caught; Record Set

SACRAMENTO (UPI)—State Fish and Game officials say a 52-year-old Olivehurst man may have set a world record with his catch of a 405-pound sturgeon measuring nine feet.

W. H. McNew caught the fish last week in the Sacramento River near Verona in Yuba County. Officials said Monday the catch surpasses all previous state and world marks for sturgeon landed with a rod.

The Guiness Book of Records lists the world record as a 360-pounder taken in at Iquique, Chile, in May of 1953. The state record was a 293-pound sturgeon pulled in from San Pablo Bay by Glen Claypool Jr. of Richmond.

McNew, who has been asked to enter his catch in the state trophy award program for fishermen, said four other people helped him land the fish. He said it took nearly three hours to bring in the fish.

Nets Win; ABA Stars Triumph

By U.P. INTERNATIONAL

An eight-day medical leave paid off for the New York Nets Monday night.

The Nets dropped the first two games of their American Basketball Association Eastern Division finals series to the Virginia Squires in Virginia. A conflict with an ice show at the Nassau Coliseum then prevented the Nets from playing for eight days and it gave the club's wounded a chance to heal.

Rick Barry, John Roche and Bill Melchionni, all bothered by illness or injury, recovered during the break and helped the Nets to a 119-117 victory over the Squires Monday night as they renewed their series.

Willie Wise and Jimmy Jones combined for 66 points to lead the Utah Stars to a 139-130 victory over the Indiana Pacers and a 3-2 lead in the Western best-of-seven finals Monday night.

Barry, weak from a throat infection early in the series, scored 25 points, including the deciding basket with eight seconds left, Monday night to spark the Nets. Roche, a rookie whose scoring helped the Nets upset Kentucky in the Eastern semifinals, had a sprained ankle in the second game against Virginia but bounced back with 25 points Monday night. And Melchionni, New York's All-Star guard, had missed all eight previous games in the playoffs but returned to action after his broken finger healed with 20 points Monday night.

Tickets Available For Soccer Clash

Applications for tickets for the Olympic qualifying soccer game between the United States and Mexico are available at the Roos-Atkins store in Northgate Shopping Center in San Rafael and at all Bank of America branches in Marin County, game officials announced yesterday.

The game will be held May 10 at Kezar Stadium in San Francisco. The winner will advance to the Olympic Games in Munich in August.

Mike's Bar, Smitty's In Softball Triumphs

A five-run first inning and a three-run fourth triggered Mike's Bar & Grill's 10-5 victory yesterday over Mts. Broker's yesterday in San Rafael Recreation Department adult softball at Albert Park.

In other games, Smitty's trimmed Marin Supply, 5-2, while Jacobsen Auto and Deck House deadlocked, 2-2 in eight innings.

Juan To Face Phils Tonight

SAN FRANCISCO (UPI)— Juan Marichal squares off against Steve Carlton, a 20-game winner last season for the St. Louis Cardinals, in tonight's San Francisco Giants-Philadelphia Phillies encounter.

Manager Frank Lucchesi has his Phillies in town for a three-game series with the hard pressed Giants.

Manager Charlie Fox's third place National League Giants have a dismal 4-5 record on the young season. Philadelphia is in third place among the Eastern Division clubs with a healthy 43 mark.

Carlton came to the Phillies from the Cardinals in exchange for Rick Wise. The southpaw is unbeaten in his first two starts.

San Francisco and Philadelphia split their 12 games last season.

The Giants took out their frustrations over being swept by Houston in a 15-3 romp over Santa Clara in exhibition action Monday before 6,000 spectators.

San Rafael Golfers Win, Move Into 1st

San Rafael High School moved into first place in the Marin County Athletic League golf race with a wind-blown victory over Marin Catholic at the Meadow Club near Fairfax, while Redwood defeated Drake at the same course.

Marin Catholic coach John Bechtold announced his team would meet Redwood in a league match on the neutral Peacock Gap course in San Rafael Hay 3. He also said the match with Drake at San Geronimo National, originally scheduled for May 11, was switched to May 10 because of a conflict with a tournament at San Geronimo.

Healy Is Disrupting Charlie Fox's Plans

Francis Xavier Healy is disrupting the carefully laid plans of Charlie Fox. However, the manager of the Giants doesn't mind a bit. It isn't that Fox tolerates meddlesome intrusions of his strategy, even from a fellow Irishman. It's just that what Healy has been doing prompts Fox to smile.

Healy now is the No. 1 catcher of the Giants. There's no doubt whatsoever about that. But from the first day of spring training, Fox planned to platoon him in catching assignments with Dave Rader. Healy was to catch when there was an enemy southpaw on the mound. Rader would catch when a righthander was pitching against the Giants. The strategy was simple but sound. Healy battled righthanded, Rader left.

WHEN HEALY delivered a run-producing single in Game No. 2 of the delayed 1972 baseball season against Dave Roberts, a Houston southpaw, that fact wasn't even mentioned in reports of the game. That was understandable because it was in that game that Dave Kingman homered, tripled, doubled, singled and knocked in six runs. Kingman grabbed all the headlines in Game No. 2.

When Healy hit a three-run homer in Game No. 4 against Tom Phoebus, a San Diego righthander, it received cursory reviews. And that, too, was understandable because it was in that game that Willie McCovey was knocked out of action with a broken right arm.

When Healy singled home his fifth run in Game No. 5 against Clay Kirby, ace righthander of the Padres, it got a brief mention in the footnotes because that was the game in which John Jeter, the Padre who knocked McCovey out of action in a first base collision, beat Juan Marichal with a two-run ninth inning homer just when Marichal was two outs away from his 223rd career victory.

HEALY DIDN'T get a hit in Game No. 6 but he was brilliant defensively. In the fourth inning he gunned down Jeter at third base on an attempted steal as Clarence Gaston was striking out. It's been a long, long while since the Giants have turned a strikeout into a DP.

But that wasn't Healy's only contribution to a squeaking 2-1 win in Game No. 6. In the eighth inning after Leron Lee opened with a pinch single, Healy picked Lee's runner, Don Mason, off first base with a perfect peg to Tito Fuentes who had circled behind Mason as the Padres were setting up a sacrifice bunt.

"YOU COULD say I am delighted with the way Healy has been interfering with managerial strategy," said Fox. "But I wouldn't say that. Healy is supplementing the strategy of a manager who, I hope, is smart enough to know when to adapt."

Healey Himself doesn't have to be told that his No. 1 catching job is contingent on who the opposition is pitching. He is the No. 1 catcher period.

"BASEBALL IS a tradition with the Healys," said the 6-foot-5, 210-pound young man from Holyoke, Mass., who was a minor league catcher at Omaha in the Kansas City organization when the Giants obtained him after the 1970 season in a trade for Bob Garibaldi.

"I hope I'm creating a favorable impression in carrying on the family tradition," added the smiling Irishman whose father, Bernard, played in the St. Louis organization. An uncle, Frank, caught for the Cardinals and Giants in 1930-34.

Astros Reach First On Edwards Homer

By U.P.INTERNATIONAL

The Houston Astros moved their fences in this year for Lee May but the guy who took advantage of the shorter target Monday night was John Edwards.

Edwards, who had only one homer all last season, hit a liner to rightcenter that cleared the new short right field fence for a homer off Ferguson Jenkins with one out in the 11th inning. It gave the surging Astros a 3-2 victory over the sagging Chicago Cubs and a share of first place in the National League West.

After acquiring sluggers May from the Cincinnati Reds, the Astros moved their fences in from 354 to 340 down the line and 390 to 378 in the power alleys.

A slugger with May's power doesn't always need the shorter target and he proved it in the first inning when he hit a two-run shot into the second deck off Jenkins.

But Edwards' "homer" hit off the old wall in right field and would have been catchable last year if the outfielder had been playing deep.

"I couldn't tell it was a home run when I hit it," Edwards said. "This just doesn't happen to me. I just wanted to make sure I tagged the bases. I can't remember hitting a homer in extra innings to win a game."

Edwards said that Jenkins "embarrassed me all night." He added, "he's a great pitcher and I couldn't do a thing until that last time up."

The victory was the seventh in a row for the Astros, who are now tied with the Dodgers for the top spot in the National League West. May has hit three homers and each one played a key role in a Houston victory.

Ken Forsch matched Jenkins, allowing five hits for nine innings including Ron Santo's two-run homer in the first inning. Santo's homer to center also probably wouldn't have been a homer last year.

Jim Ray pitched the last two innings in relief for the Astros to gain the victory as Chicago suffered its sixth straight loss. Jenkins, shooting for his sixth straight 20-victory season, is now 0-2.

In the only other game Monday night, Texas outlasted California 6-4. The Detroit at Milwaukee game was postponed because of cold weather.

Texas completed a four-game sweep of its first home series ever by downing California. But the Rangers don't seem to be capturing the interest of the fans and only 5,561 showed up at Arlington Stadium. By contract, 13,905 came to the Astrodome to see the Astros.

California committed three errors to help pave the way for its fifth straight loss although all of the Texas runs were officially earned. Toby Harrah scored the first Texas run in the fifth inning on a single by pitcher Don Stanhouse and singled in two more in the sixth after first baseman Jim Spencer booted a potential double play grounder by Joe Lovitto. Larry Biittner then singled in the two deciding runs in the seventh. The final run scored on a bases loaded walk .

Munson Appraises Future

By RICHARD L. SHOOK

DETROIT (UPI)—Bill Munson hates his job.

But before you get any false impressions, let it be understood he loves being a National Football League quarterback. It's being the No. 2 man behind Greg Landry of the Detroit Lions that Munson can't stand.

'CLASS GUY'

"Bill Munson is a class guy and a personable guy," says a man who ought to know, Russ Thomas, general manager of the Lions.

Thomas is trying to prevent his club's second-string quarterback from becoming a free agent May 1. He wants to as bad as Munson desires to be the top thrower for somebody.

"Money is not the problem," Thomas said. "He wants to appraise the situation and decide where he has the best future.

THOMAS

"I have nothing but respect for Bill Munson," Thomas said. "He just wants to know9where he'd have the best overall future —here or somewhere else.

"Bt he's never come to me and said 'Play me or trade me to someone who will'," Thomas said. "He likes Detroit and he likes the team."

The problem is Munson has been in Detroit before. Only last time it was called Los Angeles.

KNEE OPERATION

The year was 1966 and a knee operation on Munson gave Roman Gabriel the starter's job for the Rams. Munson never got it back, played out his option in 1967, and was traded to the Lions in the summer of '68.

He started for Detroit for a season and one-half until another younger quarterback — Landry —again put Munson where he least likes to be, on the bench.

Chuvalo Sets Workouts For Ali Bout May 1

The Canadian champion said, "I took Ali to 15 rounds when I last met him in 1966. I see no reason to believe I can't give him a good fight again and if he isn't careful, I can put him down."

Chuvalo was to begin concentrated workouts today. Ali has been on a demanding workout schedule since Saturday. He plans to be "mean and lean" for next week's fight.

Golden Gate Fields Race Has 18 Horses

SAN FRANCISCO (UPI)—Some 18 two year olds have been nominated to the $25,000 Golden Gate Juvenile Dinner Stakes to be run Saturday at Golden Gate Fields.

Among the top entrants was Jess Clayton's Jesse's Way, upset winner of last Tuesday's $15,000 Native Diver Stakes. The horse is one of two freshmen in California to boast a pair of victories for 1972. The other is the filly Hooley Ruley, winner of the $15,000 Piedmont Stakes.

Rumph won $110. He finished behind Dan Lippstreau of Willow Park Golf Club of Castro Valley, 69, and Bob Boldt of Franklin Canyon of Rodeo, 70.

Avina Out Of Pacific Job Picture

PORTLAND, Ore. (UPI)—Jack Avina, head basketball coach at the University of Portland, has told University of Pacific he was not interested in the head coaching job there.

"I told them to withdraw my name from consideration," Avina said Monday.

He said he was happy with the situation here and "have definitely decided to remain."

Avina's teams have a 15-37 record in two seasons, but he said he felt the Pilots have reached the pivotal point in their reconstruction effort.

three-year-old daughter in Fairfax.

Diaz, 37, coached for 15 years, 12 at San Rafael, and had MCAL champions in 1962 and 1964. He will continue to teach history and world geography at the school.

Born in Westwood, Calif., Diaz starred in basketball for Armijo High in Fairfield and went on to play for the University of California, graduating in 1957. He was head basketball coach and assistant football coach at St. Vincent High in Vallejo for one year, then Class B mentor at Armijo for two years before coming to San Rafael.

His 1971-72 team finished third in the MCAL with a 9-5 record and made local history by ending Redwood High's 43-game winning streak with a 63-59 victory Jan. 14.

"While I still enjoy coaching, I find myself not being able to give as much time to it as I did before," Diaz said. "I've been athletic director for a year now and that's what I want to continue to do. The ups and downs of coaching have had some bearing on my decision."

NEW YORK (UPI)—Tom Seaver of the New York Mets is the only National League Rookie of the Year (1967) to win the Cy Young Award, reports the Rheingold Sports bureau. Seaver won the hurler's award in 1969, the Mets' world championship year.

PREP OF THE WEEK

Bacon A 'Feverish' Player In Unconventional Way

By LEW CODDINGTON

Is Dave Bacon a competitor? Dan Tierney of Redwood High School would be tempted to say yes. Tierney is generally recognized as the best prep tennis player in Marin County, but Thursday Bacon defeated him in straight sets, 6-4, 6-2, thereby earning Independent-Journal Prep of the Week honors.

Coaches of the old school would be tempted to say no, once they become aware that the long-haired senior from San Rafael High shies away from team sports because they are "too demanding."

The only safe answer to the question is: not for awhile. Bacon will miss certainly one and possibly both matces this week because of "valley fever," a virus infection attacking the lungs, which he caught while on an archaeological expedition in the San Joaquin Valley.

An archaeological expedition? What kind of a jock is this?

"I went to the Miwok Indian digs with an archaeology class from San Francisco State," he said. "I just did it to be with my old lady. Everybody got valley fever except her."

Bacon missed a match against Drake to make the trip, which in the old days might have caused some coach to hang him by his thumbs with racquet strings, but coach Milt Hain is tolerant.

"He'll try to give you the impression he's not competitive, but he's really highly competitive and finds tennis an outlet," said Hain. "He never complains. He's out there rain or shine. He prefers to be more of an individualist, and to be responsible to himself."

"I love the game," says Bacon, without melodrama. "It's a mellow sport. I can treat it any way I want, and whatever I do is my responsibility. I've matured, and I've learned to win when I had to win.

DAVE BACON
Top netter

"I work at it, but I dn't work at it, you know what I mean? It just feels great to be out there hitting the ball. I suppose I play two or three hours a day. .

"I give it everything I've got in a match, but if I lose, I'm not going to cry in my beer at night."

Last year was Bacon's first in interscholastic tennis. He started out, he says, as the No. 5 player, gradually worked his way up to No. 1, but "was beaten by everybody I played."

This year, he has been beaten by nobody he's played, at least in the league, and was in line for a berth in the North Coast Sectionals until "valley fever" came along.

Actually, Bacon has had one consistent nemesis on the court this year — his coach. Hain has beaten him every time they've played but once. "Playing with him really has helped my game," says Dave.

Tennis is the only sport Bacon currently plays at school. He previously went out for baseball and basketball, but abandoned both. "Baseball was a little boring," he said. Reasons for quitting basketball were more complex.

"For one thing, I didn't want to cut my hair. This was my junior year, and they weren't as loose then as they are now. But there was more to it than that. Intense team sports take a toll on you mentally. The coaches and I agreed that I shouldn't be playing; there were no bad vibes, though, and I don't want to say something bad about the coaches.

"Sometimes I catch myself getting into a thing where I had to win. It brought out all sorts of things I don't like to see in myself. I started getting angry with other guys. It's different from tennis, which is a gentleman's game."

For all the enthusiasm Bacon shows for tennis, there are other activities that mean more to him. "The best thing school ever gave me was a capella choir," he says. "I'm really into music. I play the guitar and I enjoy singing."

Bacon has no concrete plans for the future, preferring "to cross the bridge when I come to it. If I'm lucky, I might get a job giving tennis lessons somewhere. If not, I might do some traveling."

College will wait. "I'm not going to go to school for awhile — a year or two, anyhow — though I never write anything off." In high school he makes "average" grades, saying, "I get something from my classes, but it's not necessarily what the teacher wants me to get. School is what you make it; it can be a good thing or bad thing."

The same goes for extracurricular activities. You can get a good thing, like a victory over Dan Tierney, or a bad thing, like "valley fever."

Marin Netters In Rematch With Canada

College of Marin's tennis team was to meet Canada College in Redwood City this afternoon for the championship of the Camino Norte Conference's post-season round-robin tournament.

The Tars advanced to the finals by defeating West Valley College in Campbell Friday, 6-3, while Canada was defeating De Anza College of Cupertino.

Marin finished second in regular-season play with a 6-1 record, losing only to undefeated league champion Canada, 9-0.

Great Crab Feed At Rod-Gun Club

By AL GIDDINGS

The annual crab feed at the Marin Rod and Gun Club was a bang-up affair. If you didn't make it, you missed the crab feed of the year. It was listed as an "all you can eat" thing and I guarantee that's what it was. The club, and especially Ken Watts, chairman of the event, did a great job. Also, Howard Leach of the Fish and Game Department gave a talk on the "endangered species" of our time. He authored an article entitled, "The Crossroads," on this subject after much study in the field, so the talk was from experience.

THE POPULAR hunter safety course, sponsored by the Marin Rifle and Pistol Club, is being repeated again this year. It started Monday evening, and will be offered to the public for a series of 10 consecutive weeks, totaling 20 hours (two hours each meeting). Registration will be held again next Monday, May 1, 7 p.m., at the San Rafael Police Pistol Range on Irene Street in San Rafael.

This session is especially important to those who wish to hunt in the early deer season this year, as the course must be completed in time to obtain a license. Cost of the course is $5, all supplies and guns furnished by the club. This hunter safety course is open to the public, age 12 and up, and is mandatory for all new hunters who wish licenses in California.

ON APRIL 7, 1972, the State Board of Public Health approved the annual Mussel Quarantine Order for 1972. As in previous years, the mussel quarantine will extend from May 1 to Oct. 31.

In contrast to 1970 when no cases of mussel poisoning were reported, 15 cases from three separate outbreaks were reported in 1971 in Humboldt, San Francisco and San Mateo counties. A significant finding in the five outbreaks reported since 1969 has been a predominance of cases among persons of Philippine extraction — 23 of 30 cases, or 76 per cent. We are urged to make special efforts to inform the Philippine community in our jurisdiction about the hazards of mussel poisoning in California. Mussels are considered a delicacy in the Philippines where they can be eaten year-'round, because toxin-producing organisms do not exist in those waters. Hence, newly arrived immigrants to California are largely uninformed about the hazards here during the quarantine season.

From 1927 to 1971, Department of Public Health records show 44 outbreaks that resulted in 403 cases and 30 deaths. All cases have been reported between May 15 and Oct. 26, with the great majority between June and September. Outbreaks have been reported from Del Norte County in the north to Ventura County in the south, although most have occurred along the Central California coast. Shellfish species responsible for the 44 outbreaks have been mussels (35), clams (8), and oysters (1).

Lakers Picked Over Knicks In Playoffs

INGLEWOOD, Calif. (UPI)—The Los Angeles Lakers are solid favorities to defeat the New York Knicks in their best-of-seven National Basketball Association championship series starting Wednesday night and win their first NBA crown but Coach Bill Sharman isn't taking anything for granted.

Sharman put the Lakers through a tough workout Monday and warned against a letdown in the wake of their 4-2 series victory over the Milwaukee Bucks.

"There's a tendency to have an emotional and physical letdown after a tough series like we've just been through," Sharman said. "But we can't have any kind of a letdown. If we do, we're in trouble."

The second game of the final NBA playoff was scheduled for the forum here Sunday and the Lakers said the third and fourth games will be played in New York May 3 and 5. The dates for the fifth, sixth and seventh games, if necessary, were still being discussed.

The Lakers entered the NBA playoffs with the best record in NBA history, 69-13, and then disposed of the Chicago Bulls in four straight and went on to eliminate the Milwaukee Bucks in six.

The Knicks had only the seventh best record in the NBA, 48-34, including four losses to the Lakers in the five regular sesson games they played, but they've turned into something else in the playoffs.

They took care of Baltimore 4-2 in the first round of the Eastern Conference playoffs and then upset the Boston Celtics, 4-1, in the conference finals.

"The Knicks present us with problems because they shoot so well from the outside," Sharman said. "They've had a full season with Jerry Lucas and Lucas is an all-time super star."

Lucas, 6-foot-8, likes to shoot from the outside and may present some guarding problems for 7-1 Wilt Chamberlain who would rather stay close inside to tend the boards.

Sharman hinted that he may go to 6-11 Leroy Ellis, a seldom-used reserve, to guard Lucas.

A key to the series may be Gail Goodrich who with Jerry West formed the Lakers' formidable back court during the regular season.

Goodrich's scoring average has fallen off during the playoffs but he averaged 24.2 points against New York during the regular season and was able to move well under the basket against them.

FIGHTS LAST NIGHT

INGLEWOOD, Calif, (UPI)—Cesar Sinda, 136 1-2, the Congo, knocked out Sugar Ramos, 138, Mexico (10); Ruben Navarro, 133, Los Angeles, outpointed Tony Jumao-As, 130, the Philippines (10).

NEW YORK (UPI)—Hector Matta, 143, Puerto Rico, outpointed Saoul Mambry, 139, New York (10).

Title Fight In Honolulu Tonight

HONOLULU (UPI)—It will be two fighters from the same background and of equal size tonight when they clash for the World Boxing Association's version of the junior lightweight crown.

Marcano, who will be making his second title defense, comes from a large family like Villaflor. Both had poor backgrounds.

Since becoming champion last July, Marcano has bought an auto repair shop where he works as a welder. He owns and drives around Cumana in a sports car, hiding a secret desire to become a race driver.

Villaflor, who has been fighting professionally since 15, has been sending money home regularly since he began fighting here a year ago. He is trying to build a new home for his parents. His father works as a security guard on a rubber plantation and earns around 40 cents a day.

When Villaflor first turned pro, he picked up between $5 and $6 in American money, Now, five years later, he finds himself fighting for the title. Should he win, he will be the youngest world champion in the history of pro boxing.

Boat Buyer Or Owner; Know Boat

By JOSEPHINE RIPLEY
The Christian Science Monitor News Service

How well do you know your boat? If you are a prospective buyer or even if you already own a boat, give yourself a test.

It has, or should have, a plate, near the operator's position, a plate headed "capacity." What does it say?

What is the maximum weight you should carry including persons, motor and gear?

Is your motor heavier than the one indicated? If so, what should you do to keep within the weight limit of your craft? Reduce the number of passengers which you carry?

Do you have a Coast Guard-approved life jacket for every person aboard? That now is required by law.

These are questions to which you should — and probably do — have the correct answers. For you will be hearing more and more about boating safety in coming months, as the federal Boat Safety Act of 1971 goes into effect.

Safety is the current watchword, for boats on the water as well as cars on the road. And boats, along with cars, must be safely built.

Regulations covering boat construction will be issued by the Coast Guard. After these regulations go into effect, any boats found to have defects must be recalled by the manufacturer.

McGillicuddy Construction Co.

Selling Dominates In Stock Market Opening

NEW YORK (UPI) —Selling was dominant during the first two hours today as the stock market turned broadly lower in fairly active trading.

The two-hour turnover amounted to more than 7,060,000 shares. Declines topped advances, 888 to 364, among the 1,582 issues crossing the tape.

Many alanysts said they believed the market is overbought and overvalued, and the time is right for a major adjustment. Sudh an adjustment would be an advantage for the long term, they said.

There was little in the news background to inspire buying. The Labor Department reported production rose during March at a lesser rate than in February. Communist advances continued in the Vietnam War.

On the American Stock Exchange, prices also were lower in fairly active trading. New Process was the most active issue, off 7 7-8 at 44 5-8 on 263,500 shares.

Plessey was the most active issue, up 1-8 at 2 7-8. Trading included a block of 200,000 shares at 2 7-8.

Certificate Back

SAN FRANCISCO (BW) — The Bank of California has announced it is reinstating its two-year consumer time certificate of deposit carrying a rate of 5-¾ percent with a minimum deposit of $500 to a maximum of $100,000.

GWU Price Prospects Not Good

By ROGER E. SPEAR

Q. I have 400 shares of Great Western United acquired over a long period at much higher prices. In view of the company's problems, I wonder if shares should be sold. I am 65 and these shares are all I own. — L.S.

A. Further deterioration in earnings was reported for the third quarter ended February 29. Down from 83 cents a share reported in fiscal 1970-71, the 29 cents reported in the third fiscal quarter put nine-month profit at $1.28 a share, off 17 per cent year-to-year. The previously announced refinancing plan has been postponed until sale of Great Western Sugar can be negotiated. Merger talks, which had been held with Great Western Producers Cooperative, were discontinued January 31, when financing for the asking price of $100 million plus could not be arranged. Discussions have since reopened with an asset value of $90 million being mentioned. Also under consideration is the disposal of the company's land development business, Great Western Cities. A fourth division was sold in January.

If the proposed sales are completed, GWU will be reduced to one division, Shakey's, a franchiser which contributed 3 per cent to volume and 5 per cent to profits in fiscal 1971. In contrast, the beet sugar division accounted for 73 per cent of sales, 32 per cent of profits; real estate 24 per cent and 63 per cent respectively. Former President, now chairman, White disposed of 100,000 shares early in February when trading was in the $18 area.

Q. Do you consider Overhead Garage Door (ASE) a sound growth stock? — R.K.

A. Although affected by cyclical economic trends, Overhead has compiled a good record of uptrending sales and earnings. In the 1971 year, sales gained 12.6 per cent while net forged ahead 36 per cent. An upsurge in construction and truck production — two of the company's principal markets — enhances OHD's outlook for the balance of this year. In spite of the sharp run-up in share price, the shares remain reasonable on the basis of their P/E multiple.

John Hancock Insurance Office Is Moving To La Plaza Building

John Hancock Mutual Life Insurance Co. office, now at 4144 Redwood Highway in the Northgate area of San Rafael, will move a couple of blocks northward this summer into the La Plaza Building.

William Hoey and his partner W. Thomas Ireland of William Hoey Company negotiated this lease as well as a series of others that have just about filled up available space in Northgate Industrial Park.

HEINZ NEUMANN Mercedes Benz service and repair, located on Stockton Boulevard in Sacramento, took over 4,600 square feet of warehouse space at 169 Paul Drive under a Hoey lease.

Other new leases negotiated by Hoey Company in Northgate Industrial Park include:

East-Western Land Inc., an Oakland real estate and land development firm, took over suite 156 in the La Plaza Building.

Northgate Lawn Equipment moved from 128 Carlos Drive to 176 Paul Drive.

Humphries Construction Co., formerly on Meadow Drive, moved in to 128 Carlos Drive. It specializes in cabinets and home interior remodeling.

Say Worley Inc., San Anselmo realtors and general contractors, took warehouse and office space at 42 Park Drive.

CAIN'S TIRE at 20 Greenfield Avenue in San Anslemo will be sold to Richard (Dick) severson, who has been employed there for 12 years. Severson will operate the shop under the name, San Anselmo Tire and Brake, from May 1.

He will continue using Cain's premium recap tires and will handle Dunlop, Michelin X, Semperit, Toyo, and Bridgestone tires. Shop hours will be Monday through Friday from 8:30 a.m. to 5:30 p.m., and Saturday from 8:30 to 4 p.m.

Present employees who will continue working for Severson at the new San Anselmo Tire and Brake Shop are Monte (Butch) Moore, front end mechanic and service manager; and David A. Hiller, tire changer and mechanic.

Robert G. Lyons and Patrick M. McAlonan, owners of Cains' Tire, have two other shops — in San Rafael and in Greenbrae.

BENTON A. SIFFORD Jr. of Larkspur has been elected vice president of Fireman's Fund Insurance Co., Chairman Louis W. Niggeman announced.

Sifford joined Fireman's Fund in 1936 and held various positions until 1959 when he became assistant manager of the Western Department in Chicago. He was transferred to the research department at the San Francisco home office in 1961 and named director of research and development in 1966.

Sifford is former Larkspur mayor and city councilman. While in Chicago, he was also city councilman in Northbrook, Ill.

Banfield

ROBERT C. BANFIELD of Ignacio will be promoted by Lawrence Systems Inc. of San Francisco and transferred to the company's Coral Gables, Fla. office.

Banfield will become Lawrence's regional manager for the Southeast and Caribbean. He will move from his position as liaison officer in services control in the San Francisco headquarters. He has been with the company for 15 years.

Lawrence Systems Inc., with 49 offices in the U.S., Canada, and Puerto Rico, provides collateral control services to lenders.

ENGINEERING FIELD SERVICES, located at 1414 Fourth Street in San Rafael, will move this week into new quarters at 818 Fifth Avenue, San Rafael, next to California Land Title. The phone number remains unchanged.

George Colson is vice president and manager of Engineering Field Services, which specializes in land and construction surveying. It has been in business for 12 years.

WE'VE MENTIONED a couple of old San Anslemo establishments that are still going strong in the same location — Kientz Pastry, established in 1922, and the Home Market, opened in 1925.

We failed to mention another old firm that's still thriving — Guasco Market, formerly called San Anselmo Market. Peter Guasco says his father Felice Guasco opened San Anselmo Market at 601 San Anselmo Avenue on Feb. 1, 1925, before the Home Market was built. This would make Guasco's the second in seniority to Kientz. However, Guasco's did change both its location and its name 20 years ago when it built its present building at 100 Center Boulevard.

AN EXPECTANT SCENE

Lake Stafford in Novato was covered yesterday afternoon by swirling, wind-blown clouds, residue of the previous night's storm. And Stafford Lake County Park across the water was being readied for its April 29 debut. Opening day ceremonies — making completion of Phase One of the park — will be held near the lake at 12:30 p.m. The park, which will be operated by the Marin County Parks and Recreation Department, is a primary water supply of the North Marin County Water District. After Sunday's rain, Stafford Lake was at 80 per cent of capaicty.

N. Viets Crumbling Defenses Of Kontum

Enemy Gaining Ground In Central Highlands

SAIGON (UPI) — North Vietnamese infantrymen supported by artillery and tanks outflanked the remaining South Vietnamese forward defenses in the Central Highlands today and poured down Highway 14 toward the provincial capital of Kontum, the main objective of their new drive.

Mileslong streams of refugees moved ahead of them toward Kontum, normally a town of 27,000 persons but now swollen with countless refugees hoping to fly to Pleiku, 25 miles to the south, or to Saigon, 230 miles further south. Mortar rounds hit the Kontum airfield today, wounding three children and damaging an Air Vietnam airliner and a U.S. C130 supply plane.

The Communists also renewed their offensive in the coastal highlands region of South Vietnam today, opening fire on a string of government bases along Highway 1 in Binh Dinh province 80 miles east of the Kontum drive. They surrounded one of the bases. A U.S. destroyer was firing on the Communists from offshore in the South China Sea.

Field reports said a battalion-sized outpost (665) men) known as Salem Combat Base 30 miles north of Qui Nhon was surrounded late tonight and a U.S. destroyer began pounding the attackers. A battalion of reinforcements was stalled 800 yards from the base.

Field dispatches said the Communist drive so far had overrun at least nine government support bases in the highlands region and bypassed at least five despite hundreds of tons of bombs dropped there by B52s and strikes by fighter-bombers and helicopter gunships.

Field dispatches earlier reported the fall of Dak To, another major town 25 miles north of Kontum, but later dispatches today said a "Black Thai," Lt. Col Lo Van Bao, commander of a 650-man regional battalion there, refused orders to abandon Dak To and radioed that he would fight to the death though hopelessly surrounded and outnumbered.

Bao, whose troops are largely local militiamen, is called a "Black Thai" because that ethnic group has dark complexions and wears black pajamas favored by the North Vietnamese.

U.S. fighter-bombers today knocked out a bridge on Highway 14 five miles south of Dak To, but military sources expressed doubt one blown bridge would halt the North Vietnamese drive that a Pentagon spokesman described Monday as the opening of a long-expected general offensive in the highlands.

UPI reporter Matt Franjola flew today over the area by helicopter and reported the South Vietnamese troops appeared to be regrouping at Artillery Base Bravo, which blocks the highway just north of the village of Vo Dinh, 12 miles north of Kontum.

Franjola said a Communist force of 4,000 men, including artillery and tanks, was about six miles north of Bravo at sundown today. There were unconfirmed reports that four

Astronauts Slip Away To Earth

SPACE CENTER, Houston (UPI) —Apollo 16's astronauts escaped the dominance of the moon's gravity today and sped faster and faster toward Earth with a treasury of rocks that scientists think may include long-sought pieces of the primitive lunar crust.

John W. Young, Thomas K. Mattingly and Charles M. Duke showed the bright, gray-white moon receding behind them during an early morning impromptu telecast. They were reported on target for a splashdown in the Pacific Ocean Thursday afternoon.

Young and Duke walked on the moon, but today was Mattingly's day. His schedule called for an hour-long spacewalk to retrieve 6,500 feet of film from two mapping cameras in the spaceship's moon observatory.

The pilots refined their course toward the home planet with a bief burst from the spaceship's small control rockets at 11:29 a.m. EST.

The three astronauts rocketed out of moon orbit Monday night and, with that critical maneuver behind them, reported their morale had shot up "a couple of hundred per cent." They entered the pull of Earth's gravity at 9:36 a.m. EST when they were 216,001 miles out and heading home at about 2,900 miles per hour.

"I'll tell you, we can hardly wait," said Young, veteran commander of the mission that went from near-failure to success in five days.

Spaceflight meteorologists reported that weather in the landing area 1,400 miles south of Honolulu was expected to be satisfactory at 2:44 p.m. Thursday.

Duke buoyed the hopes of geologists when he reported the 245-pound collection of moon rocks stowed in Casper did not seem to contain volcanic samples. Instead, the rocks appeared to be older, beat up specimens that could unlock some of the moon's remaining mysteries.

At that time, Apollo 16 was 43,000 miles from the moon and Young reported, "at arm's distance, if you cup your hands around it, its about as big as a 50-cent piece."

Before leaving lunar orbit, the astronauts cast off the ascent section of their lunar module Orion. But they failed to set a critical switch and the spacecraft tumbled out of control, ruining a chance to crash it near the Apollo 16 landing site. The impact was to have created

Acting Sausalito Fire Chief Frank Christ announced today he will leave his $18,744-a-year post to move to Siskiyou County next month.

Last night his wife, Delta, resigned, effective immediately, from the Sausalito School District board to which she was elected in 1970. Her resignation, coupled with the recent resignation of trustee Jerry L. Whitcomb, leaves two vacancies on the five-member board.

The 47-year-old Christ, who has been with the Sausalito department since 1961, said the family plans to move to a 20-acre ranch they own near the town of Etna sometime next month. His resignation, submitted yesterday to City Mgr. Albert St. Cyr, will become effective May 7.

The acting chief, appointed to the job in February when Chief Charles E. Masten left to become fire chief of El Monte, Los Angeles County, worked for the Mill Valley Fire Department for 10 years before coming to Sausalito. He was appointed assistant Sausalito chief in 1964.

St. Cyr could not be reached to say whether the city would appoint another acting chief or wait until the city council —now reviewing applicants for the post —selects a permanent fire chief.

The 45-year-old Mrs. Christ, elected to the school board in a June 1970 recall which ousted two trustees, has been board chairman for the past year.

She is a member of the Sausalito Women's Club and her husband is a member of the Sausalito Lions Club and the Native Sons of the Golden West.

Four of the couple's five sons will join them in the move to Siskiyou.

Secret Trip To Moscow By Kissinger

WASHINGTON (UPI) —The White House revealed today that Presidential Adviser Henry A. Kissinger made a secret visit to Moscow to confer with Soviet leaders about President Nixon's forthcoming trip and the new fighting in Vietnam.

"We are at the moment in a very delicate phase of international relations," Kissinger told reporters in defending the secrecy of the visit, which took place between last Thursday and Monday.

With Nixon's trip only a month away, Kissinger said, "one purpose of my going was to put before the Soviet leaders the considerations of the President on the major problems."

Kissinger dispelled speculation that Nixon's visit might be cancelled because of strain between the United States and the Soviet Union over U.S. bombing of North Vietnam.

After a meeting with Nixon and Secretary of State William P. Rogers, Kissinger said, the decision was made that he should travel to Moscow for personal direct exchanges.

Kissinger said Nixon "has been directly in touch with Brezhnev on important international questions for several years." He said Nixon's contact with Soviet leaders has been through normal correspondence and not by use of the "hot line."

Kissinger said he flew both ways by military plane. The disclosure of his Moscow visit recalled his 12 secret missions to Paris for private negotiations with North Vietnamese delegates and his secret trip to Peking to arrange Nixon's China visit.

White House Press Secretary Ronald L. Ziegler announced the visit in a simultaneous announcement with Moscow.

He said that by agreement with the Soviet leaders, it was decided "neither side would reveal the subject of the talks."

Asked whether the Vietnam crisis was the "principal reason" for the visit, Kissinger declined to answer directly but he said the "whole range of Soviet-American relations was discussed" including the most important issues.

He made it plain that the heavy fighting in Vietnam that has caused new tensions between the United States and Soviet Union was high on the agenda.

Tiburon Has Mayor; Recount Is Settled

The Tiburon City Council last night elected Councilman Albert H. Sennett mayor after seating attorney Allan N. Littman, victor in yesterday's recount. Littman was named vice mayor. (Another Tiburon City Council story, page 12.)

The recount of the April 11 election votes, requested by Anne L. Ellinwood — who had appeared to have lost to Sennett by two votes — proved her to have lost by four.

Also seated last night was freshman Councilman Albert Aramburu.

Miss Ellinwood received an ovation from a packed council chamber at last night's meeting when she answered the telephone adjacent to the council table before the new council had been seated, and told the caller, seeking recount results that she had lost.

Earlier in the day the recount had taken place in council chambers, and the phone number in the room apparently was given out as an election information phone.

"We found a terrible error in the votes," she said to the caller as the other councilmen and the audience listened, "It was a 100 per cent error." She went on to explain that she had lost by two votes in the original tally, but by four as certified by the recount committee. The applause began after she hung up.

Although the vote spread was increased by the recount to 902-898, the council adopted a resolution accepting earlier county figures showing the two vote margin because state law requires a recount vote actually change the outcome of an election before it can be certified by the council.

Miss Ellinwood said she is considering placing her name before the new council as a candidate for the planning commission.

The other member of the council to step down was mayor Denis T. Rice, who did not run for reelection.

Plan To Involve Young Voters Has Marin Origin

By BRYCE W. ANDERSON

A statewide organization to involve the new young voters in local government, with preparation during their high school careers prior to reaching the age of 18, is the brainchild of Peter C. Meyer, Marin County elections officer.

Already, Meyer has won endorsements of the Republican and Democratic State Central committees, Common Cause of California, and Frontlash. The New Voter is his name for the organization and for its official publication, one issue of which he and his wife, Patricia, already have produced.

He was to meet with the executive committee of the Marin County Chamber of Commerce and Visitors Bureau at 4 p.m. today to seek its endorsement of a pilot program in Marin County, which would involve testing a proposed course of study in local high schools and College of Marin. An exploratory meeting at the college with social studies teachers from high schools throughout Marin is scheduled next week.

"To make every voting opportunity a meaningful event.

"To open avenues of participation at local political levels.

"To provide basic education in election processes.

"To assess the implications of uninformed political action and

Retirement Announced By Keating

Veteran Marin Superior Court Judge Thomas F. Keating announced yesterday he will step down from the bench June 16.

In a letter to Gov. Ronald Reagan, who must appoint his successor, Keating said he would like to step down on that date 12 days before his 67th birthday. However, he agreed to stay on into July and August if necessary.

Keating first donned the jidicial robes more than 20 years ago after serving as a state senator from Marin from 1937 to 1951. He was a member of the San Rafael Planning Commission from 1932 to 1936.

Member of a pioneer Marin family, the judge was born in Sausalito and attended local schools before taking his law degree from the University of California in 1931.

Upon graduation, he joined the San Rafael firm of Freitas, Duffy and Keating.

His parents were also involved in Marin law as sheriffs. His father was sheriff from 1911 until his death in 1929, then his mother took over for two years.

Keating is a former chairman of the United Crusade in Marin and has been active in the boy scouts and conservation movements.

He was for 14 years a member of the Senate Fish and Game Committee, served on the Senate Rules Committee and was chairman of the Senate Judiciary Committee.

Cifra said the 65-year-old actor's body was found in a room of the Rey Don Jaime hotel at Casteldelfels. He died from an overdose of a "pharmaceutical product," Cifra said.

Younger Opens Teen News Door

By DAVID DIETZ

State Atty. Gen. Evelle J. Younger issued an opinion yesterday that upheld access by newsmen to information dealing with juvenile detentions.

The opinion, which sought to clarify a 1971 state Supreme Court ruling, said state law does not ban newsmen from access to detention records or from attending juvenile court hearings.

As a result of the 1971 court ruling, Judge Joseph G. Wilson of Marin Superior Court ordered county law enforcement officials to withhold the identities of persons under 18 who are detained or cited for a crime.

The Supreme Court, in the case of TNG vs. California, had said Section 827 of the state Welfare and Institutions Code requires police to obtain permission of the juveniel court before releasing information to a third party.

Under this secfion, the court said further, police records come under control of the juvenile court, where they are confidential under state law.

In rebuttal, the California Newspaper Publishers Associa*tion has argued, among other* things, that Section 827 refers only to police records when a case has gone to juvenile court and the court has incorporated them into the juvenile court file.

Judge Wilson told the Independent-Journal today he would stand by his order, yesterday's opinion by the attorney general's office notwithstanding. "I have to go by what the Supreme Court said," he remarked.

All police department officials reached in Marin told the Independent-Journal they would continue to obey Judge Wilson's order until a clarification was made.

In Sonoma County, where police agencies have abided by a similar order from the district

Secret Study Said Vietnam War Eternal

WASHINGTON (UPI) —A secret study ordered by President Nixon the day after he took office revealed that it would take up to 13.4 years to complete pacification of South Vietnam and that the Communists were capable of outlasting the Allies indefinitely.

The study was conducted by Henry A. Kissinger, Nixon's national security affairs adviser, who compiled the results in a memo entitled "Responses to National Security Study Memorandum 1."

Excerpts of the document were published for the first time this week, but today Sen. Mike Gravel, D-Alaska, was blocked by Senate Republican Whip Robert P. Griffin of Michigan in an effort to insert it into the Congressional Record.

Only four senators were present when Gravel, who read the Pentagon Papers last summer at a midnight hearing of an obscure subcommittee he heads, made his attempt.

Griffin quickly objected and said: "I don't know what the documents involve, but I think it unfortunate that the senator from Alaska would take it upon himself to declassify government documents." Griffin also said that if Gravel tried to read from his speech further, he would move to put the Senate into closed session.

"I feel that there is no information that would jeopardize the internal security of this country," Gravel told Griffin.

The Justice Department had no immediate comment on the case, which brought to mind the publication of the Pentagon Papers, the Johnson administration's study of the buildup of the Vietnam war. The Nixon administration sued to prevent newspapers from publishing the HELSINKI (UPI) — U.S. and Soviet negotiators today held a brief plenary session of the Strategic Arms Limitation Talks (SALT) with expectations mounting for a partial nuclear arms agreement in time for next month's Moscow summit conference.

The meeting at the Soviet Embassy —the 120th plenary session since the SALT talks started here in the fall of 1969 — was described by conference sources as serious. It was the first full plenary session since the United States resumed bombing North Vietnam and Soviet chief delegate Vladimir S. Semenov went to Moscow for ensuing consultations.

UAW For Busing

ATLANTIC CITY, N.J. (UPI) — With only minor opposition, delegates to the United Auto Workers 23rd constitutional convention approved yesterday a resolution which gave qualified assent to the use of busing to bring quality education to all children.

The approval came shortly after Leonard Woodcock, president of the nation's second largest independent union, noted this was the first constitutional convention to be held without the later Walter P. Reuther, and said, "We still stand committed to the fight against injustice."

"Busing is not the issue . . . The issue is creating quality education for all," Woodcock said.

'Hidden' Disease

SAN FRANCISCO (UPI) — The nation's biggest "hidden" disease is high blood pressure, a painless ailment which will cut short the lives of many of the 10 million Americans who have it and don't know it, a panel of heart experts warned today.

They urged expansion of fledgling public health efforts to identify and treat the unknown half of the estimated 21 million Americans with hypertension — "one of the main causes of strokes, heart attacks and arteriosclerosis."

And they called on their fellow physicians to provide treatment for younger patients with high blood pressure rather than just advising them to "lose weight, watch your salt intake and live normally."

Bomb In Belfast

BELFAST, Northern Ireland (UPI) — Gunmen using a baby carriage filled with gelignite bombed Northern Ireland's main telephone exchange during the night then opened fire on British troops trying to evacuate 70 telephone operators and other persons from the building.

Snipers fired at troops when they arrived to try to clear persons from the telephone exchange in case there were more blasts. The soldiers fired back and hit one sniper.

The building was cleared but operators later returned to their switchboards.

Attack Stands

ATLANTA (UPI) — United Methodist Church delegates have refused to erase from the record an attack on evangelist Billy Graham as "a sort of high priest of a kind of new American folk religion."

The remarks were made Monday by Dr. Richard D. Pittinger of Huron, S.D., during a session of the two-weeks long general conference of the 11 million member denomination. Graham is a Baptist.

Pittinger described Graham as "one who wields vast influence with people in high places, who has become a sort of high priest of a kind of new American folk religion."

He said the evangelist has "on at least two occasions in my hearing made this comment on pending legislation relating to rat control in the ghetto: 'We had rats when I was a boy and we didn't ask the federal government to get rid of them for us. We got rid of those rats ourselves.'

"I submit the United Methodist Church must somehow publically disavow this kind of radical insensitivity."

Fleet Acknowledged

CAIRO (UPI) — Egypt acknowledged for the first time yesterday it has granted facilities to the Soviet fleet in the Mediterranean. It said it notified the United States in advance of its decision.

President Anwar Sadat made the announcement at a meeting with journalists and political leaders before his departure later this week to the Soviet Union, where he is expected to seek more hardware for the Egyptian war machine.

Sadat said previously that Egypt has granted facilities "that serve our interests" to the Soviets.

Trains Running

LONDON (UPI) — Railway workers across southeast England got back to work today after nearly two weeks of walkouts and disruption over pay increase demands. Officials reported commuter service "almost normal."

The railmen, mostly locomotive engineers, yielded to a court order to suspend a week-old work-to-rule to back demands for a 16 per cent pay hike. The government has offered 12.5 per cent.

Reagan Challenged

SACRAMENTO (UPI) — Rep. John M. Ashbrook has challenged Gov. Ronald Reagan to publicly debate whether President Nixon is now too liberal to merit the Republican party's renomination to a second term.

Reagan promptly rejected the challenge, declaring in a brief statement issued by his office: "I don't believe a debate with someone who by his own admission is not a serious candidate would serve any useful purpose."

Taiwan Earthquake

TAIPEI (UPI) — Four persons were killed and 11 injured last night in an earthquake that shook Taiwan for about five minutes. The victims were hurled from a commuter train in the Hualien area about 100 miles southeast of Taipei.

Planning Group Meeting Tomorrow

The Corte Madera Planning Commission, meeting tomorrow at 7:30 p.m., will continue its review of the first section of the proposed Madera del Presidio development on Highway 101 next to the Koch luggage plant.

During its last meeting on the subject, the planners heard developers plans for "Sunset Park," and neighbors complaints about the project. They began their own critique of the area, and are expected to continue Wednesday night.

USO Rake-Off Held In Vietnam

WASHINGTON (UPI) —Two former employes of the United Service Organizations claim USO workers in Vietnam made millions of dollars cheating GIs by inflated prices, a fraudulent mail order business and kickbacks.

REP. LES ASPIN

Rep. Les Aspin, D-Wis., Monday published the allegations in the Congressional Record, saying they "directly contradict claims by the USO that our GIs were not cheated."

Aspin's informants—both unnamed women who told stories about alleged scandal in the USO to the congressman' staff —detailed how USO concession items were overpriced by up to 400 per cent. They said one USO facility director made more than $2 million in Vietnam while earning $8,500 annually.

"If these allegations are true," Aspin said, "then the evidence is rapidly mounting that a gang of USO thieves cheated American GIs in Vietnam."

Defense Secretary Melvin R. Laird has dispatched investigators to Vietnam to aid in the probe of apparently fraudulent USO activities involving "very substantial" sums of money.

The USO is a $6 million annual operation, financed entirely by charity; it does receive some government assistance overseas in the sense that some of its recreation and social facilities for servicemen are housed in government facilities.

According to Aspin's informants, one operation headed by the director of the USO facility at Tan Son Nhut in South Vietnam offered exotic items such as crossbows through a mail order service.

However, the informant said, the pre-paid items were never sent to the GI's home in the United States and, "We were still getting letters back from GIs saying, 'Where the hell is my blowgun' or whatever it was."

The head of the mail order service received one bank statement "that had tens of thousands of dollars in it," the informant said.

Study Discloses Reason For Escalating Profits

WASHINGTON (UPI)—A confidential government study of 100 leading industries estimates that lack of competition causes the firms involved to reap bloated profits and waste billions of dollars a year through inefficient operation.

The Federal Trade Commission (FTC) study has been cited frequently by presidential hopeful Sen. George S. McGovern, D-S.D., who said the Price Commission should freeze all prices until the study is made public.

But Lawrence G. Meyer, the FTC official who directed the study, told UPI McGovern misused the statistics by interpreting from them that prices are inflated by more than $15 billion a year.

"The figures can't be used the way he is using them," Meyer said. The FTC's figures on excess profits and waste, he said, were only "rough estimates," far too inaccurate to be translated into realistic estimates to excess pricing.

Meyer declined to provide a copy of the study, but UPI obtained one from other sources. The study did not make the excess price estimates cited by McGovern, but it did provide data on estimated excess profits and waste from which the South Dakota senator computed his estimates.

The study concluded that concentrated industries—ones controlled by a few firms—not only waste more money and make more, but also adopt the "deception" of hiding some excess profits through bookkeeping ploys.

"We expect both waste and deception to be relatively more serious the higher the concentration," the study said. "When concentration is very low, the industry is competitive.

Based on this conclusion, which Meyer said was a common theory among economists since the 1930's, the FTC took the reported profit margins of 100 industries, added a figure to make up for estimated waste and hidden profits, and compared the total with 5 per cent—a figure picked as an average business profit.

Using that formula, the FTC estimated that auto makers' excess profits and waste total 9.1 per cent of every sales dollar. McGovern has used this figure to estimate that with $27.2 billion in sales, auto prices were inflated more than $2.5 billion a year.

Stereo Equipment Is Reported Stolen

A $200 stereo and amplifier were taken sometime between 9:30 a.m. Sunday and 8 a.m. yesterday from the offices of dentist J. L. Rosenberg at 1118 Irwin Street, San Rafael police reported today.

Burglars made their entry by prying a vent hole on the front of the building, police said.

Origin Of Life Held In Rocks?

MOUNTAIN VIEW (UPI)—Space Agency scientists have tested earthbound rocks that may bare some secrets of the origin of life.

The 3.4 billion-year-old rocks from a remote area of South Africa contained carbon which apparently predates the appearance of photosynthesis—thus supporting the theory of the chemical evolution of the origin of life.

Dr. Keith Kvenvolden, of the National Aeronautics and Space Administration, announced the findings Monday, but stressed that more studies were needed to make a final conclusion.

Organic carbon similar to that found in meteorites was discovered by researchers working with rocks from the lowest and oldest level of the 12 mile thick Onverwacht strata in the Barberton Mountain land of Southeastern Transvaal.

A layer of pre-cambrian rocks immediately above oldest level were virtually identical, but contained fossil evidence that its carbon was produced by early photosynthetic organisms, said Kvenvolden, a chemist at NASA's Ames Research Center.

"If the 3.4 billion-year-old ancient carbon from the lowest and oldest Onverwacht strata is, as it appears to be, of nonphotosynthetic origin, it could be either primordial and nonbiological in origin or contain the remains of those earliest pre-photosynthetic organisms," Kvenvolden said. "Further studies will be needed to determine this."

Kvenvolden conducted research on the rare rocks with Dr. J. William Schopf and Dorothy Z. Oehler of UCLA. The rocks were uncovered four years ago in the strata that has undergone only slight geological alteration since its ancient formation.

Marin Sewer Unit Meets Tomorrow

A resolution recommending that a system for reclaiming waste water be included in a proposed Southeast Marin Consolidated Sanitary Agency will be considered by directors of the Marin Municipal Water District at 1:30 p.m. tomorrow in the district office, Corte Madera.

The resolution, approved by both the advisory committee to improvement district A and environmental advisory subcommittee, calls for the district to include a "definite and real commitment" for future reuse of waste water into plans for the consolidated waste disposal system.

Humphrey, McGovern Hold Primary Keys

By U.P. INTERNATIONAL

Sens. Hubert H. Humphrey and George S. McGovern today were favored, respectively, to win the Pennsylvania and Massachusetts primaries with Sen. Edmund S. Muskie hoping for a sizeable share of delegates to keep his badly-floundering campaign alive until the Democratic National Convention.

The same-day presidential primaries in the two large eastern states hold a treasure of 239 delegate votes and the potential to ignite or cripple the campaigns of the three leading contenders for the Democratic presidential nomination.

But the outcome could also break so many ways that the three candidates might go into next week's Ohio and Indiana primaries, each claiming a share of the spoils and leaving the presidential sweepstakes every bit as confused as before the voting began.

The Pennsylvania primary is critical to the presidential ambitions of Humphrey and Muskie, running mates and political allies in 1968, now battling each other for dominance in the Democratic party's center.

They could both win.

Humphrey is favored to take the presidential preference contest, finally giving him the breakthrough he badly needs to prove that, at 61, he can still win. The former vice-president has never won a major, contested primary, although his attempts date back to 1960.

A major contender for the nomination off his one-sided win in the Wisconsin primary three weeks ago, McGovern is an almost prohibitive favorite to make it two straight in the Massachusetts' preference primary.

Labor Protection Bill For Men Clears Panel

SACRAMENTO (UPI)—The Assembly Labor Relations Committee has passed a bill extending to men protective labor provisions currently applying to women and children.

The bill by Assemblyman Willie Brown, D-San Francisco, was sent Monday to the Aways and Means Committee, which is headed by Brown, on a 5-2 vote.

The measure has been embroiled in the debate over the proposed equal rights amendment to the U.S. Constitution.

Labor has opposed the constitutional amendment because it did not preserve those working protections now applied to women and children. An attempt to tie Brown's bill to passage of the equal rights amendment failed before the Assembly approved a resolution ratifying the proposed 27th amendment.

Roselyn Brassell, a spokeswoman for Columbia Broadcasting System said the broadcasting industry objected to Brown's bill because it would control the maximum number of hours that male employes could work. She said that would stifle journalists and violate collective bargaining contracts regulating overtime.

Ford To Recall All '72 Montego, Torino Models

DETROIT (UPI)—Ford Motor Co. announced today it plans to replace the rear axles and bearings on 436,000 1972 model Mercury Montegos and Ford Torinos to ease the minds of their owners.

Ford had announced the recall of 396,000 of these vehicles April 17 to install bearing retain-er plates as a safety feature for the present axles and bearings. The new figure represents all the 1972 models sold thus far both in the United States and abroad.

A failure of the axles or bearings could result in a car's wheels falling off.

Kleindienst Probe May Not Be Over

WASHINGTON (UPI)—A new disclosure from one of President Nixon's top aides has triggered a demand that the Senate Judiciary Committee hold off a while longer on the attorney general nomination of Richard G. Kleindienst.

The aide, Peter G. Flanigan, sent a letter to the committee Monday answering questions submitted to him at the end of the panel's six-week investigation of Kleindienst, ITT and related matters.

Among other things Flanigan said Felix Rohatyn, a director of International Telephone & Telegraph, had raised the Justice Department's antitrust suit against ITT in a conversation with him. And he said he later passed Rohatyn's comments on to Kleindienst, who was assistant attorney general at the time—about one month before the Justice Department settled the ITT case out of court.

Kleindienst previously testified before the committee that he could not recall any contacts with the White House about the ITT antitrust matter.

Sen. Edward M. Kennedy, D-Mass., in response to Flanigan's comments, said:

"The conflicting statements of Mr. Flanigan and Mr. Kleindienst about the White House involvement in the settlement of the ITT case requires that both of them return to testify fully before the Judiciary Committee before the committee makes a recommendation to the Senate on this matter."

The committee is scheduled to meet later this week to tell the Senate whether it still recommends that Kleindienst be confirmed as attorney general. If it heeds Kennedy's demand that Flanigan and Kleindienst be recalled, the case could be extended indefinitely.

Planners Reject Apartment Unit

A development plan for the controversial Casa Madera apartment project near Corte Madera was rejected unanimously yesterday by the Marin County Planning Commission.

In rejecting the proposal, commissioners agreed with member Margaret B. Azevedo who labeled the project "overcrowded and oversized."

The proposal, submitted by builder Johnny Ribeiro of San Rafael, called for construction of 114 condominium apartments on an eight-acre site opposte the Cooperative Shopping Center on Tamal Vista Boulevard.

The site has been the center of controversy since last summer when the county approved high density zoning over the protests of Corte Madera officials and citizens.

Ronald E. Bartels, Corte Madera town manager, told the county planners yesterday his community opposed the proposed development as hotly as it did the rezoning.

He said his planning commission had raised six objections: A lack of open space, inadequate landscaping, too many three-bedroom units, poor traffic circulation, excessive density and massive structures.

Bartels was backed by Harold B. Wagstaff, Corte Madera city councilman, who said he felt the developer could reduce the number of units and still make a fair profit.

Councilman Edward W. Colthurst difered, however, saying the project should be approved because of the need for housing in the $30,000 to $35,000 range.

The proposal also found the county planning department split over its merits with Director Werner Von Gundell urging acceptance and Senior Planner Ray Smith opposing.

In rejecting the plan, the commission sided with Smith who said the building "configuration is reminiscent of World War II barracks."

The Marin Planning Commission Also:

RANCHETTES —Continued to May 8, a proposal to subdivide the 260-acre Elmer Martinelli Ranch at Point Reyes Station into 51 small ranches. The continuance came after the commission said it wanted the subdivision map redesigned to leave more open space.

REZONING — Continued to May 22, a proposal to rezone a lot on Auburn Street near San Rafael from apartment zoning to duplex zoning. The property, owned by George E. Oliver, who opposes the rezoning, was first considered for single family residential zoning but the commission agreed that was too low a density.

MILL VALLEY — Rejected unanimously a proposal from Blanda Telander that her small lot at the corner of Homestead Boulevard and Stadium Avenue near Mill Valley be rezoned to allow eight apartments instead of four.

EMBALMING —Approved unanimously a use permit application from Wendell M. Joost Jr. of Mill Valley to operate a "mortuary accommodation service" (embalming) at an existing building located adjacent to the heliport terminal near Richardson Bay.

EXTENSION — Approved unanimously a one-year extension of the Forest Hills subdivision map for property located north of the intersection of Homestead Boulevard and Ferndale Avenue in Tamalpais Valley. The development has been stalled by the sewer connection ban.

TENNIS — Approved unanimously a proposal from the San Geronimo Country Club to construct tennis courts and develop a tennis club in conjunction with the existing golf facilities.

BUTTERFLIES — Continued to May 8, an appeal of a lot split approval for the Hurford Sharon property east of the intersection of Terrace and Ocean Avenues in Bolinas. The lot split was appealed by nearby residents who said development of the land would threaten the migration habitat of monarch butterflies. It was continued to allow the county counsel to determine if the split could be denied on environmental grounds. About 135 letters were received in support of the appeal.

Judge Orders Examination

Marin Superior Court Judge Samuel W. Gardiner has ordered a psychiatric examination for Frederick Robert Johnson of Novato, accused of entering a neighbor's house with intent to commit rape.

A second charge of entry with intent to commit theft was dismissed Friday by Judge Robert A. Smallman in Municipal Court.

Two Injured On Shoreline Highway

A car driven by a youth from El Cerrito, Contra Costa County, swerved to avoid oncoming traffic, hit a bank and turned upside down on Shoreline Highway near the Muir Beach overlook about 4:45 p.m. Sunday, according to the Highway Patrol.

Driver of the car, Richard A. Stachel, 19, was treated for multiple facial cuts at Marin General Hospital, and his passenger, Esther K. Sanchez, 20, of Richmond was reported by a spokesman to be in satisfactory condition in the intensive care unit with a head injury.

Woman Ordered To Wait In Jail For Methadone

A 20-year-old Fairfax woman believed to be a heroin addict was sentenced yesterday in Marin Superior Court to stay in Marin County Jail until she is old enough to begin methadone treatment against the drug habit.

Judge Samuel W. Gardiner ordered Pamela Mae Wilson to stay in jail until Aug. 8, a day before her 21st birthday, because methadone can be administered legally only to persons at least 21.

She was also placed on two years probation for two felony counts of forging checks and a misdemeanor count of forging a signature of a credit card slip.

She was arrested Nov. 1 in a Sausalito shop after employees reported she tried to use a stolen credit card for a $126 purchase.

The check counts stemmed from two incidents in San Rafael where she cashed two checks for $260 in August and September that were reported stolen from a car in West Marin.

The plea bargain in the cases had called for her to serve no more than 90 days in jail, but she agreed to the longer period recommended by probation officer Jesse W. Johnson.

Johnson, who said her crimes had been committed to support her habit, added, "my purpose in recommending four months in the county jail was to get her away from heroin period."

Judge Gardiner said, "if she can't get methadone, then let's lock her up until she can get some."

Planners Round Halfway Mark In Marin Farm Land Rezoning

Controversial rezoning of the county's 210,000-acre agricultural preserve rounded the halfway mark yesterday as the Marin County Planning Commission reclassified the third of five sections to be considered.

Commission approval followed nearly four hours of deliberation and resulted in some 30,000 acres west and south of Tomales Bay being restricted in new growth to one home per 60 acres.

Small areas around Olema and Five Brooks were rezoned to hree and five-acre lots, however, to allow for some expansion of those tiny communities.

Other land holdings, primarily in the Olema and Inverness Park areas, were excluded altogether and will be considered separately next month.

Yesterday's action came on a 4-1 vote with Commissioner George P. Leonard dissenting as he has in the past, claiming the rezoning is unnecessary. Commissioners Jack G. Nixon and William B. Lynch were absent.

The rezoning, supported by the county planning department and several conservation groups, is required under state law to protect the agricultural industry from the pressures of urban growth.

The law — the Williamson Act — states that lands within the preserve must be zoned in a manner compatible with agriculture. The planning department maintains that 60-acre zoning is the most compatible for Marin's dairying and livestock grazing operations.

Rezoning of the third section still must be ratified by the county board of supervisors which has already approved the first two sections — 60,000 acres east of Tomales Bay and 20,000 northwest of Novato.

While yesterday's hearing was lengthy, little new was introduced in testimony. Opponents branded it unfair since it might reduce property values and supporters applauded it as an end to land speculation and development.

Much of the session was devoted to individual parcels of land which property owners and their attorneys urged be excluded from the rezoning.

Several landowners such as Niels A. Schultz Jr. and Clarence Rodgers who have land near Olema, were successful in winning separate consideration.

Others, however, such as the owners of Deep Cove Ranch north of Tomales Bay State Park, did not fare as well.

The commission ruled that the ranch — being considered for inclusion in the Point Reyes National Seashore — should be rezoned in case negotiations fail with the federal park officials. Under the old zoning, the ranch could have been developed with one home per two acres.

The next rezoning hearing was set for June 5 and will consider the final two sections — the Nicasio Valley and Bolinas areas.

District Sells Collateral Items

More than 200 assorted items that had been left as collateral at Golden Gate Bridge toll booths for the past two years, have been auctioned off for $246.30 by the Golden Gate Bridge, Highway and Transportation District.

According to Captain Edward Ashoff, of the district, 10 times as many motorists are being caught without enough money since the bridge began charging 50 cents in only one direction.

The $246.30 is more than twice as much as the unpaid toll fees for which the auctioned merchandise was collected Friday, but that is unusual, the captain said. More often the tolls aren't covered.

TV Set Stolen

Larkspur police reported today that thieves stole a television set valued at $400 belonging to Phyllis L. Moser from her locked car parked in front of her apartment building at 10 Larkspur Drive Friday between 6:15 p.m. and 6:30 p.m.

Larkspur, State Object To Floating Creek Piers

The City of Larkspur and the State Lands Division have filed objections with the U.S. Army Corps of Engineers to two applications for floating piers in the Corte Madera Creek in Greenbrae.

The applications were made by Mr. and Mrs. John A. Moran, of 175 Upper Via Casitas, Greenbrae, and Betty Burger, through Western Dock Enterprises, 834 Vallejo Avenue, Novato.

Both applications specify that a ramp, dock and pier would be constructed on the creek.

According to Evan Hong, chief of the permit division of the corps, the State Lands Division objected to the applications because it feels that both docks "are encroaching on state lands." The division requested that both applicants seek state permits to build on the property before applying for U.S. Army Corps of Engineers approval.

In a letter from Harlan Barry, assistant city manager of Larkspur, the city stated that the "proposed dock does not conform with our policy that no finger piers be allowed."

According to Hong, decisions on the applications will be made after word is received from the U.S. Department of Interior and the California Resources Agency.

Man Injured In Rear-End Collision

Carl Gomez, 25, of Windsor, was treated at Hillcrest Hospital for head cuts suffered in a two-car accident at 2:40 a.m. Sunday on Highway 101 at Washington Street, Petaluma.

The California Highway Patrol said his southbound car struck the rear of a car driven by Brustis J. Olhiser, 22, of Santa Rosa.

KPIX Schedules Jail Discussion

James W. L. Park, associate warden at San Quentin Prison, and San Francisco Sheriff Richard Hongisto along with a Stanford University professor will discuss jails and prisons on a special news feature at 10 o'clock tonight on KPIX.

Park said the discussion, moderated by Frank Gorin, will go beyond the original subject matter of jail breaks and will cover general prison conditions.

Third member of the panel will be Phillip Zimbardo, a psychology professor, who conducted an experiment last August on simulated prison conditions using students as guards and inmates.

Articles of incorporation as a non-profit corporation have been prepared, and will be filed as soon as a board of directors is named. Meyer hopes to have the board include representatives of the governor's office, legislature, state superintendent of public instruction, state Board of Education, and experts from the fields of education and government at district, county and local levels.

The New Voter, said Meyer, will concentrate on the local political scene.

"You can't get a young person all fired up about the presidential race and then expect him to take an interest in the local sanitary district," he said today. "But you can get him interested and involved in local political problems which he can see for himself, and he will go on from there to interest in state and national governments."

To do the job of preparing new voters, Meyer proposes to set up a course in local government to be offered in Marin schools on a pilot basis and made statewide after a year's shakedown. This would be augmented by summer courses at College of Marin and Dominican College in 1973 to prepare teachers from throughout the state. The magazine, the New Voters, would be used in the classrooms to augment whatever texts were produced or adopted.

Either a foundation grant or federal funds of $100,000 will be sought to pay for the first year's work, Meyer said. Both are available for such a project, "and we are the first on the scene," he declared.

He plans to publish the New Voter (for the first issue of which he paid from his own pocket) on a monthly basis beginning with opening of school next September, if funds are forthcoming.

"There is no problem getting endorsements," commented Meyer. "This is needed, and everybody I tell about it is quick to endorse it. It is just a matter of getting organized."

He plans to set up seminars and conferences in addition to the summer school sessions for teachers, with texts, lesson plans, discussion leader manuals and other printed materials to be produced by experts in government and education.

The initial issue of New Voter indicates the type of information Meyer feels this new bloc of voters needs. It includes a directory of California county registrars of voters, a brief explanation of the state legislative process, an article on the importance of one vote, and a "new voter quiz" on election procedures and how ballots can be cast, along with information on the state central committees of the two major parties and on the municipal elections held this month.

Meyer stressed that the organization is completely nonpartisan, designed to get the interest of new voters and about-to-be new voters and give them the education they need to participate in the governing process, through the ballot and otherwise.

Youths Arrested In Car Theft

Two Georgia youths were arrested by Novato police at 12:05 a.m. yesterday on suspicion of car theft after they were discovered asleep in a stolen car at the north end of Simmons Lane.

Jimmie Shelton Webber, 21, of Claxton, Ga., was booked at Marin County Jail, and his companion, Bruce William Lee, 17, of Fort Jackson, Ga., was taken to Juvenile Hall, officers reported.

Webber's bail was set at $1,250 and he was scheduled to appear in Marin Municipal Court today.

The car was stolen from Marvin Messex of Visalia, Ga., on April 18, police said.

Preliminary Hearing

A preliminary hearing in Marin Municipal Court has been set for May 9 for Michael John Ontiveros, 23, of San Francisco who is charged with trying to cash two stolen checks totaling $650 at a bank in San Rafael last year.

Woman Assaulted

A woman from Anderson, Shasta County, was raped and robbed in Marin City at about 11 o'clock last night, according to sheriff's deputies, but further details of the attack were unavailable, they said.

Hub Driver Is Booked; Pot Probe Is Made

A 25-year-old San Anselmo man was booked into Marin County Jail on suspicion of drunken driving, possession of marijuana and possession of narcotics paraphenalia early today, according to the California Highway Patrol.

Officers said Michael J. McCarthy, of 4 Greenfield Court, was stopped on Highway 101 near Third Street in San Rafael about 11:10 p.m. yesterday, and arrested. While being searched at the jail, officers said they discovered what they believe was marijuana, and in his car found a device for holding a marijuana cigarette.

He was to appear today in Marin Municipal Court and no bail was set.

Officers said his car was stopped because he was driving erratically.

an artificial moonquake to be recorded by the seismometer Young and Duke left behind.

But the astronauts successfully deployed a little satellite designed to measure radiation and magnetic forces around the moon. Dr. David W. Stangway, chief geophysicist at the Manned Spacecraft Center, said an identical satellite left behind by Apollo 15 "has told us a lot of very exciting things" about the peculiarities of the moon.

The astronauts were so impressed by the view of the moon as they sped away that they beamed a 15-minute telecast 240,000 miles to Earth.

"You know Pete, if you took this view you just saw of the moon and put it in a movie everybody would say you were just faking it," Duke told ground communicator Don Peters. "You can't see any stars, just pure blackness and that white-gray body sitting out there."

The camera then showing the pilots with heavy beards. When Young appeared before the camera, he held up his hand and said:

Peevey Campaign Office Opened

Michael R. Peevey, candidate for the Marin County Board of Supervisors, has opened campaign headquarters in San Rafael at the Depot, 930 Tamalpais Avenue, and in Corte Madera at 626 Tamalpais Drive.

A reception at the Corte Madera headquarters will be held from 5 to 7 p.m. on Saturday.

Mental Health Plans Volunteer Training

A training course for mental health volunteers will be offered by the Marin Association for Mental Health beginning at 1 p.m. May 15 at the psychiatric unit of Ross General Hospital.

The course, which consists of five two-hour sessions, trains volunteers to join the Community Friends Program. On a one-to-one basis, members of the program help persons recovering from mental disorders during their first months of readjustment to community living.

Marin Hospital Fire Report Due

The Marin Hospital District board of directors will receive a report from its fire protection committee when it meets at 7 p.m. Tuesday in the Coral Room at Marin General Hospital.
p.m. today in the Coral Room at Marin General Hospital.

The board will also receive reports from the chief of staff, volunteers, Community Health Center and the personnel committee. It will receive the March financial statement, consider rotation of bank accounts and bad-debt write-off.

Larkspur Planners, Rec Panel To Meet

The Larkspur Planning Commission, meeting today at 8 p.m. with the city's park and recreation commission, will consider adoption of a master plan for parks and recreation.

The commission will also consider an ordinance requiring a five-foot-high fence around all swimming pools in Larkspur, adoption of criteria for denial of subdivisions and review the study district status of land east of Highway 101.

Pentagon Papers but was overruled by the Supreme Court.

Parts of the Kissinger study were published this week by Newsweek magazine and columnist Jack Anderson, and the Washington Post published the memo in today's editions.

The documents show Nixon received "profoundly different" judgments from government agencies on the state of the Indochina war and the actions he should take.

The Joint Chiefs of Staff, the American military command in Vietnam, the U.S. embassy in Saigon and the Commander in Chief of Pacific forces tended to take a "hawkish" and optimistic view. A more skeptical and pessimistic slant was taken by the civilian Office of the Secretary of Defense (OSD), the Central Intelligence Agency and the State Department.

Advisers differed sharply about the validity of the "domino" theory, the effectivness of B52 strikes, the length of time it would take to "pacify" the Vietnamese countryside, and the prospects for shutting off military aid to North Vietnam from China and the Soviet Union.

The Kissinger memorandum said, however, that there was "general agreement" that the South Vietnamese armed forces "alone cannot now, or in the foreseeable future, stand up to the current (1969) North Vietnamese and Viet Cong forces."

Kissinger's memorandum said there also was a consensus that "under current rules of engagement the enemy's manpower pool and infiltration capabilities can outlast allied attrition efforts indefinitely." It said the Communists were still capable of launching major offensives despite their losses during TET, 1968.

The survey showed that optimists and pessimists differed about how long it would take to complete pacification in South Vietnam but that both concluded there would not be "anything close to complete success within several years."

"If the 1967-1968 pacification rate ... is sustained the first interpretation implies that it will take 8.3 years to pacify the 4.15 million contested and VC population of December, 1968; the second view implies pacification success in 13.4 years," the survey said.

WAR

tanks had advanced to within two miles to the east of Bravo in an apparent flanking movement.

Defending Bravo were infantrymen of the 22nd South Vietnamese Division who were able to make their way south when the forward defenses 25 miles north of Kontum crumbled Monday. They were reinforced by paratroopers who evacuated Rocket Ridge, an artillery base west of Kontum, which was to have defended an invasion valley.

There were 13 U.S. advisers in the Tan Canh area at the time the attacks began Monday and eight were unaccounted for tonight.

Capt. Raymond H. Dobbins, 35, of Marietta, Ga., one of those who made it to allied lines today after hiding out all night inside the captured base said six Americans and four helicopter crewmen were killed when their rescue chopper was shot down over Dak To.

Only Dobbins and four others were known to be still alive.

A critical situation also was reported in Cambodia where the High Command said 12 Communist tanks were reported moving in on the besieged capital of Svay Rieng, 78 miles southeast of Phnom Penh on Highway 1 leading to Saigon.

Fall of Svay Rieng would give the Communists control of another 25-mile stretch of the highway in the Parrots Beak sector which juts into South Vietnam only 35 miles from Saigon. They have already seized control of 60 miles of the road, and a command spokesman said the situation was "critical."

At An Loc, 60 miles north of Saigon and another major Communist objective, the South Vietnamese were reported still holding on. The commanding general said the South Vietnamese were mounting a "counter-offensive" after U.S. planes had inflicted heavy casualties on the enemy.

attorney's office, the situation was identical. John Hawkes, acting district attorney, said he hadn't received Younger's opinion yet.

The attorney general's opinion, written by one of his deputies, Arnold O. Overoye, was the second to come from his office on the matter in several months. In February, Younger's office concluded that other police agencies could be given juvenile records.

That ruling noted that various state laws, such as those governing motor vehicle use, specifically require that the records be given to state agencies such as the Bureau of Criminal Statistics and the Department of Motor Vehicles.

But it said nothing about whether records denied the public could be shown to the press. As a result, Assemblyman Robert Monagan, R-Stockton, asked for additional clarification about news media access to juvenile records.

Overoye noted in his opinion that the governor's special study commission on juvenile courts in 1960 issued a report that said juvenile secrecy laws never were intended to bar the press from hearings or records.

The 1960 study was approved by the Legislature the following year, Overoye said, and is the latest expression of legislative intent.

In a discussion of his opinion with United Press International, Overoye said judges in juvenile court still have the authority to exclude newsmen from juvenile hearings. However, he said, it was the attorney general's opinion that the law of the state does not ban newsmen from all such hearings or any access to juvenile detention records.

Overoye noted that the 1960 governor's commission said newsmen should be allowed to see such records and attend hearings because of "their voluntarily adopted code of ethics."

The deputy attorney general believed clarifying legislation was needed in the matter in view of the confusion resulting from last year's Supreme Court ruling.

Bomb Threats In Las Vegas

LAS VEGAS, Nev. (UPI)—At least 15 Las Vegas hotels and gambling resorts have been threatened with bombing unless they agree to a $2 million payoff.

The threat came in identical letters received Monday. Fifteen were turned over to the Federal Bureau of Investigtion and authorities refused to comment on the case. However, it is believed all 21 major downtown and strip hotels received copies of the typewritten letter which was mailed from Texas on Sunday.

The letter did not spell out the time and place of the payoffs but its author indicated that he doesn't care whether the money is paid jointly or by an individual hotel, as long as he gets $2 million.

Marinite Gets Year On Drugs

I-J Special Report

SAN FRANCISCO — A Mill Valley man has been sentenced in superior court to one year in county jail after pleading guilty to charges of selling LSD.

Roger G. Leibowitz, 40, of 40 Hillside Drive, was sentenced Friday by Judge Walter Calcagno. His jail term, however, will not begin until he is sentenced June 29 in U.S. District Court on a seperate matter.

In that case, Leibowitz was arrested March 11, 1971 in San Rafael, and charged with conspiracy to sell LSD. On Feb. 28, he pleaded guilty to the charge.

In his sentence Friday, Judge Calcagno gave Leibowitz a suspended state prison sentence, three years probation, and the stay of execution until his sentencing in federal court.

The decision ended a case that had run for more than a year. Leibowitz was arrested with another Mill Valley man in a San Francisco motel after police said the pair arranged for sale of 36,000 tablets of LSD. That man, Charles S. Wismer, 21, of 342 Live Oak Drive, was sentenced to nine months in county jail.

Third Life Term For 3 Murders

The Cushmans were the parents of Jean Wiedenmeyer of San Rafael.

"Nothing is being done on this program, although the money has been budgeted for it," Mrs. McLemore said.

Jail Status Clarification Is Wanted

I-J Special Report

SANTA ROSA — The Sonoma County Board of Supervisors yesterday joined with three other counties asking the state to clarify its position on keeping convicted felons in county jails.

The supervisors said the current shift of keeping inmates in county jails rather than state prisons has caused both physical and financial problems.

Sonoma Sheriff Donald Striepeke blamed the state policy for violence at the county jail last month, saying many of the prisoners who led the disturbance would normally have been sentenced to state prisons where facilities are available to handle them.

Sonoma supervisors joined in the resolution with supervisors from Marin, Solano and Napa counties. They said that rumors that major prisons will be closed may put even a more pressing burden on county jails.

The four counties have been discussing the possibility of building a joint maximum security jail to house county inmates who would normally have gone to state prisons in recent years. The board said it hoped for answers promptly from Gov. Ronald Reagan and Raymond Procunier, director of the state Department of Corrections, so planning can move ahead.

Too Late To Kick When Tax Falls Due

If the county board of supervisors and the various city councils, school boards and special district boards were to launch into budget hearings right now, they likely would have surprising attendance by the public.

Fuming and feeling frustrated after paying record-high property taxes, John Q. Taxpayer is looking for the guys who did it to him. He wants to know where the money went.

By the time budget hearings are held this summer, however, John Q. will have cooled down considerably. In fact, he will have cooled to the point that he likely won't bother to attend any budget discussion of any of the dozen or so jurisdictions that have their hands in his pockets through the power to tax.

EACH YEAR at budget time, the Independent-Journal urges attendance at the meetings, pointing out that the appropriations then authorized will fix the size of the tax bills to follow. But each year it is the same story: The only budget hearings drawing much of anybody are those of the board of supervisors, and they are attended principally by organized groups who are after the tax money — more of it.

There's a reason for this, apart from apathy.

Those who attend budget sessions find themselves frustrated all over again. They are not furnished the information on which the board or council is basing its decisions. Mostly they can't tell what the members are talking about. When they ask questions, they often get rude treatment. And so, in most cases, they give it up as a bad job after one or two tries.

NON-ATTENDANCE by the public makes things nice for the treasury raiders, who find no one there to oppose their projects. Also, it enables the elected officials to pose as defenders of the public purse, trying their darndest to hold down the tax bill but somehow unable to succeed.

Sometimes this is a spurious pose.

Let's take, for instance, the Marin County Board of Supervisors, whose budget has escalated most rapidly of any (except that of the county schools department, now done separately) in the past couple of years.

In 1970, County Administrator Alan Bruce proposed a budget totaling $36,024,555. After weeks of "efforts to cut," the supervisors approved one totaling $37,022,804 — almost a million dollars more than the administrator had proposed.

Last year, the board did a little better. It actually cut almost $300,000 from the budget Bruce proposed. But it started out with one of $45,511,980 — the biggest one-year increase, by far, in the county's history. The one it approved, totaling $45,229,158, was still some 26 per cent above the previous year's.

WHAT HAPPENED was that department heads got the board to restore cuts in their requests which had been made by the administrator sometimes, we suspect, with full knowledge that they wouldn't stay cut), and the pressure groups — consistent attenders of budget hearings — were present with their hands out.

The supervisors listened to those who were present. The rest of us have just paid the bill.

It is frustrating to contend with financial rigamarole and political and bureaucratic double-talk at budget hearings. But unless the public makes its wants known, in no uncertain terms, there will be no hold-down of taxes. And this means appearing not just once, and not just before the board of supervisors, but again and again, at the budget hearings of all those taxing agencies.

Statistics, News Stories Prove Crime Not Just Cities' Problem

There are many good reasons for moving from an overcrowded big city to the wide open spaces of town and country America.

This truth was brought home to my wife and me by two recent news items.

ONE CAME from Washington, D.C., where we made our home for 25 years prior to last September. When we lived in Washington, people were afraid to visit us because they'd read and heard so much about the high incidence of murder, robbery, mugging, rape and other violent crime. President Nixon spoke of Washington as "the crime capital of the nation."

Well, it isn't any more. The latest FBI crime-index reports show that Washington has achieved a 18.5 per cent reduction in serious crime since 1969. And this downturn took place while the crime rate for the nation as a whole was steadily rising.

SHORTLY AFTER we learned how much safer the streets have become in Washington, we came across another news item, this time concerning the area in which we now live. According to a report released by a New York organization, the area around Augusta, Ga., and adjacent Aiken County, S.C., in which we settled last fall, has the highest homicide rate in the entire nation.

This report was greeted by some shrill outcries of protest from local chambers of commerce, but no one who reads the daily papers of Augusta or Aiken could find it hard to believe that we really deserve this grisly distinction.

In his classic study of "the Mind of the South," sociologist A. J. Cash said there always has been a strong streak of violence in the southern character. He said that in 1942, and 30 years later I can attest it's still true.

EVERY MONDAY, the Aiken Standard carries a front-page roundup of weekend police activity. I read it with a mixture of horror and fascination. Shootings and knifings, often fatal, are sufficiently commonplace to warrant one or at most two paragraphs. Breakins and burglaries usually are summarized statistically, with no details given unless one of them was particularly spectacular.

Occasionally there is a lighter note. One day the roundup included a single paragraph stating that police were searching for an unidentified man who had parked his car in front of a home at midday, removed all of his clothing, and given chase to a lady who had been spading a petunia bed in the front yard. It was implied, though not explicitly stated, that she outran him.

Aside from disproving the widespread notion that city life is dangerous and small town life is dull, these facts have a significance which ought not be overlooked in any discussion of the "crime problem."

Crime is not just an urban problem; it is a national problem. No one can run away and hide from it.

WHAT OUR READERS SAY

Letters for "What Our Readers Say" are welcomed. To be published, they must bear the writer's signature and address (only the city will be printed, but street or post office box address must be included.) Try to limit letters to 200 words. The editors reserve the right to cut long letters, or to reject any that may be libelous or in bad taste.

Wives Encouraged To Become 'Dropouts'

Since Marin County has one of the highest divorce rates in the country, Life Magazine's recent article "Dropout Wife" (March 17) makes interesting reading for those of us who went through it all. Especially so, since local groups like the Marin Unitarian Fellowship has an ambitious program of phasing out marriages, leaving untold pain and misery in the wake of its egregious success.

The "Letters to the Editor" to this article (Life, April 7) are significant, since they point out the paradox of the situation. If a husband leaves his family, he may go to jail for non-support. If a wife does the very same thing, she is hailed as "liberated", while leaving her husband broke, saddled with house, debts, children and home-care, and with the continued responsibility of financial support for her. When the law is finally changed to recognize a wife's responsibility, in addition to her rights, wife-dropping-out — along with such groups as the Unitarian Fellowship of Marin — may come to a well-deserved, screeching halt.

Cal-Vet Bond Act Approval Is Urged

I write this letter in support of Cal-Vet Proposition One on the June 6 ballot.

Proposition One is a $250 Million Cal-Vet Bond Act. It would authorize the state to sell bonds and provide, from the monies acquired, loans for California veterans to purchase homes and farms in our state at a reduced interest rate.

Funds for this model state program, which has been in being for the past 50 years, is now exhausted. The last $50 million of bonds authorized in 1968 have been sold and used to fund loans for homes and farms of California veterans.

The beautiful part of this program, in addition to providing low cost home loans to California veterans instead of a cash bonus plan used by most other states, is that it costs the taxpayer absolutely nothing, it is completely self-supporting, self-liquidating . . .

Proposition One has been endorsed by every major veterans organization in the state. In addition, it has the backing of organized labor, chambers of commerce, businessmen, taxpayer groups, Democrats and Republicans, consumer groups, state legislators and citizens in every walk of life. This bond act was placed on the ballot by a unanimous vote of the state Legislature and the signature of the governor . . .

I therefore, urge all voters to vote yes on Proposition One on the June 6 ballot.

No Longer Loyal, Wants Hanoi To Win

I am not now nor have I ever been a member of the Communist Party or any other "subversive" organization. Contrarily, I am a white, Anglo-Saxon, formerly Protestant, middle-class, American and Marin County employee.

About seven years ago I became aware of the existence of Vietnam. About six years ago I started signing petitions and marching in protest against our involvement in their civil war. About five years ago I was a plaintiff in a suit aginst the U.S. government for return of taxes unconstitutionally used to wage genocidal war against the Vietnamese. We lost. Six years and four years ago I worked for as many "peace" candidates as possible in the electoral process. They were all defeated. I became quite pessimistic about the efficacy of loyal, legal and peaceful dissent.

Admittedly, biased as I am against the political right, I believed in the glimmer of hope allowed by President Nixon in his de-escalation policies and removal of troops. After all, didn't Ike stop the Korean War? Meanwhile, the left kept warning of Nixon's substitution of electronic and aerial warfare in place of ground troops. But I wanted to believe that Nixon really would stop the war and so was lulled into apathy and aquiescence.

All along I felt uneasy and a little guilty about opposing my government's actions. Now that is all changed. Since the resumption of bombing North Vietnam, I am no longer a loyal but protesting American. I am an unloyal, protesting American.

I hope with all sincerity that the North Vietnamese and the Viet Cong defeat the U.S. military — that the remaining U.S. forces are pushed into the sea — that Richard Nixon becomes politically annihilated again and forever more as representative and symbol of the American fascist movement — that all the fascist supporters of Nixon and the military are overwhelmed and ideologically obliterated by world wide revulsion and reaction.

Power to our people and the People's Republic of Vietnam!

Day Care By The Government: Poor Idea And Bad Timing

(Reprinted from
Wall Street Journal

When President Nixon vetoed a proposed child care program last year, he described it as the most radical legislation to emerge from the 92nd Congress. Nevertheless, the subject of child care is very much alive on Capitol Hill, where several modified plans have recently been drawn up.

Mr. Nixon was probably right when he said the original child care bill was flawed by "fiscal irresponsibility, administrative unworkability and family-weakening implications." Although probably only a cryptographer could be expected to understand the vague language of that bill, the intent seemed to be that eventually the federal government should undertake a comprehensive range of health, education and social services for just about every child in the nation, regardless of family income. Even supporters agreed that the proposed $2 billion initial appropriation would soon cost many times that amount.

Sen. James Buckley asked whether we really want the federal government to become "the most important and ultimately the strongest arbiter of child-rearing practices in the United States." It is legitimate to ask what values any comprehensive federal program would instill in pre-schoolers, but the question suggests a reputation for effectiveness that the government does not deserve. For example, a study of day care money for fiscal 1969 found that Congress allocated $22.6 million nationwide. Yet the states — because of transfers to other programs, lapsed appropriations and carry-overs into future years — actually managed to spend only $4 million of that.

In view of the failure of the much-ballyhooed war on poverty, it is surely reasonable for the administration to question the wisdom of plastering another bureaucratic layer over what is deemed to be another pressing social problem. And at a time when a national newsweekly can seriously raise the question of whether the U.S. is going broke, we would think that even official Washington should hesitate to vote another multi-billion-dollar program.

WASHINGTON — The President and the half-dozen men who took the decision to bomb Haiphong and Hanoi weighed two sets of risks one against the other before the final word went out. Not the least of the risks on one side of the balance sheet was that this country would be torn apart once more by violent dissension.

On the other side of the ledger was the risk that if the Communist offensive was not checked, the South Vietnamese Army might be overrun. Then the plight of the 70,000 American troops still in the south would be desperate. In this light wasn't the commander-in-chief compeled to risk escalation of the bombing beyond anything up to this point in the war? This is an inside view of the decision-making process.

THE RISK TAKERS adding up the score to date believe they have accomplished their limited objective. Gasoline and oil dumps in the environs of Hanoi and Haiphong were almost totally destroyed. The flames were so great that they could be seen from the aircraft carrier Kitty Hawk 110 miles offshore. Hundreds of trucks were also destroyed.

A year to a year and a half would be required for the Soviet Union to replace these stores. This does not mean that the offensive from the north will be brought to a full stop. In the pipe line or at battlefield centers are sufficient stores to fuel the Communist drive for at least another two months. These stores are so dispersed as to be beyond the bombers' reach.

The decision makers seem to have been almost as much in the dark as the rest of us on why Mscow chose to give Hanoi long-range and advanced weapons for a full-scale offensive. Medium-size we could have taken; that would have worn off. This is the melancholy reflection of those trying to cope with the big push.

The Soviet decision is related to the time last Nvember when Henry Kissinger, the President's security adviser, believed that his secret talks with the North Vietnamese in Paris were about to reach a successful conclusion. Doveish critics have always been skeptical that those talks could bring a negotiated settlement. But Kissinger was certain that the war was soon to be ended at the conference table. He insisted that Hanoi would even accept a cease-fire if it was within the framework of an over-all political settlement.

The Nrth Vietnamese went so far as to give a specific reason — the illness of Le Duc Tho — why they could not meet a proposed date. This was unprecedented. Then, as Kissinger waited for a further response, Moscow is believed to have signalized the go-ahead. That would have been between Nov. 5 and 17, but this is largely conjecture.

AS THE MASS of new, advanced material was moved in, it was widely believed that the offensive would come in February while President Nixon was in Peking. This seems to have been the assumption of Moscow. That would have caused the utmost embarrassment for the President and his Chinese hosts.

The biggest risk was that the meeting in Moscow on May 22 between the President and the Soviet leaders will be called off. No one will say what the cut-off point may be. Moscow reports four Russian ships were hit in Haiphong harbor. If two ships were sunk (three?) (four?) would this inevitably put an end to the meeting on which the Nixon administration has put such a high priority?

Bringing the war back to the front pages as the B-52s rain down thousands of tons of bombs on the south and the north, with new civilian casualties and masses of refugees, is bound to stir a reaction.

The administration rests its case largely on Communist violation of the demilitarized zone with the full-scale movement of men and arms across what was in the 1968 agreement to have been a sanctuary. But that is a paper-thin defense, since the DMA, so often shot over, has long since become only another battleground.

Driver License Not Reliable Identification It's Believed

By EARL G. WATERS

Efforts of the airlines to tighten security by the use of drivers' licenses as a means of identification points up the trend over the years to the widespread reliance upon this instrument.

As State Motor Vehicle officials are quick to cite, the driver's license was intended only to serve the purpose of identifying the operator of a motor vehicle.

Its development into a general purpose identification stems largely from the practice of those in trade who have resorted to its use in cashing checks and extending credit. Bar owners, seeking to avoid trouble with alcohol control agents, also have depended upon it to weed out minors in quest of the forbidden spirits.

The retailers were instrumental in securing laws requiring a photograph on the license, which is now compulsory although the thumbprint remains optional.

UNFORTUNATELY the driver's license only serves its purpose in the hands of honest people. Its widely accepted use for check cashing or credit is an enigma in itself, for it certainly has nothing to do with one's financial standing.

And, as a means of identification it isn't even a surety for its original purpose, that of identifying a vehicle driver. Happily the highly developed computerized driver license files permit officers to check the fidelity of any questionable license with the Department of Motor Vehicles in Sacramento in a matter of seconds.

But retailers and others, which now includes the airlines, do not have this service available to them. And even if they did it wouldn't be a guarantee. It's not 100 per cent for the officers.

For the truth is that bona fide licenses are easily altered by experts. So it doesn't protect the bar owner as much as he may think it does, nor can it be taken by anyone for absolute identification.

In addition there are thousands of counterfeit licnses in circulation as indicated by check fraud investigators. And while the check made by the traffic officers will expose both the altered and fictitious licenses, it will not detect those which have been secured from the state under false names and addresses.

LICENSES ARE ISSUED at 148 field offices and 22 mobile units of the Motor Vehicle Department. By applying at different offices it is possible to get licenses under different names and addresses. Since the physical description set forth on the license is from a form filled out by the applicant, these licenses could also vary as to descriptions. Of course, all would have a picture of the same person.

Perhaps no one person has secured 170 different licenses by visiting each of the different offices, but the practice of having more than one license is not isolated. Keith Ball, chief of the Drivers License Bureau, discloses that between 200 and 250 duplicate licenses are discovered each month. He says the discoveries are made by sharp-eyed clerks who notice the similarity of photographs and not by any scientific method.

While the department expects to overcome the altered and counterfeit license problem this July with the adoption of new secret markings in the license visible only by special light, the duplicate problem can be overcome only by legislative action.

This would be a new law requiring the fingerprinting of all original applicants as well as the first four years of renewals for those now holding licenses.

The fingerprinting of some 12 million licensees and about 800,000 new ones annually presents a significant cost. But with the wide usage of the license for identification it would be the only sure way of making it a reliable document.

Young Look On City Councils May Change Established System

The potency of student power was felt at the polls two weeks ago, and now that the dust is settling, even the die-hard cynics are mellowing.

The clean sweep of three recent Sonoma State College graduates for the Cotati City Council was viewed either as an outrage or a great victory for changing attitudes. Some oldtimers were bitter, predicting that marijuana would freely bloom in the city park and that bedlam would rule. Even they seem to have mellowed since the election.

ALTHOUGH STEPHEN Laughlin and Geoffrey Dunham alienated some by denouncing the escalation of the war as their first official act, most believe they will take a practical attitude toward their jobs and will tackle mundane but pressing problems such as leaky water lines and inadequate streets.

When fellow winner Annette Lombardi returns from Italy next week and the young people become the council majority, the normally dull meetings should play to packed houses.

From the number of votes they received, it was obvious that support came from beyond the newly enfranchised young people. Even if 100 per cent of the registered students went to the polls (highly unlikely) they could not have won without votes from older residents.

Sonoma State students and graduates did well in other Sonoma County elections as well. In Rohnert Park, Sonoma State alumni president Louis G. Beary joined fellow alumnus Warren K. Hopkins on the city council. Margaret Sheehan, a 19-year-old student, ran a very respectable fifth for the three available seats there.

In Santa Rosa, Sonoma State student Mike Loomis, also 19, placed fourth in a race for two available city council seats, and student Jim Phillippi finished a strong fifth in a contest for three seats open on the board of education.

VOTERS IN OTHER cities will no doubt be watching the Cotati City Council closely. If the young councilmen do well, it could break the ice for other young candidates.

The "established system," within whic all young people are urged to work, may never be the same again.

Despite Temporary Setbacks, Polarization Program's Working

WASHINGTON — Everyone talks about the success of the "Vietnamization" program in Vietnam, but little attention has been paid to the success of the "Polarization" program in the United States.

The Polarization program in the United States, considered the best means of dividing the country, was started just about the time the Vietnamization program began, and the two programs are unalterably tied together.

MALCOLM MOODY, director of Polarization for the entire United States, which includes I Corps (New England), II Corps (the South), III Corps (the Midwest) and IV Corps (the Far West), insisted that despite what the media had written, Polarization was working in the United States, and he predicted that the entire country would be polarized by 1972.

In his large, spacious office across the street from the White House, Moody showed me a map indicating the progress of the Polarization program since President Nixon took office.

"We've had setbacks," he said, "and you have to expect them when you're polarizing a country as large as this. First, you have to win the confidence of the people. Then you have to persuade them Polarization is good for them. It isn't easy."

MOODY SAID he had been worried for a time. "The campuses were quiet, there was little rioting in the ghettos, the students were trying to work within the system and the country was making some effort to come together. I was under a great deal of pressure to explain why Polarization wasn't working.

"But you can't have Polarization unless you give the people a reason to be polarized. After our invasion of Cambodia things calmed down. President Nixon didn't help by announcing the SALT talks and taking a trip to China.

"We kept sending Vice President Agnew out to the different corps areas hoping he could polarize the countryside, but in the last year or so it wasn't working. This is not to criticize Agnew. He did such an effective job in 1968 and 1969, but there wasn't much left for him to say in '70, '71 and '72.

"The people weren't listening and we were in serious trouble."

"WHAT TURNED the program around?" I asked.

"The first thing was the busing issue. Busing of schoolchildren was one area where people were willing to be polarized. When we realized what we had, we ran with it. People who wouldn't get involved suddenly joined up, and now, thanks to the administration's position, we have more people at the end of the poles than we ever had before."

"That's fantastic," I said.

"But we couldn't have done it with busing alone. The big breakthrough came when the President decided to bomb Haiphong and Hanoi. This woke up the students, it brought out the antiwar demonstrators, it split Congress and led to all the acrimonious gut reactions that had been buried for two years. But B-52 raids made everyone forget China and a possible detente with the Soviet Union. We managed to polarize the young people again."

"YOU'VE DONE a good job," I told Moody.

"The credit does not belong to me. It belongs to the President. Our agency can do just so much, but if the President doesn't back us with his decisions, Polarization just won't work."

"The administration maintains it isn't the President but the media which is responsible for Polarization in this country. How do you explain that?" I asked.

"The President is a modest man. As long as Polarization is working, he doesn't care who gets the credit for it. If the American people want to believe that the press and TV news people are responsible for Polarization, it's perfectly all right with Mr. Nixon."

Powers Report No Question Of Romance

SYDNEY (UPI) — Pacific rowers John Fairfax and Sylvia Cook said today their 8,000-mile journey in a 35-foot rowboat had forged a mutual respect but there was no question of romance.

Fairfax told newsmen at Sydney airport before their departure for London, "After all, if you're rowing you don't feel very romantic.

"We've developed a great respect for each other, which is a hell of a lot more important," he said. "Now we'll be friends for life, which is more important."

Fairfax said that although they had lived together to see if they were compatible, they had never been in love.

"We are still friends. We feel just the same as before and of course we still have the same fights," he said. "But we knew each other for some time before the journey so why should we change?"

Two Men Deny Assault Charge

Two San Francisco men charged with robbing, kidnapping and raping a Mill Valley woman pleaded innocent yesterday to the counts during arraignment in Marin Superior Court.

Judge Samuel W. Gardiner set a jury trial for the week of June 12.

Charles Moultry, 23, and Louis Charles Lee, 22, were arrested March 29 after a chase across the Golden Gate Bridge.

The 28-year-old victim told police the two men held her up in her driveway, then forced her to ride around Southern Marin while they took turns raping her at gunpoint.

Released two blocks from home, she called for help and sheriff's deputies ran down the car after chasing it from near Marin City.

Sick Behavior Held Possibly Inheritable

WASHINGTON (UPI) —Nearly every American family has at least one member with some sort of mental disorder and there is growing evidence that various forms of sick behavior —including alcoholism and criminality —may be inheritable, a research scientist said Monday.

Dr. David Rosenthal of the National Institute of Mental Health, discussed "Genetic Factors in Behavioral Disorders" at the annual meeting of the National Academy of Sciences.

Rosenthal, chief of the psychology laboratory on intramural research programs at NIMH, listed major mental illnesses —or "behavioral disorders," as some scientists prefer to call them —and cited studies implicating genetic (inheritable) faults in all of them.

"There is sufficient evidence for genetic factors in all the behavioral disorders for us to take the genetic hypothesis seriously," Rosenthal said.

He said there may be more than 60 million schizophrenics in the U. S. population of 200 million. These are persons who are afflicted to some degree with loss of contact with the real world and subject to many kinds of behavioral disorders.

In addition, he said, there are 9 million Americans with "a serious drinking problem" and their number increases by about 200,000 annually. It is estimated that one child in five between ages 10 and 17 will wind up in juvenile court.

When you try to add in the neurotics, he said, the emotionally disturbed ones who don't wind up in the sicker categories, you get into figures regarding those affected "almost impossible to estimate."

"We need not continue this recital of figures for too long, but it should be clear that almost no family in the nation is entirely free of mental disorders," Rosenthal uaid. "Indeed, it may well be that the so-called 'normal' person, with respect to mental health, does not represent a norm at all, but rather an ideal — relatively rare — that most of us would like to achieve."

Rosenthal said inherited genetic traits have been implicated to some extent in homosexuality as well as in alcoholism and other "affective" or emotional departures from what is loosely called the norm.

"Genetic analysis is still a tough and difficult business, but we "seem to be making some progress," Rosenthal said.

In the case of criminality, Rosenthal listed ways in "which different types of genes can contribute to a common behavioral disorder." These include abnormal brain waves, low I.Q., a characteristic body build, chromosomal oddities and a psychopathic personality.

Theft Reported

A compressor and motor valued at $800 were taken between 7 p.m. Friday and 8 a.m. Saturday from Bekins Van and Storage at 24 Bellam Boulevard, San Rafael, an employee, Edward A. Fogarty, reported to San Rafael police.

Kennedy's Name On Ballot Upheld

EUGENE, Ore. (UPI)—A circuit court judge Monday upheld the right of Oregon's secretary of state to place the name of Sen. Edward Kennedy, D-Mass., on the state's May 23 primary ballot.

Eugene attorney Charles O. Porter had filed a suit asking that Kennedy's name be removed from the ballot, arguing that Secretary of State Clay Myers had not followed the state's Administrative Procedures Act for choosing potential candidates to be listed.

Lane County Circuit Court Judge Edwin Allen ruled the act did not apply to Myers' responsibility for listing candidates.

WINNING BRIDGE

By ALFRED SHEINWOLD

Fast Clock Isn't Admired And Same Applies To Bridge

We don't admire a clock that is fast, but one that is on time. The same principle applies to the play of a bridge hand. There is little virtue in making a play quickly if you have chosen the wrong time to make it.

NEED RUFFS

West opened the king of spades. The singleton diamond would have been more effective, but West thought he didn't need ruffs with his strong trumps behind a suit that had been bid and rebid.

South won with the ace of spades and led a trump toward dummy. West played low, and dummy won with the queen. East's club discard showed South that he had to get to his hand and lead another trump toward dummy. Unluckily for him, South got to his hand with the ace of diamonds.

Now East stepped up with the ace of hearts, cashed the queen of spades and hopefully led a low club. East won with the king of clubs and returned a diamond for his partner to ruff, defeating the contract.

TIME THE CLUB

South made his mistake when he led a diamond to his aie. The correct play is to give up a club trick then and there.

There's no real chance of saving that club trick. When West takes his ace of hearts, he will surely cash the queen of spades and lead a club.

EAST GAINS NOTHING

What is the advantage of leading a club early? The trick is given to East before he can give his partner a ruff. East gains nothing by leading a diamond, since West must still follow suit.

South can get to his hand to lead a second trump toward dummy either with a diamond or by ruffing a club.

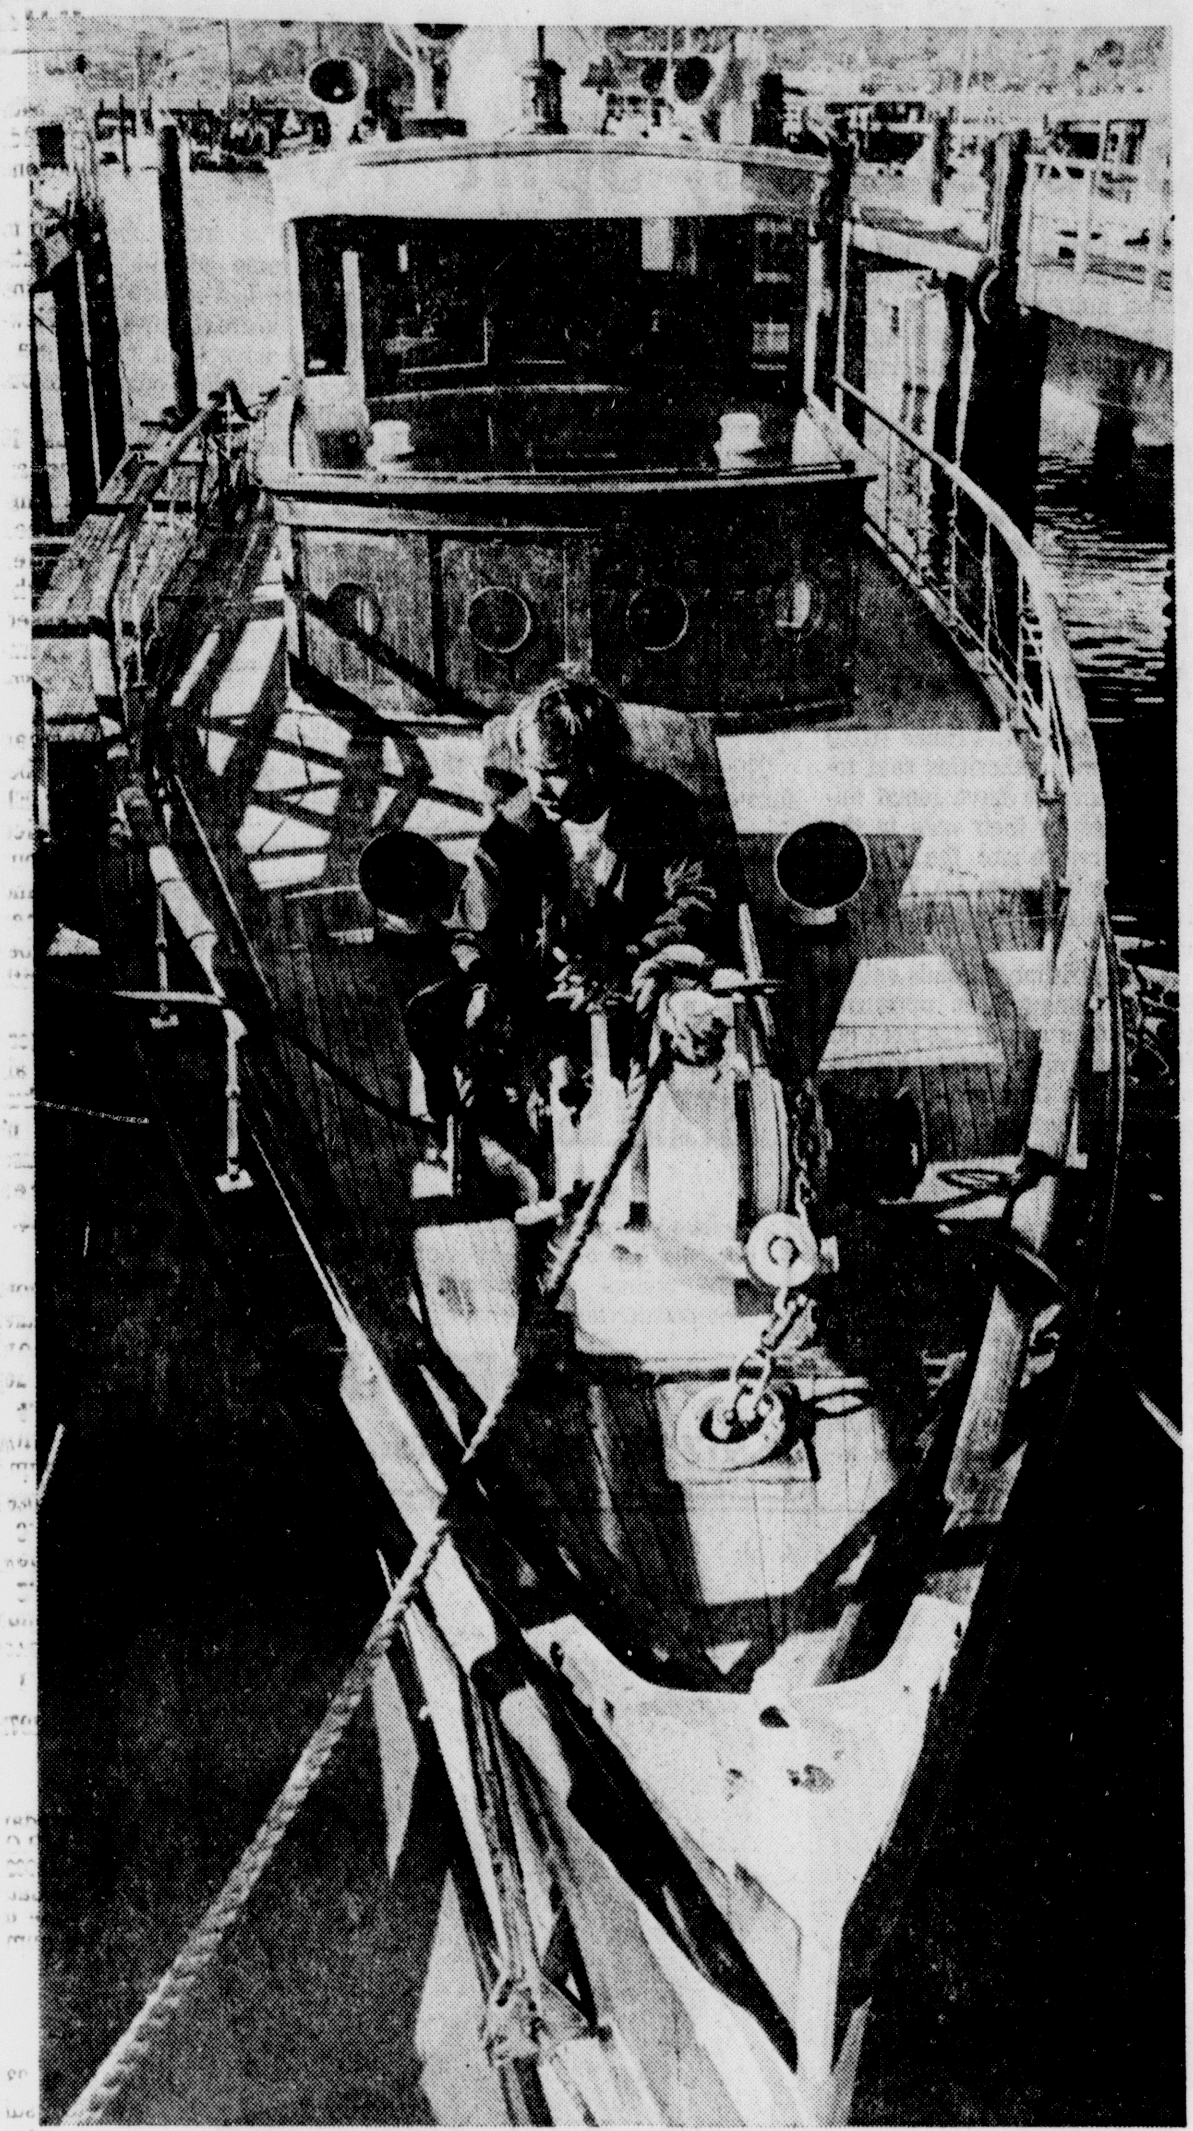
$83 Million In Junk On Moon

SPACE CENTER, Houston (UPI)—The Apollo 16 explorers Sunday left an $83 million junk pile on the moon.

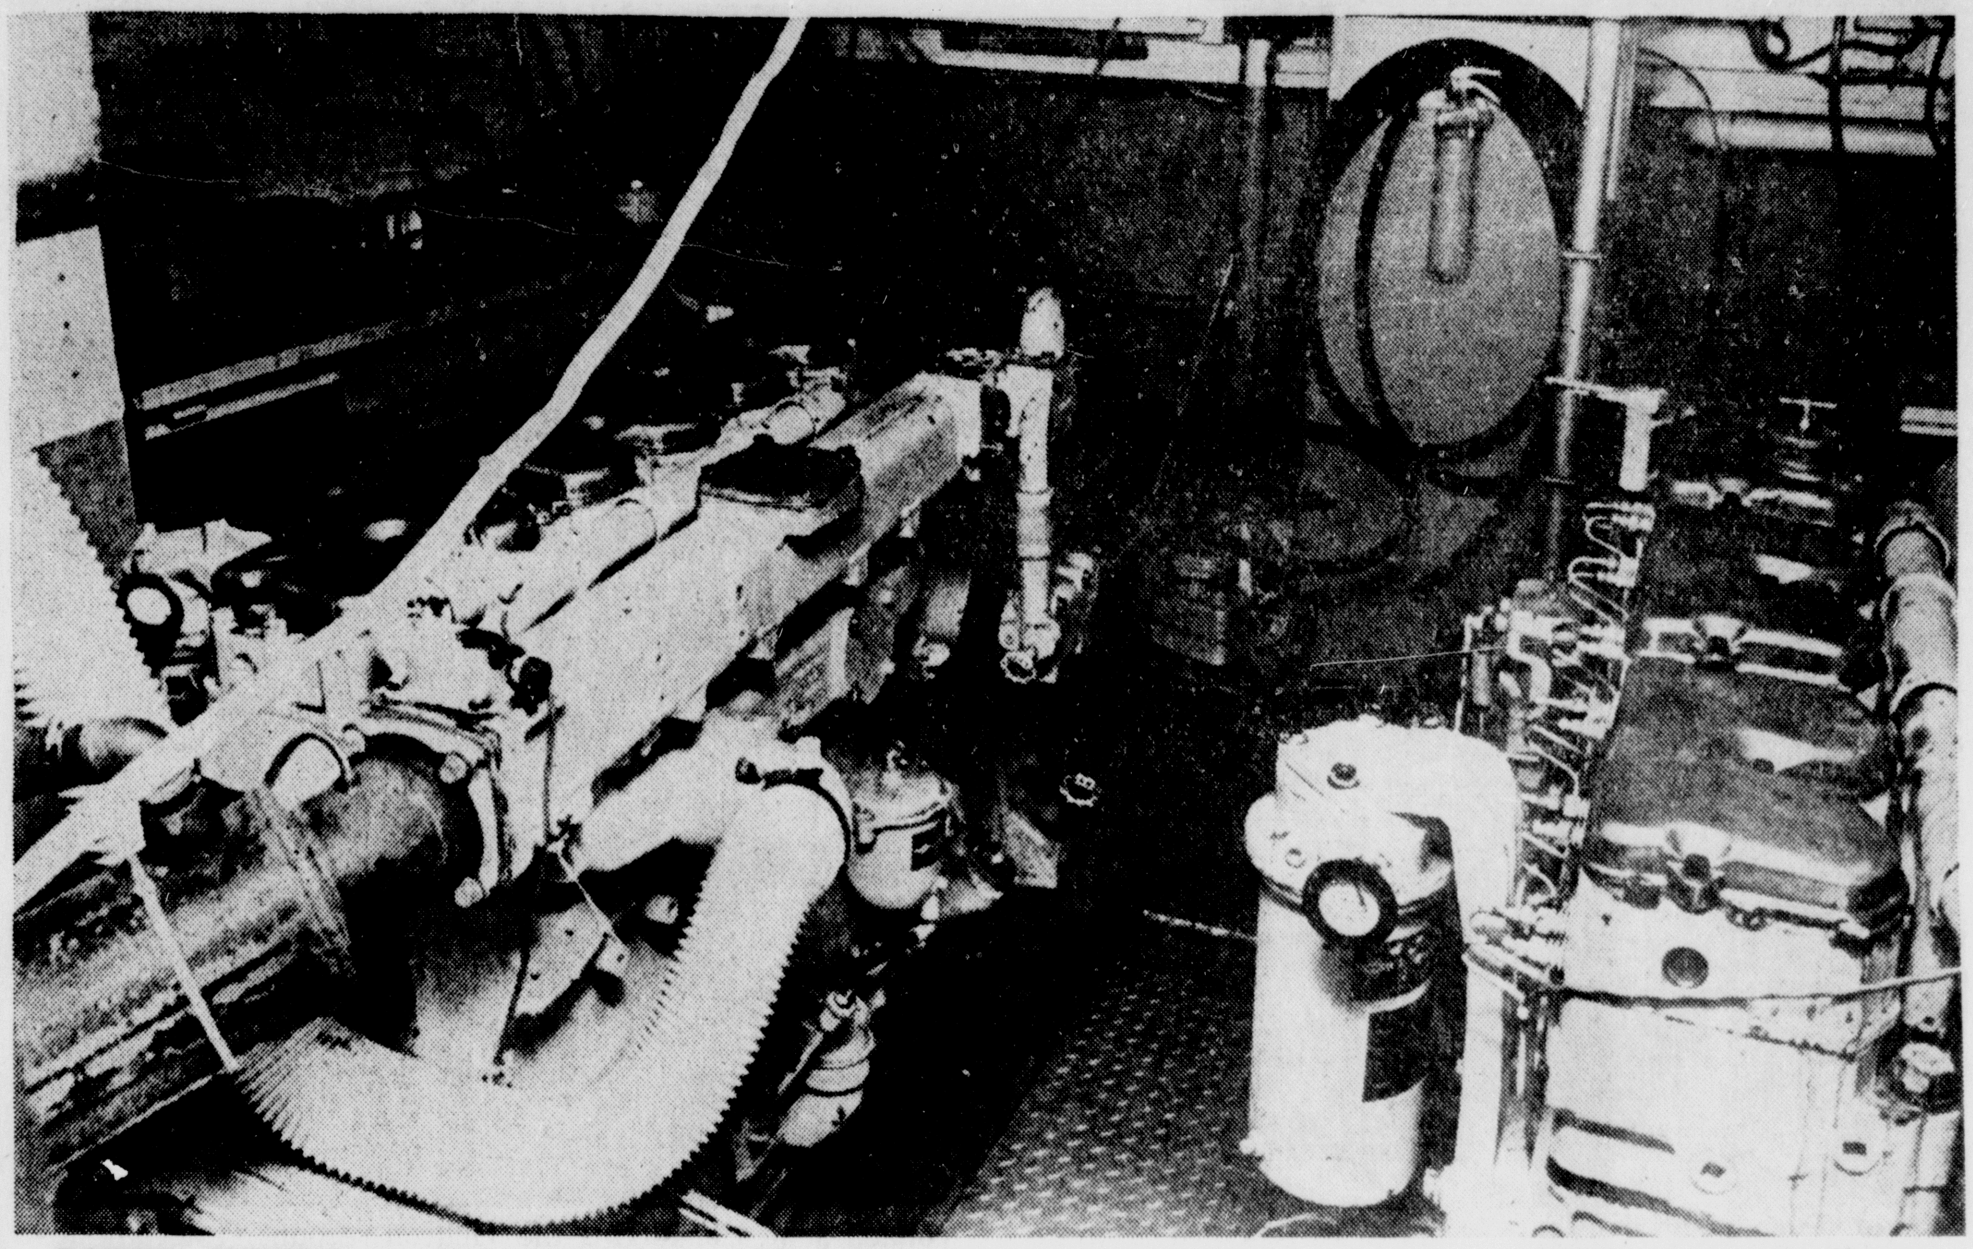
John W. Young and Charles M. Duke Jr. abandoned an $8 million moon buggy, a $25 million scientific instrument package, the descent half of the lunar module and assorted other pieces of equipment valued at about $30 million.

The lunar rover was a "lemon" its first two days on the moon, but performed so well Sunday that Young and Duke hated to leave it behind.

And, the spent third stage Saturn rocket, costing $20 million, crashed on the moon a week ago.



DOCK SIDE — Odus Hayes, the Sausalito yacht maintenance man who brought the Princess Mary down from Seattle, stands on the boat's foredeck in the Sausalito Yacht Harbor.



POWER SUPPLY — Twin Cummings 175-horsepower diesels, installed in 1970, are the heart of the boat, which can reach up to 15 knots. The ship also has a dumbwaiter to carry food directly from the galley to the wheelhouse which in turn is connected with the captain's quarters.

The Princess Is On The Block

By MARC NURRE

Like the bridegroom who marries an experienced woman, the new master of the Princess Mary won't have any right to question her past.

The fact that Ernest Hemingway's signature appears in one of her early logbooks, the fact that she's cruised all over the world, the fact that she comes equipped with a special honeymoon cabin on her aft deck, the fact that she's changed her name at least once —all these things will have to remain a mystery.

They'll have to, because nobody knows much about them. And the princess, nee Maria Dolores, isn't talking.

She sits now at berth 2E of the Sausalito Yacht Harbor waiting to be auctioned Friday for unpaid taxes. Preview showing will be tomorrow.

Her owners, Guy O. and Beverly Foss of Seattle, Wash., bought her from a young man in Seattle and have never done much research on her history. What they, and others, do know about her comes from papers left on board by her many owners. They discovered Hemingway's name in the logbook,but can't account for it.

Built in 1919 at the Blanchard Yard in Seattle, she is 92 feet long, 14 feet wide and weighs 56 gross and 33 net tons. Papers show she has been lengthened once, and received two new 175-horsepower engines in 1970.

A dumbwaiter runs from the galley to the bridge, and she is centrally heated and has been outfitted with electronic navigation equipment and depth-sounding gear.

Like a mini-skirted old lady, her interior is part modern with new shag carpeting and colorful upholstered chairs in contrast to detailed woodwork of the walls. An upholstered settee amidships and open to the weather allows for comfortable traveling in good weather.

She does show her age, however. Varnish is peeling from some parts of the decking and fittings are corroded in some places.

Odus Hayes, Sausalito boat maintenance man who brought her down from Seattle for Foss, said she rolls in heavy seas, but otherwise runs well.

"It's a narrow boat," he said.

"It's known to be a roller." He said she can hit 15 knots.

The trip from Seattle took three days, he said, beginning in Lake Union, through the locks into Puget Sound and then southward, hugging the coast.

"That's a bad trip just about any time of the year," he said, but he had no problems making it.

Foss, an insurance and investment counselor, owes about $17,000 in federal taxes, according to tax records in the Marin County recorder's office, which is the reason the princess, and her history, are up for auction by the Internal Revenue Service.

ABOARD PRINCESS MARY — Well cared for paneling (left) on the ship's interior contrasts with a modern shag carpet and bright upholstery in the honeymoon cabin, accessible through a rear deck door. The galley (center) looks like any landbound kitchen and is beneath the wheelhouse. Racks to hold glasses during rough seas are installed in the rear of the galley. View from the wheelhouse shows the care which went into the ship's construction. Throttles are to the left, instruments on the front panel, and compass to the right.

NEW VOTE COUNT — In a scene to be repeated often in Marin in the wake of the April 11 municipal elections, Tiburon officials conduct a recount of ballots for the city council. The recount affirmed that Anne L. Ellinwood (in background, chatting with unidentified man) had lost her council seat. Conducting the Tiburon recount yesterday at city hall were (seated) Gertrude Schleiger, Vivienne Winblad, Dorothy Levitan (hidden) and Harry Matthews, while Asst. City Clerk Louise Mirata watched over table. The woman (left) with sunglasses was unidentified.

Cotati Council Approves Subdivision; Split Vote

The Cotati City Council last night approved two more subdivision units with its two young councilmen complaining of frustration and abstaining in the vote.

Stephen Laughlin and Geoffrey Dunham said they could not legally vote against the final maps for the Holiday Park subdivision because there was no substantive discrepancy with the tentative map as approved by the former council.

They said, however, that they could not vote in favor of the plans because they were elected on a platform to preserve Cotati's rural character.

"It should be noted that the configuration of the Holiday Park development is contrary to the character of this community," they said in a joint statement. "In light of the above we have chosen, with no lack of frustration, to abstain on the matter."

The newcomers chided the former council for approving the tentative maps and said that if some of the former councilmen had abided by conflict of interest laws, there would not have been a quorum to vote on the development. No councilmen or points of conflict were named.

Councilmen Frank P. Dolinsek and Herbert Winter gave the plans two favorable votes against the two abstentions in the 10-minute meeting. Councilman-elect Annette Lombardi is still in Europe and did not attend.

In other business, the council named Laughlin as its liaison to the plannning commission.

French Report Mikes In Nets

CHERBOURG, France (UPI) —Maritime authorities said today fishermen have found microphones in their nets in the same area where the French atomic submarine La Terrible is scheduled to make a test run in May.

The maritime officials said a Soviet fishing fleet appeared two months ago in this area off the Normandy coast. Fishermen at the time questioned its presence because the season was too late for herring and too soon for mackerel, the officials said.

The officials said naval security personnel and the Defense de Securite Territoire, the French secret service, were investigating the mysterious brick-colored plastic objects, the size of a fist, which contained tiny wires and were attached to a thick cable.

Tiburon Council Votes Freeze On Development in R-3 Zones

By a 4-1 vote, the Tiburon City Council last night adopted an urgency ordinance to control development in the city's R-3 zones while proposed zoning ordinance changes are being developed. (Another Tiburon City Council story, page 1.)

The council took the action over the protests of owners of a 15.6-acre parcel of land behind the Tiburon Peninsula Club and asked the planning commission to give priority to rezoning the land.

The ordinance had been proposed at an earlier meeting by Councilman Branwell D. Fanning to put an end to approval of such developments as condominium housing by only the city's design review board, as presently allowed.

Dissenting Councilman M. Carlisle Becker said he thought the R-3 zones in the city were small, and already developed to such an extent that "we're taking an action which is tantamount to closing the barn after the horse is out."

Councilmen also passed another urgency ordinance which included 12 more parcels, or 14 acres, of land near Hacienda Drive in a building moratorium until plans for open space acquisition are final.

But the council in the same ordinance provided that a procedure for obtaining a use permit variance on the frozen land be established, and that the procedure not restrict the owner from applying for the number of buildings which would normally be allowed on the property by present zoning ordinances if the 14 acres were considered as one parcel.

The council adopted the amendment to the ordinance over the cautioning of City Atty. Robert I. Conn, who said that the amendment was contradictory to the ordinance, and that since such a variance did not exist for other land frozen by the city, an inequity might exist.

The Tiburon City Council Also:

BLACKIE'S PASTURE — Authorized new mayor Albert H. Sennett to sign formal agreement with Samuel Shapero and the Tiburon Peninsula Foundation for acquisition of Blackie's Pasture. The acquisition was previously approved in principle by the council.

SERAFINO ANNEXATION — Annexed a 10-foot-by-150-foot strip of land at 5070 Paradise Drive owned by Anthony Serafino. The city had been asked by the Marin Local Agency Formation Commission to annex the property as a condition of it also being annexed to the Tiburon Sanitation District.

FINANCIAL CONSULTANT — Introduced newly-hired city financial consultant Vernon Perry, who said he would work on plans for general obligation bonds which could finance the acquisition of much of the city's open space, and would have a report on the possibilities within 60 days.

LINEAL PARK — Postponed until its May 8 meeting discussion of hiring a landscape architect to design a master plan for the Richardson Bay lineal park.

RETIREMENT CONTRACT — Amended the city's contract with the public employees' retirement system to include the city's new police department members.

HORSE PASTURE — Set May 22 as the hearing date for a nuisance abatement hearing on horses presently pastured on the Congregational Church property at 175 Rock Hill Road.

CAMPING ORDINANCE — Postponed until its May 8 meeting consideration of a redrafted ordinance prohibiting camping on private property within the city.

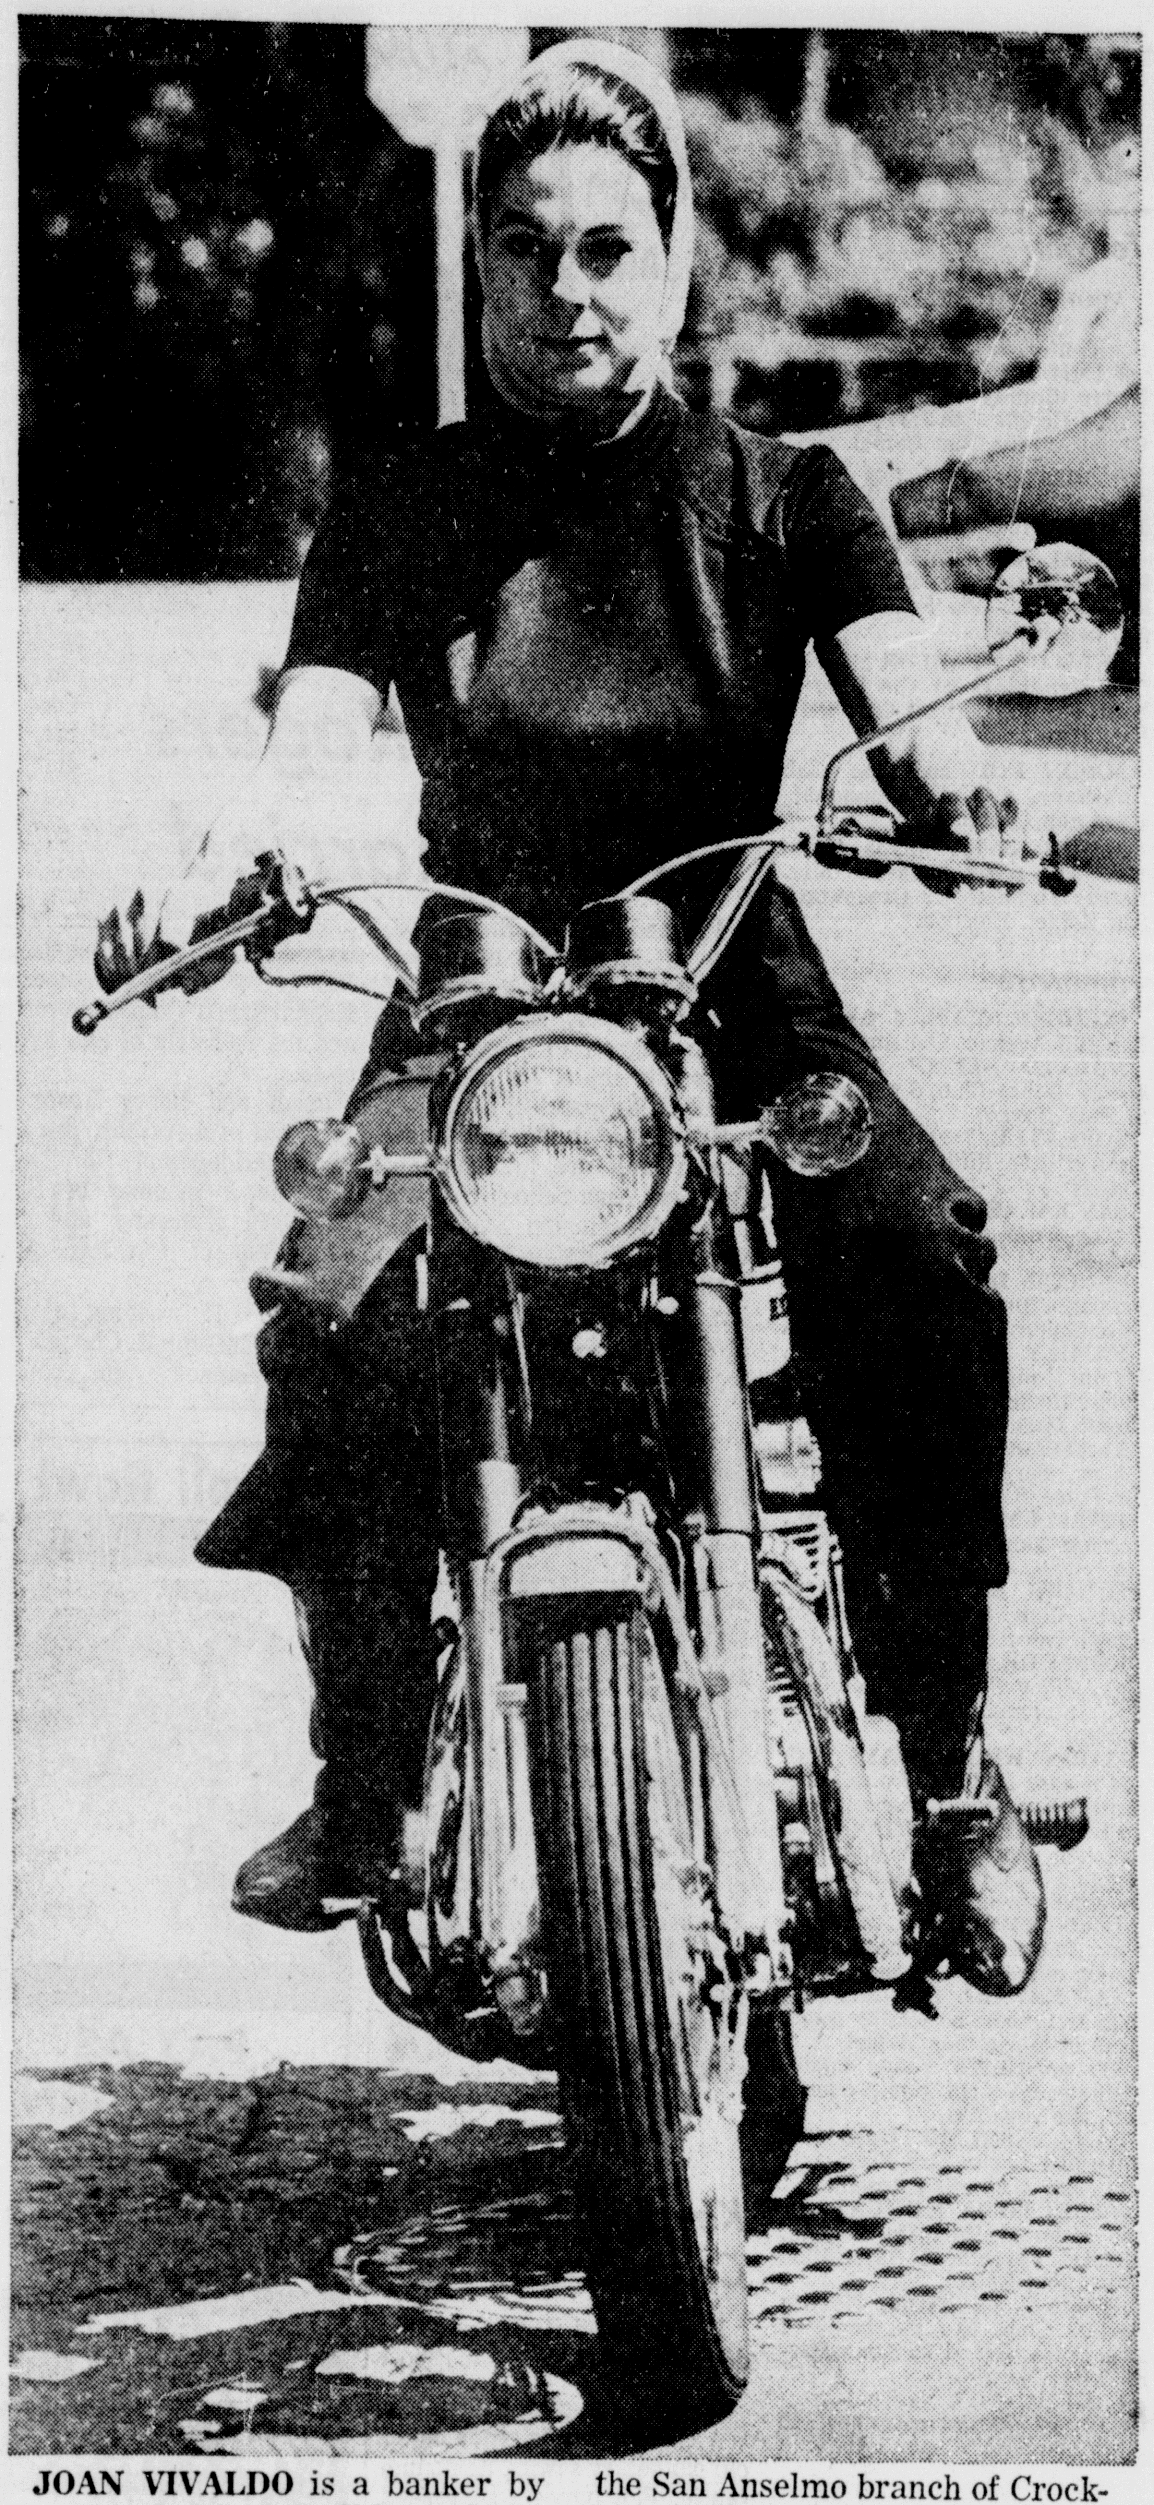
Marin Women



JOAN VIVALDO is a banker by career, but in her off hours loves to ride the Marin hills on her bike. Now assistant manager of the San Anselmo branch of Crocker Bank, Joan at 27, looks forward to a long career in banking.

Promotion Was A Surprise For Bank's New Assistant Manager

By BARBARA HOSMER

At age 27 Joan B. Vivaldo is surprised to find herself assistant manager of a bank branch office.

In 1969 Joan was transferred from the Fairfax branch of Crocker Bank to the San Anselmo branch as a utility clerk. Then, last December, she was promoted to assistant manager of the eight-employee branch.

"Yes, I was surprised to advance that quickly," she said, adding that the recent government orders to upgrade women employees might well have had something to do with it.

She did it without coming up the usual route as a manager-trainee, and she believes her breakthrough came when, as a commercial and savings teller, she was performing operations supervisory work "without the title."

Now she takes charge of branch operations, "helping out the operations section of the bank and overseeing the clearing out of paperwork at the end of the day."

She also has the authority to approve loans, which she didn't have as a platform assistant.

Now in her fifth year, Joan enjoys her banking career.

"I like the ways it comes out even each day," she said, adding, "hopefully."

Joan first began with the bank in Fairfax, riding her 350 Honda to work from her San Anselmo home. She worked as a commercial accounts clerk, a proof clerk, and then as a commercial savings and loan teller.

A graduate of San Rafael High School, she attended City College of San Francisco and College of Marin, taking night school courses at College of Marin in physics, genetics and lapidary — "I really liked doing that," she said with a laugh.

She also has taken courses from the American Institute of Banking, which offers accounting, bank operations, commercial law, speed reading, installment credit and bank management and other related subjects.

Joan still rides her Honda on weekends and, as a member of the board of directors of the San Anselmo Chamber of Commerce, looks forward to San Anselmo Country Days — "I'll be in the food booth selling hotdogs."

Joan is also recording secretary of the Credit Women of Marin and has been publicity chairman for the Marin County American Institute of Banking.

Her parents are residents of Peacock Gap. Her sister has worked for Wells Fargo Bank and her brother-in-law was with Redwood Bank, which, Joan said, "meant my family had to distribute their bank accounts around."

Asked if she intended to make banking her entire career, Joan replied with enthusiasm, "Yep, retirement's in 2009."

She admits that to some, banking still has a staid image. But she disagrees.

Once, she said, a man came in with a wooden door made out as a check. "We had to tell him that the machines were not set up to process anything like that.

Business, Professional Women To Install Tonight

Mrs. John Gottschalk of San Rafael will be installed president of the Business and Professional Women's Club ok Marin County today at a 6:30 p.m. dinner meeting at the Holiday Inn in San Rafael. Lois McLain of Corte Madera, state BPW president, will be a guest.

Viola Gottschalk previously served the club as president in 1962. Gives The Eye Definite Shape

For depth, the crease hollow is emphasized by stroking back and forth, reaching above it and out. Then, using the narrow sponge end, square off the corner and bring color down to meet outer end of the eye. Fill in between with more shading. Pull blue along under eye in one stroke, and deepen the color of the crease with violet.

Wedding Day And Its Crises

By PATRICIA McCORMACK

NEW YORK (UPI) — The chapel lights dim. "Oh Promise Me" has been sung. The guests stand at attention for the bridal procession.

So what happens?

The bride won't go into the chapel. She's got cold feet or stage fright—or both.

The bridegroom, maybe he's holding things up by noticing that he's got on bedroom slippers. Or he remembers the wedding rings are in another suit.

A man who's been kind of a "father of the bride" at 10,000 weddings cited those and other hitches in an interview about wedding day crises. Stanley Lewin, president of Continental Hosts Ltd., has taken care of large and small details as caterer to all Kinds of weddings in the metropolitan New York area.

To get that hotel wedding off on the right foot when the bridegroom showed up in bedroom slippers, the banquet manager lent his own patent leather pumps. They were a little large but much preferred to a pair too small.

LEWIN SAYS cases of lost items aren't so easy. One bridegroom, looking for his car keys, took all the papers out of his pocket and put them on the roof of his car. He retrieved the keys, then drove off, letting his marriage license fly to one of the four winds. Special dispensation from the mayor of New Rochelle was required to get that wedding ceremony into the records.

In recalling another "lost" item, Lewin tells of the father of the bride who, standing at the front of the chapel, literally lost his pants down to the ankles in the midst of the ceremony.

The dignified gent looked neither to right or left as the much too large pants with the rented tux slipped. And in just as dignified a stance he retrieved the trousers after the bride and bridegroom said their "I dos."

Sometimes Lewin raises his eyebrows at highly informal attire.

ONCE HE took a bridegroom

Once he took a bridegroom aside and told him—"Brother, I wouldn't wear those boots if I were you." "Oh, don't worry," the bridegroom said. "I'm wearing these for the ceremony." He held up sneakers.

Uniform Program

Charts appearing on pantyhose packages enable a consumer to tell the proper size garment, but these chart designs and size ranges vary from manufacturer to manufacturer. For this reason the National Association of Hosiery manufacturers has recommended a standardized program, which will soon be used in virtually every hosiery plant in the country, according to association spokesmen.

Marin College Series On Budget Stretching

Two lecture series for families trying to stretch the budget to include minimal needs in Marin will be offered by the College of Marin, beginning this week.

Tonight at 7:30, the course will begin at San Rafael High School, and on Thursday at 7:30 p.m. it will be offered at Novato High School.

Robin Sparks, the instructor, has surveyed the community to establish needs and interest areas for such consumer information.

Her first lecture will focus on the supermarket and the buying of foods. It will cover food stamp purchase and ways in which food can be obtained in Marin on an emergency basis. She will also discuss comparing food prices and reading labels and new information on health foods and organic food.

The series will continue weekly at both locations, Tuesday in San Rafael, an Thursday in Novato.

May 11 both classes will meet together for a food demonstration at the Pacific Gas and Electric Co. auditorium in San Rafael.

The series will cover clothing and sewing, low cost meals, cost of credit, loans available, appliances and home furnishings and the housing scene in Marin.

No fee will be charged. Registration may be made through the College of Marin vocational education office.

GENERATION RAP

DEAR HELEN AND SUE:

"Longing Adoptive Parent" who urged unwed mothers to give their babies up for adoption, got more brickbats than bouquets, but here's the other side: We've been waiting two years for our child and my caseworker says we'll be lucky if we can adopt for at least another year. We didn't specify "perfect, white, and under a year old" — we were willing to accept a partially handicapped, white or Indian child up to two years old.

Helen, you suggested trying for "hard to place" children — older youngsters, mixed-race babies, etc. It's very easy to tell someone who is adopting not to be too fussy, but it's cruel to tell them they should take anything available. Even psychiatrists agree it takes a very special couple to raise an interracial child. It is also difficult for older youngsters to adjust to a new family, and vice versa. — 24 MONTHS PREGNANT AND STILL WAITING

DEAR RAP:

The real culprit in the shortage of adoptive babies is I abortion. If a girl becomes pregnant, she should shelter her own child long enough to allow him life — either with her or with two parents who could give him so very much. Legalized abortion (over 160,000 babies exterminated in New York state alone last year) is robbing man"longing adoptive parents" of children they would love and cherish -- G.K.

DEAR RAP:

Bully for you two — who suggested adopting "hard to place" older children if babies weren't available any more.

I just sent a college graduation gift to the adopted daughter of a friend. This girl was adopted at age four, with a terrible history of sadness and mistreatment at the hands of a drunken mother and a series of "fathers." After the traumatic first year of adjustment, the girl blossomed to her full potential. She's a fine, talented, loving, beautiful person, and her parents consider themselves the luckiest of people.

I see the 15-year-old adopted son of friends — he's vice president of his student body — who came to them at the age of five, with a diagnosis of nearly total autism (complete withdrawal from the world). Did they have a hard time? You bet! He wouldn't talk for six months. But you should see him now!

One of my students is almost totally deaf, the adopted daughter of a couple who were "too old" for a baby. She's highly successful, charming, and plans a career teaching normal children. When these folks took her, they were warned of possible mental retardation (which turned out to be only deafness). What would have happened to her in an institution?

I can think of at least 10 children, adopted when they were over three, who are enriching the lives of barren parents with the guts to face challenge. More genuine "family love" between parents and children is hard to find.

With all the "unwanted" children needing families, I have nothing but pity for two humans who must ask why a pregnant teenager won't give up her baby. Not that I advocate always keeping the baby: young unwed mothers sometimes don't make the best parents, and they must face their decision squarely.

I only say: If you really want a child, don't limit yourselves when so many hard-to-place children are waiting. — MOTHER, FRIEND AND TEACHER

DEAR HELEN AND SUE:

I am a single mother. In the beginning I had many doubts and fears, but I loved my baby and chose to keep her. She will never suffer from having just one parent. I work hard but my life is meaningful, never empty. I have never once regretted keeping her, and I never will. Nor, I believe, will she ever regret that I did! — A.R.

DINNER AND dancing for four? Why not plan your dining room furnishings to allow room for post-dinner exercise? This move might quickly convert. Just move the Baker Sheraton-inspired table, and Louis XVI chairs out of stage center and invite your dancingest friends. The corner cupboard, also by Baker, is another space-saving idea for a convertible dining room.

INSIDE YOUR HOME

Turn Dining Space To Dancing Room

By CAROLYN S. MURRAY
General Features Corp.

In crusading against misused space at home, the dining room has been my pet target. Recently, I saw an interesting solution to the multiple-use idea for a family dining room and the idea is worth passing on, particularly since it also provides some room for physical activity.

The owners had been dancing teachers in their youth, but during recent years they had drifted away from dancing except when they had an opportunity to go out on the town. They attended a Glenn Miller "revival meeting" a few months ago and rediscovered the joy of dancing together and watching other couples dance while they rested.

THEIR DINING room was arranged in the traditional way: central placement for the table, low-hung chandelier and wall-to-wall carpeting. No place for dancing after dinner in that situation.

They decided to take up the carpeting and install a handsome parquet floor that would make a good surface for dancing. Without the carpeting the room seemed to need color value, so they had the walls painted a warm russet color with white molding and trim. They raised the lighting fixture and added two spotlights on the ceiling. Finally they replaced the dining table and chairs in the central spot.

Now they merely move their table and chairs aside for their dancing sessions and no one worries about the hazard of clobbering a head on the chandelier. Two speakers have been hooked up to their living room stereo system, so they can have low-key dinner music plus all the accouterments of a mini ballroom.

DINNER GUESTS are really quick to accept an invitation since they know the evening will not disintegrate into a political hassle or a split between male and female conversationalists.

The nicest bonus has been the crossbreeding of ideas and dance styles between two generations. Now the three teenage youngsters expect their parents to stick around and share in the dance program, and some neighbors have added post-dinner dancing to their entertaining plans. It's better than all that solitary jogging!

Heart Disease More Likely

Men are 10times more susceptible to heart disease than women, according to Dr. Albert H. Domm, medical director for the western office of Prudential Insurance Co.

The number of wives outliving their husbands is increasing, and in the past decade the number of women in the 65-plus bracket has increased by nearly 29 per cent.

In the over-65 age group, seven out of 10 women are widows, contrasted with the three in 10 men who are widowers.

Dress Designer Dresses Up The Streets

By GAY PAULEY

NEW YORK (UPI)—"You wouldn't neglect your house. Why neglect your town?"

Mollie Parnis, fashion designer of renown, speaks bluntly about the role of citizens in improving their surroundings. Miss Parnis, whose business is dressing elegant women, is putting $25,000 cash into dressing up New York City.

"Big cities can do only so much," said the designer. "Now it's up to the people to pitch in. You don't throw litter around in the apartment or house. Why do you throw litter on the streets?

"If the sanitation department cleans a street and two hours later, it's a garbage heap, it is not the city's fault.

"Training really should begin in school," she said, noting that most European cities stay clean because the children are taught from toddler age to use trash containers.

MOLLIE PARNIS
Speaking bluntly

"WOMEN TODAY are the ones showing special concern," said Miss Parnis in an interview. "Despite Women's Lib, they're still the housekeepers. Poor city houskeeping bothers them esthetically."

You can cite examples by the dozen in almost any city where women have taken the lead in improving neighborhoods. In New York for instance, Mrs. Albert Lasker funded the initial plantings on the islands on Park Avenue, turning them into seasonal flower beds by the acre. Mrs. Jean Mauze, sister of Gov. Nelson A. Rockefeller,gave a vest pocket park. Mrs. Vincent Astor donated a playground.

Miss Parnis put her clean-up campaign to work with a $25,000 check to the office of Mayor John V. Lindsay. The money will be used for prizes ranging from $500 to $750 to tenants' groups, block associations, schools and colleges, apartment houses and stores that do the best clean-up and beautifying of their neighborhoods by July 1.

Then in September, the prizewinning neighborhoods will be re-examined and prizes of $1,000 more will be given to each of the two groups showing the best sustained effort. Judges will include Miss Parnis and John DeLury, head of the Uniformed Sanitationmen's Association.

THE DESIGNER, whose clothes are in the wardrobes of several First Ladies, said the "dress up your neighborhood" project actually stemmed from a visit to Jerusalem in 1967 after the war. To help in block-to-block restoration, she gave $25,000 to Jerusalem's mayor. The prizes in this case are paid from interest on the principal.

"Then" she recalled, "I ran into John Lindsay one evening socially and was telling him about the success of the Jerusalem project."

The mayor told her, "You know, I think the cities have done about all they can do. Now it's up to the citizens."

Miss Parnis, a dyed-in-the-wool New York booster, thought the apathy of citizens in every urban area grew from the fact that "until recently, people knew that someone else did things for you. It applies to schools, parks, neighborhoods...."

Since her project was announced she's heard from concerned citizens in other cities by phone or letter and said she's quite willing to outline for any group how the New York plan is run through the city's Environmental Protection Administration.

SHE WAS surprised at "the number of secretaries of executives who've called to say, 'What can I do?'"

Said the designer, "Well, you can plant a tree in front of your house but you really need neighborhood cooperation. Form a block association."

(The designer lives in an apartment on Manhattan's upper East Side where the area for decades has been dressed up. No block association is needed).

"I am convinced," said Miss Parnis, "that people do want to improve their surroundings. All they need is a boost."

Some Words By Mr. Kenneth

Finding a good hairdresser is not easy, according to coiffeur Mr. Kenneth. If you see someone with a hair style you like, ask her who did her hair, he advises.

He said he disapproves of women who walk into a salon and make an appointment with whomever is free.

This applies mostly to hair cuts, he said, because a set can always be washed out, but you will be stuck with a poor haircut for months.

Be our guest in the White House
You will know as much as anyone about what goes on in the White House and in the Presidency by the simple act of reading the I-J. (Only the President and intimates will know more).
For the I-J, through its United Press International reporters, is virtually "in residence" as much as the President. Which makes you our welcome guest to the White House.
Our reporters are constantly alert to staff and cabinet meetings, to affairs of international import, to the diplomatic front, to the comings and goings which make the White House a world center of significant news. The job is sensitive. It requires a sixth sense to know when news of major concern is about to break. And concern in how to "break" it accurately and without bias.
Be our guest and stay as long as you like. Our columns lead right to the White House.

DANCE REVIEW

Xoregos — A New, Dynamic Vitality

By MARIE RAMEAU

SAN FRANCISCO — Something's new in San Francisco — a pocket-size modern dance troupe in the Attic, atop an old warehouse on the city's waterfront. There, these dancers study, rehearse and perform to capacity crowds.

The group is the Xoregos Dance Company, a fixture on the San Francisco scene for several years and now demonstrating a new and dynamic vitality. It is producing sensational results.

What particularly distinguished this group is its strong and authentic historical content, as in a recent program which opened with Klarna Pinska's revival of Doris Humphrey's "Soaring," to Robert Schumann's romantic piano composition of the same title. The work, originally staged for the Denishawn Company in 1922, was given its first professional presentation in 50 years when the Xoregos company began its 1972 spring season in March. Because this work has been neither notated nor filmed, Klarna Pinska has reconstructed from memory of the 1930s, when she taught at the Denishawn House in New York.

Among the earliest of modern dances, the choreography's deceptive simplicity masks the stylistic delicacy and airiness no longer endorsed by most contemporary dancers, followers of the Martha Graham tradition; hence the dance's long retirement. The focal point is the huge, floating blue scarf deftly manipulated by four dancers, while a fifth, originally Doris Humphrey, this time radiant Linda Dobson, dances in the center. All wear exact replicas of the modern leotard's prototype, the silk jersey "flushings" of the 1920s.

Director Shela Xoregos's "Turning" superficially resembles Jerome Robbin's "The Cage," staged for the New York City Ballet in the early 1950s. Both were inspired by Franz Kafka's "Metamorphosis," but there the similarity ends. "Turning," unlike "The Cage," is choreographically strong enough to stand by itself with no vestiges of the latter's plot, in which a female insect devours the male.

Also, Miss Xoregos's musical selection was far more challenging — the electronic "De Natura Sonoris" by Polish and avante-garde Kristof Penderecki. Guest artist Grace Doty, former prima ballerina of Pacific Ballet, and powerful Glenn-Charles Musagetes, formerly of San Francisco Ballet, despite their classical training, made an astonishing transition to the very different — and difficult — idioms of modern dance at its best.

Mary Shelton's "Poem" was danced a capella by Miss Xoregos, whose mastery of dance forms defies imagination. It appears she never stops moving and her every movement is like a deep breath or a poetic line. On the other hand, when she pauses in balance, she is still, and the pause becomes a silence. There was none of that up-tightness in her dancing seen in so many ballets.

The feature of the evening was choreographer-dancer Gary McKay's version of the Russian tale "Petrushka." Since Fokine first staged the ballet in the second decade of this century, few have attempted it since, and even fewer have succeeded. McKay scored a smashing success, utilizing most of the Stravinsky music. Costumes and a bare minimum of props were expertly designed and coordinated by Paul Shank.

Grace Doty gave a masterpiece of stylization: whimsical, brittle and mischievous as the ballerina doll. McKay danced the title role of the mad, sad puppet in the Shrovetide Fair, as if possessed by his lunatic passion for the ballerina. His performance was tragedy on a grand level.

The "Brahms Waltzes" (Opus 39) were staged by Charles Weidman in 1958 as a tribute to Doris Humphrey, "because these were the movements she loved and did so well herself." The dances, like the music, were strongly contrasting in mood, from velvety melancholy to exuberant joy. Shela Xoregos in her solos was exhilarating with her impulsive, spontaneous leaps and brilliant timing, and the four supporting dancers were splendid.

The Xoregos company does not attempt to expand into a large performing group, but prefers to remain a concert-size core of seven dancers. Their program was a revelation in the possibilities of concert dance.

"Petrushka" continues through Sunday evening at the Attic, and the group takes on another 20 dancers and actors for its full-length "Salome," which runs from Thursday through Sunday.

Drug Abuse Education Funds For Two Groups

Two groups in Marin County are among those who have received 817 grants under the federal Drug Abuse Education Act of 1970 for training of community drug abuse education teams, according to Department of Health, Education and Welfare officials.

One team, headed by county Drug Abuse Coordinator Lloyd Churgin, will include a juvenile officer, teacher, parent, and a high school student, Churgin said. This team, composed of Mill Valley residents, will work in conneciton with Edna Maguire School, he said.

The other team, headed by James Hull, a counselor at San Jose Junior High School in Novato, will include personnel from the school as well as representatives from Hamilton Air Force Base.

Both teams will receive grants of as yet undecided amounts for training at Mills College in Oakland, one of eight regional centers in the country for training in a program designed to help people in local communities combat drug abuse.

Times of the training have not been set yet, Chrugin and Hull said.

Village Square Owners Elect

Robert D. Satterwaite has been reelected president of the Village Square Association of Corte Madera, according to secretary Janice Valk.

She said D. G. Kimmell was elected vice president of the group, and Hanni Butter reelected treasurer.

The group also has voted to begin a membership drive May 1.

Sausalito Is Sued In Building Moratorium

Owners of 162 acres on Wolfback Ridge, noting a two-year history of frustration in their efforts to develop their land, yesterday filed suit against the City of Sausalito for $3.5 million, the value they place on the property.

The suit filed in Marin Superior Court claims the city has turned down five efforts to build homes and, most recently, clamped a one-year moratorium on residential building that runs until next March.

The suit on behalf of Mr. and Mrs. Edward R. Fitzsimmons of Berkeley, Mr. and Mrs. Frank W. Lynch of San Jose and Dorothea Melchers of Bangkok, Thailand, claims their plan was the only one in the works at the time and their land was the only remaining large parcel in the city.

"Plaintiffs are further informed and believe that their decision to file a subdivision map was the sole cause of instituting the moratorium," the suit filed by Oakland attorney Steven H. Goldfarb said.

The city council, when it adopted the moratorium, said it needed time to study what lands it wants as open space and how to acquire it.

The suit calls the moratorium "a taking of the plaintiff's property for public use without just compensation."

The suit further claims the city knew Lynch, an invalid who owns no other land according to his attorney, had to develop or face foreclosure and "wilfully frustrated" development to obtain the ridge for open space.

The city turned down the property owners' claim April 10.

Driver Injured

Stephen J. Gehlke, 26, of 924 East Cotati Avenue, Cotati, was treated at Hillcrest Hospital for face cuts suffered in an accident at 3 a.m. today on Corona Road at North McDowell Boulevard, Petaluma. The California Highway Patrol had no details of the accident.

Moore Campaign Party Scheduled

An informal outdoor party will be held Sunday at the Harry J. Moore For Assemblyman Headquarters, 1114 First Street, Novato.

Beverly and Lynette Stark of Daly City, accordion and banjo players, will entertain at the event, 2-5 p.m.

Nancy Dole and Pat Warrent are chairmen. Dr. and Mrs. Ellis Mitchell, Mr. and Mrs. Robert Eddy, Dr. and Mrs. Robert Rettig, Mr. and Mrs. Luis Pena, Mr. and Mrs. Howard Wright and Jack Pratt will be hosts.

Late Filings By Homeowners Still Accepted

Marin County Assessor Bert W. Broemmel said yesterday residents who missed the April 17 deadline for filing homeowner's exemptions still may file for a partial exemption.

Broemmel said late filings will be accepted through June 15 but under state law will be eligible for only 80 per cent of the standard $750 deduction from assessed valuation.

A homeowner is eligible for the exemption if the home he owns is his primary place of residence, Broemmel said.

In some instances, he continued, living units attached to commercial buildings may be claimed if owner occupied. If rented, however, they may not be claimed.

He added that late filing is permitted under a new law which also gives the county board of supervisors the final say over whether such filings will be accepted.

Preregistration Is Set In Sausalito

The Sausalito School District will hold kindergarten preregistration for the 1972-73 school year beginning next Monday and continuing through May 12.

Parents may register their children weekdays from 8:30 to 2 p.m. at Bayside School and from 2 to 4 p.m. in Room 4 of the Manzanita Children's Center in Marin City. Two evening registrations, from 7 to 9 p.m. will be May 3 and 10 at the district office, 630 Nevada Street, according to Supt. Lawrence A. Lindberg.

ANGELA LETTERS TO JACKSON READ

By MARY LEYDECKER

SAN JOSE — The jury in the Angela Davis case today heard a damp-browed prosecutor read aloud, the curious mixture of love and revolution in letters from Angela Davis to Soledad Brother Geroge Jackson.

But an 18-page document — variously described as a letter or a diary and said to contain the most explicit expressions of Miss Davis's feelings for Jackson — was not allowed in evidence.

The document, found in Jackson's San Quentin cell after he died in a bloody escape attempt at San Quentin last August was ruled out at least temporarily by Judge Richard E. Arnason.

The judge told prosecutor Albert W. Harris Jr., however, that if irrelevant material in the epistle is edited out, he might allow the jury to hear it at a later date.

The prosecution received another setback today when the judge said that he would not allow Lt. W. R. Sellmer, a San Quentin guard, to testify about what has been described as "love play" during a meeting between Jackson and Miss Davis last summer in a holding cell at the Marin Hall of Justice.

The prosecution contends that Miss Davis helped plan the escape attempt which ended in the August 1970 shoot-out in which Judge Harold J. Haley was killed, because of an overwhelming passion for Jackson.

Today Harris, frequently mopping his brow, read three "Dear George" letters in which Miss Davis combined phrases like "I have come to love you very deeply" with revolutionary rhetoric. "I regret that I am lying on the only warm spot in this big double bed," she wrote in one letter.

She described Jackson as a "beautiful black warrior" and spoke at length at how she viewed the role of the black woman in the revolution she advocated.

"We must learn how to rejoice when pigs' blood is spilled," she said. Again, speaking of her love, she wrote "Something in you has managed to break through the fortress I've erected around my soul." In another letter sent to Jackson in June 1970, Miss Davis wrote of trouble she said she had got into because of her involvement with the Soledad brothers and told him "there are beautiful plans ahead."

She said she had many things to talk to Jackson about and "it wouldn't be too cool to write them in a letter." Two of the letters were found in a search of Miss Davis's Los Angeles apartment after the shoot-out and the other was seized at Soledad prison. The judge ruled that both these seizures had been legally made.

He said today, however, that the testimony of Lieutenant Sellmer about the events during the holding cells would violate the attorney-client privilege, apparently because the conference had been held in order that Miss Davis and Jackson could confer together with their attorneys.

After the reading of the letters, which took Harris about half an hour, the court was recessed for a lengthy unexplained conference between the judge and the lawyers.

Kentfield Teachers Ask Raise

Kentfield School District teachers last night asked the district board for a 5.5 per cent pay increase for the 1972-73 school year.

William Tasca, chairman of the Certificated Employees Council, representing teachers, indicated teachers would present additional requests for changes in fringe benefits at the board's next meeting, according to Supt. Anthony G. Bacich.

The proposed salary schedule ranges from $7,720 per year for a beginning teacher to a maximum of $15,440 per year after 13 years, Bacich said. The current schedule runs from $7,320 to $14,640.

"No change was requested in the structure of the schedule," Bacich said, "only in dollar amounts." The current payroll for certificated personnel amounts to $875,000 he said, and the requested increase would amount to $55,000.

The Board also allocated $1,000 in the 1972-73 budget for a one-year lease with Encyclopedia Britannica Films to provide $5,000 worth of film strips, flat pictures and transparencies.

After lengthy discussion, it put over for further study a decision on whether to switch next school year from California Dental Service to General American Life for employee dental coverages.

Its next meeting is at 8 p.m. May 8 at Wolfe Grade School.

Sewer District Approves Letter

Homestead Valley Sanitary District directors last night approved a letter to the local agency formation commission clarifying the district's earlier endorsement of a plan to form a large sanitary district in Southern Marin.

Board president James G. Macnichols said the letter endorsed the formation of such a district to consolidate treatment and large-scale movements of sewage, but left to be discussed the question of sewage collection and the dissolution of sewage district boards.

Macnichols said the letter was to allay fears of other boards that they could be disbanded by the formation of the large agency.

The agency formation commission will hold a hearing May 10 on the question, he said.

Sausalito Council To Study Goals Today

Sausalito's goals and priorities will be among topics discussed at a special study session of the city council at 8 p.m. today in city hall.

The council will also discuss procedures for appointments to boards and commissions, formation of a committee to study remaining open space in the city and the council's agenda format.

Hearings Are Completed In Fairfax Chief's Case

By MARY LEYDECKER

The longest running public attraction in Fairfax came to an end last night with fired Police Chief James R. Orr hearing himself described alternately as an alcoholic adulterer and as an upstanding lawman.

At the final hearing of Orr's appeal of his firing by City Administrator Robert E. Crowe, two attorneys took turns summing up their views of the evidence presented during 38 sessions in the Fairfax Women's Club.

The five-man Fairfax Board of Review now has 10 days to decide the fired chief's fate, but Chairman Freeman Blake, a neatly bearded high school teacher, said the board may ask for an extension of time.

During four hours of closing arguments, a faithful audience of about 50 persons listened to City Atty. Wallace S. Myers and Orr's lawyer, Leonard Shaw, trade jibes.

Myers, a lawyer of the old school with a flowing mane of graying hair, got two turns — with Shaw only allowed one argument, according to rules set up by the board.

Myers painted Chief Orr, who sat glumly slumped in a chair, as a man who not only incompetently and inefficiently ran his department but also was untrue to his "good and faithful wife" and was an alcoholic who was probably not cured.

Myers dwelt heavily on testimony concerning police clerk Marsha Kittelman, with whom Orr had been accused of having improper social relations and of showing favoritism.

"It was never his wife, but always Marsha Kittelman who went along with him to meetings and on overnight trips," Myers said of the chief. The city attorney said with disparaging inflection, "I don't know what they did, because I wasn't there."

He called Orr (who was described by his own attorney as not having had a drink in a year and a half), a man "who poured from the bottle without measure."

Orr suffered blackouts, Myers claimed, after drinking and he said that accounted for his not remembering certain incidents during his testimony.

In upholding Crowe's firing of Orr, Myers said, the city council "didn't want to take the responsibility of having a police chief who suffered blackouts."

He asked the board rhetorically if the members wanted to take the responsibility of rehiring Orr on the assumption "he's never going to have another drink."

Myers also listed Crowe's other charges against Orr — including ones that he failed to report two alcohol sale violations to proper state authorities, did not provide proper training for himself and his men, pointed a loaded gun at an officer and drank heavily.

Shaw, however, said that Orr was the victim of Crowe, a young city administrator who had been in office less than six months when he fired the chief.

He continuously referred to what he called Crowe's attempts to "get a little surgery accomplished" by firing Orr instead of helping him to improve the department.

Many of the charges were exaggerated in their seriousness, Shaw said, and gave "an insight into what Mr. Crowe was willing to do to carry out his goal."

As for Mrs. Kittelman, an attractive young woman clad last night in a lowcut peasant blouse, Shaw said there had not "been a shred of evidence" that the chief was unfaithful to his wife.

As a matter of fact, Shaw said, Mrs. Kittelman's husband, who sat beside her last night, and Mrs. Orr, quietly listening in the front row, were along on family vacations which the two couples took at Lake Berryessa.

"This whole case has been tried by inference," Shaw said, adding that Crowe and Myers "tried to leave a nasty, dirty image."

Shaw said that "the proof of the pudding is in the eating" and pointed out there have been no claim, no grand jury investigation nor any state or federal investigation of the Fairfax police department.

He concluded by saying that if the board does not restore Orr to his job, he will "forever be precluded from earning his living in law enforcement."

Dixie School Board To Discuss Leaves

Leave policies for teachers will be discussed by the Dixie School District board at a meeting at 8 p.m. tomorrow in the board room of the administration office at 35 Trellis Drive, San Rafael.

Other topics on the agenda include reports on various special teacher programs in elementary schools.

Sentence Issued For Burglary

George Zack Gaines, 20, of San Rafael was sentenced in Marin Superior Court yesterday to four months in jail and three years of probation by Judge Samuel W. Gardiner.

The sentence was part of a bargain whereby he pleaded guilty to a reduced charge of attempted burglary.

Gaines turned himself in to San Rafael police Dec. 19 at their request after his fingerprints were identified as those found on a windowsill at the burglarized home of Aldo Barsotti on Canal Street a week earlier.

HOW TO KEEP WELL

Quest For Longevity, Virility Has Made Charlatans Rich Men

Man's desire for longevity and virility has made rich men of many charlatans. Oldsters have paid dearly for concoctions varying from crocodile urine to Hadacol. Fetal lamb cells and procaine injections are among the latest to be touted. Fortunately, the Food and Drug Administration has kept these out of the United States. But those wishing to part with their gold need only to cross our borders.

WE DO not mean that the medical scientists are not studying the possibility of retarding or delaying the aging process. Data on the physical, mental, and chemical differences between the young and the old are impressive, but of little practical value. By the time a person gets old, irreversible changes have occurred.

The body usually is in a stage of growth and development up to the age of 20; thereafter, the slow downhill course culminates many decades later in old age and senescence.

IF ANYTHING is to be done to preserve youth, it should be done early in life. And, since there are no magic potions to delay aging, our best bet is to avoid hazardous situations, habits, and activities that speed the process. This brings us back to "good old clean living" and utilizing known health measures. Try to avoid the risk factors that hasten heart attacks and cancer.

THE MOST promising research in gerontology is being done on the cellular changes that take place with advancing age. There are definite alterations in the various protein and nucleic acid molecules within and around the cells of the body. The molecules link together and fill in the spaces between the cells like a frozen metabolic pool. Researchers are trying to develop enzymes that will break down these links to allow normal cells to develop and encourage the diffusion of hormones, nutrients, and protective antibodies through the tissues.

Cellular research offers more hope than trying to find a magic rejuvenating pill.

VIEW TOWARDS DEATH VALLEY — Twenty-three students spent a week hiking and exploring terrain like this, on what was called an Easter Ecology Expedition from San Rafael High School. In addition to learning about life among the plants and animals of the desert, they learned about life among themselves.

People-Learning In Death Valley

By JAY GOODWIN

There's more to learn about in the desert than sand, insects and wild flowers.

That's the lesson that 23 students at San Rafael High School brought back with them from a week's trip to the Mohave Desert and Death Valley.

"Besides the studies of the desert environment, I learned more about people on this trip than at any other time in my life," said one enthusiastic student. "I've really learned how to be friends with everyone, and this is the most important lesson of all."

The trip allowed the students to interact with themselves and their teachers on an informal and enjoyable basis, but it was designed, primarily, as an opportunity to study the natural environment of a desert oasis.

The students and six adults piled into a bus provided by the school district for the Easter vacation trip and headed south, arriving a day later at an oasis in a desolate section of the Mohave Desert.

Other students who had visited the same site on three previous class trips had nicknamed the area Arnold's Roost, but nobody from this year's journey seemed to know why.

For three days, the group hiked throughout the area, examined rock formations, studied insects, plants and animals and exchanged the information they had gathered.

Each morning they split up into three smaller groups to concentrate on plants, insects or geology. Under the leadership of the adult supervisors, they gathered information first hand, rather than in a classroom — by turning over rocks, investigating old mines and catching insects.

"We were not forced to learn, we were encouraged to appreciate the wonder of our environment and offered assistance whenever we needed it," said one student. "It was a beautiful and ideal learning situation for both understanding human nature and the natural perfection of our environment."

The trip was organized by Bernard Keener, an earth and environmental science teacher at the school and cost each participant $25. The students, who came back with rave reviews for the journey, apparently were somewhat doubtful before they arrived in the desert.

"When I first got there," explained Vickie Germany, a sophomore, "I thought I wouldn't see any animals. But wow! All those animals, birds, plants and 91 varieties of insects. They came out of nowhere."

After living with each other for a week, the group was reluctant to head for home.

INSECT EXPERT — Beverly Ereth, an elementary school teacher in Novato, surveys a dried up river bed near Arnold's Roost. She led groups of students on daily insect-studying tours. By the time the week had ended, the group had identified 91 different types of insects.

(Expedition photos)

"We stopped every five or 10 miles on the way back to look at the plants or flowers in the desert. Actually, we just didn't want the trip to end," said another student.

Back at San Rafael high school, the group has water samples to study from the tiny stream at Arnold's Roost and flowers to convert into an herbarium. In addition to the tangible souvenirs, they also have their memories.

"How we were able to relate on some sort of harmonious level still baffles me," admitted one of the desert explorers. "But we did it! And because we did it, I was and still am thoroughly satisfied."

Pacheco Ranch Plan Gets Planner Delay

The U.S. Development Corp. has submitted plans for 400 singlefamily homes, 300 apartment units, 12.9 acres of offices and 12.9 acres of commercial area on the 519-acre parcel.

Planning technician James Miller said the Marin County Planning staff has proposed that the Pacheco Ranch be retained as open space, and since county action is pending, commissioners agreed to continue the matter.

Since the area is unincorporated, plans were submitted to the county, but referred to the city planning commission for comment, because the area is slated to be annexed to Novato.

Also set aside temporarily was prezoning the ranch land from limited agricultural to planned community district.

The Novato Planning Commission Also:

TENNIS CLUB — Approved a revised master plan for the Olive Ridge Tennis Club on 33 acres at Olive Avenue and Deer Island Lane, which locates the proposed tournament stadium to the area near the overflow parking lot.

OAKS APARTMENTS — Approved a master plan by Fabian Bobo for 58 apartment units on 3.37 acres on the east side of South Novato Boulevard, north of Yukon Way.

MARIN HIGHLANDS — Recommended prezoning 3.2 acres on the west side of Santa Maria Drive in Marin Highlands Unit No. 4 to single-family residential.

PINHEIRO RANCH — Continued until May 8 prezoning of the Pinheiro Ranch, west of Highway 101, north of downtown, until May 8. Burns Properties Inc. of Sausalito plans to develop a shopping center at the site.

BYZANTINE FAIR — Continued until May 8 an application by Justin D. Winnell III for a use permit to operate a Byzantine Faire on six weekends, June 17 through July 23, at the Satori Ranch at the east end of Atherton Avenue.

Commissioner James F. Picchi was absent.

Investor Faces Loan Charges

AKRON, Ohio (UPI)—D. Donald Lowers, who owes approximately $10 million to 1,400 creditors in the United States, Canada and Australia, was arrested by the FBI Monday on a warrant charging him with making false statements to obtain bank loans.

He was released on $5,000 bond pending a hearing.

A federal grand jury indicted Lowers on two counts of making false statements to obtain loans from the Richland Trust Co., Mansfield, Ohio, in 1971.

For seven years Lowers operated an investment business, promising 8 to 30 per cent on investments made in the form of short-term loans to him. He was declared bankrupt March 10 after listing assets of $1.2 million and debts of $11.2 million.

Electrocuted Youth Identified

A youth found electrocuted Sunday near a Pacific Gas and Electric Company transmission tower on Alto Hill has been identified as a 16-year-old Tiburon youth, Bryan Canfield Brown, of 251 Karen Way.

Coroner's deputies said the identification was made by Redwood High School officials after officers had found a high school mathematics test in Brown's pocket.

The youth's mother is Phoebe Brown, of Tiburon, deputies said. She thought her son was on his way home when the incident occurred, they said.

Volunteer Park Labor Being Asked

The Rohnert Park Recreation Commission last night agreed to ask for volunteer labor and cash donations to complete park projects that would have been funded by last month's park bond issue.

A $195,000 park bond issue was defeated by voters on April 11. Recreation Director James Pekkain said the commission agreed that another vote would not win passage in the immediate future.

The commission agreed to form a committee to organize volunteer workers to make the planned improvements at Alicia and Benecia parks and to seek donations from service clubs and organization to fund the projects.

In other business, Pekkain reported that Argonaut Constructors is providing free fill for the planned El Colegio Neighborhood Park. Commissioners Nancy Mettert and Ronald E. Rasmussen were named to work with Pekkain in planning the park development.

The commission also agreed to a joint meeting with the planning commission on May 4 at 7:30 p.m. at the Benecia recreation building to review future growth and park needs.

Baptiste Named To ABAG Housing Unit

I-J Special Report

BERKELEY — Marin County Supervisor Arnold M. Baptiste has been appointed to a 10-member regional housing task force by the Association of Bay Area Governments.

Association president Donald Dillon, a Fremont city councilman, said the 10 representatives of local government will have the "politically sensitive" job of directing ABAG's staff in preparation of a regional housing plan. The task force also will draft guidelines for use of federal housing funds.

Retroactive Pay Hikes Are Approved

Five per cent retroactive raises for the Sausalito School District's 68 employees were approved last night by the district board.

Supt. Lawrence A.Lindberg said the salary hikes, which will cost the district about $40,000, will be etroactive to July 1, 1971.

Salary negotiations in the district were broken off last August because of the wage and price freeze imposed by President Richard M. Nixon, according to Lindberg, and the employees did not receive pay increases for this year as a result.

Trustee Barbara Harris, chairman of the board's finance committee, said the committee had determined the district can afford the additional expenditure.

The Sausalito School District board also:

SHARING — Heard a report from Lindberg that he will meet with superintendents from the Reed and Mill Valley School districts to discuss ways of sharing students, staff and programs.

HIRING — Authorized employment of these persons: teacher Robert Thomson as summer school principal at a salary of $1,250; Joseph A. Pagano as substitute bus driver, and Judith Mello as substitute superintendent's secretary.

CONSULTANT — Agreed to pay Lee S. DeLuca, financial consultant for the Marin County Schools Office, $7 an hour for working with the board finance committee in evening meetings to prepare a 1972-73 operating budget for Sausalito.

APPLICATION — Authorized the superintendent to apply for $2,210 in Federal Title III funds to purchase science equipment and materials.

COMMITTEE — Appointed trustee Betty Times as board representative to a district committee which will work to implement the Stull Bill which requires yearly evaluation of student and teacher performance.

AUDIT — Voted to employ the firm of Leader, Jarvis and Keigwin to audit the district's 1971-72 records for $1,600.

Tennis Plan Questioned By Board

The Corte Madera Board of Design last night raised questions about the tennis courts proposed at Madera Del Presidio, questioned the density of the project and the amount of space planned for streets and parking, according to Board Secretary Elizabeth Long.

Board Vice Chairman Morgan L. Griffiths was a vocal critic of the proposal during its first planning board hearing last week.

Griffiths recommended that the Park and Recreation Department carefully examine plans for tennis courts proposed on the entrance strip to the development, with regard to wind exposure, draining and lighting.

Griffiths and board member C. William Thomas both recommended to the planning commission that two buildings, comprising 12 units out of 144 proposed, be eliminated from the project, allowing visual access to green areas on the site.

The pair also felt that too much area in the development would be devoted to streets and parking. They suggested to the planning commission that carports could be eliminated by putting parking underneath the buildings.

Explosion Leads To Discovery Of Hash Refinery

LOS ANGELES (UPI)—A chemical used to refine marijuana into the more potent drug hashish exploded, critically injuring a teen-ager and leading authorities to the first hashish refinery uncovered in the United States, sheriff's deputies disclosed Monday.

Capt. Norman Hamilton, head of the sheriff's narcotics detail, said the explosion Sunday night resulting from the accidental igniting of the chemical caused third-degree burns on Robin Rojo, 19, of Palos Verdes.

Rojo was hospitalized at Los Angeles County-USC Medical Center where he was booked on several drug charges.

Will Represent Sewer District

Directors of the Sausalito-Marin City Sanitary District last night appointed director George F. Carney as district representative to the Advisory Committee To Improvement District A.

(District A was established two years ago by the Marin Municipal Water District to prepare plans for a consolidated sanitary agency to handle waste disposal in Southeast Marin and the advisory committee is composed of representatives of nine Southern Marin sanitary agencies which will be included in the consolidation.)

Carney will replace Cyril G. Hansen who resigned from the representative's job because of the press of other business.

Deadline Extended On Middle School

The Mill Valley School board last night approved a 54-day extension of a construction deadline at the Mill Valley middle school, but told the contractor that he must finish the building by May 30.

The board also asked that it be advised at each meeting about progress in moving into the new school and in moving Alto School to Edna Maguire School, according to Carroll D. Killingsworth, director of business services.

The contractor, Dickman Construction Co. of Mountain View, had sought 67-day extension, but this was pared by the district's architect and building inspector to the 54-day figure, Killingsworth said.

Also at the meeting, Supt. James A. Collins asked that interested persons attend the board's May 8 meeting to hear a report on possible district boundary changes being prepared by County School Supt. Virgil S. Hollis.

The Mill Valley School District Board Also:

DEVELOPER'S REQUEST — Authorized board president William P. Everts Jr. to meet with the firm of Harter and Odenthal, who plan the Madera Del Presidio development in Corte Madera, to discuss future school site on the development. The board had sent a letter to the developers earlier asking that such a site be set aside, Killingsworth said, and that developers have asked that they be allowed to begin some of the development without doing so.

STRAWBERRY SCHOOL MASTER PLAN — Heard from Fred Holmes, a Strawberry School parent working on a landscaping master plan for the school, that the next step is to plant six large willow trees. Beautification, he said, is funded largely by the Strawberry School Fair, to be May 6 from 10 a.m. to 4 p.m.

MULTIETHNIC COMMITTEE — Heard Alfred Gordon, principal of Strawberry School and chairman of the district's multiethnic committee report that Martin Luther King Day, Jan. 14, was successful because teachers spent time discussing contributions made to society by minority and ethnic groups, and that the district is working with the multicultural institute in San Francisco as part of its in-service teacher training program.

BELL LANE — Postponed for clarification the proposed dedication of Bell Lane in front of Tamalpais Valley School to the county for road maintenance.

SUMMER SCHOOL — Approved an extension of the regular school year to July 14 for educationally and visually handicapped students only.

PARENT COMMITTEE — Postponed for further study a proposal to set up a committee to report on district activities to parents.

SCREENING COMMITTEE — Set Saturday as the date on which the principal screening committee will select three applicants from a field of 12 for the principalship of Old Mill School. The board will interview the final three.

INSERVICE COMMITTEE — The committee, formed to look for ways to improve the district, reported that communication was the first priority, according to Killingsworth.

SUPPLIES — Approved a contract for $18,174 with the H. S. Crocker Co. of San Francisco for school supplies for the coming year.

SABBATICALS — Approved six-month sabbatical leaves for teachers Shirley Noakes, of Strawberry School, and William Castelli of Park School, and a one-year sabbatical for Louise Yahnian at Old Mill School.

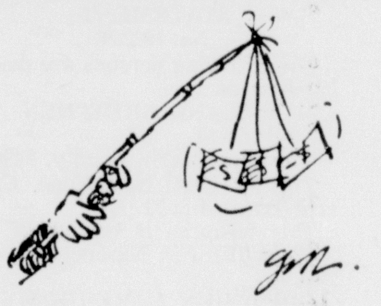
The Deposit On The Rent



Helen and Jim were enchanted with the view-and-fireplace apartment they found. The landlord said they could have a lease, but they would have to put up a deposit for the last two months rent.

They did — and moved in. Some time later, Jim lost his job at the electronics firm where he worked. Because of this he got a month behind in the rent. Then he found another job in another city. This meant he and Helen had to move.

"We're pretty short of money," he told the landlord. "So please take the month's rent I owe you from our deposit, and give me back the second month's rent.

The landlord said, "You broke your agreement by not paying me when you were supposed to. So I get to keep the full amount."

Jim took the case to court and got back one month's rent. The court said that where a deposit of rent money is for "security," then, at the end of the rental period, the landlord has a duty to return it, less any unpaid rent or damages. Here he only had a right to one month's rent. The rest he had to return to the young couple.

Landlords and tenants sometimes squabble over the amount of "damages" when the tenant leaves. The landlord is only entitled to a "reasonable amount."

Such disputes are often settled in small claims court. The landlord and tenant may each tell their version of the case. Sometimes the judge will have to go to the premises to look over the carpets, walls, drapes, etc.

In a landlord-tenant dispute over the condition of the premises, the landlord would be wise to present "before and after" photos along with bills for reasonable costs of repairs. This will help him prove his claim.

Suppose a landlord in bad faith keeps all or part of the tenant's deposit? Then he can be ordered to pay $200 additional punitive damages as well as the actual damages.

It's usually a good idea for tenant and landlord to draw a simple written agreement. This should say what if any cleaning charges there will be. Also who pays for what damages that might occur. Plus any other points they discuss and agree on.

Man Killed In Zoo Bear Pit

PERTH, Australia (UPI)—An unidentified young man climbed into the bear pit at the Perth zoo Sunday and was killed by two polar bears.

The man climbed a wire fence and dropped about 20 feet into a pool in the pit after scuffling outside with a number of men and a woman. The two animals attacked him and a rag soaked with gasoline was ignited and thrown into the pit to distract the bears long enough for zoo attendants to pull him out, but he already was dead.

Congress Decides Inaugural Budget

WASHINGTON (UPI) —The next presidential inauguration won't take place until January, but Congress has already decided how much it will cost—$650,000.

The Joint Congressional Committee on Inaugural Ceremonies approved a budget of that size Monday for the event.

Editorial Prompts Big Patrick Suit

William Penn Patrick, a pilot and two aircraft companies yesterday filed a multimillion dollar libel suit against the Tiburon Ebb Tide because of a December editorial about "kid games" played over an airport radio.

The suit filed in Marin Superior Court on behalf of the millionaire San Rafael cosmetics manufacturer and Richard Bingham, a flight instructor and mechanic, and Spectrum Aire and American Air Museum claims they were libeled by an editorial which charged them with wrongful use of the traffic advisory radio frequency for the county airport north of Novato.

Patrick is asking $1 million exemplary damages, $500,000 for "embarrassment, humiliation, great mental suffering and anguish," and $250,000 for damage to his business ventures.

Bingham is seeking $625,000 and the two air companies $1.55 million each.

As well as the Tiburon weekly, the suit names publisher John Luc, who wrote the editorial of Dec. 27, and his wife, Nadine.

Luc, a pilot himself, said he refused to print a retraction as requested because the editorial was true.

The suit drafted by San Francisco attorney Robert L. Moran said, "Plaintiff's reputation as a responsible and trustworthy person and as an accomplished pilot is injured and defamed by such statements of careless and reckless airmanship."

Meeting On VD Will Be Tomorrow

The importance of educating children about the dangers of venereal disease, and how that education may be given in the classroom, will be discussed at a public meeting at 8 p.m. tomorrow in Olney Hall of College of Marin.

The program, sponsored by the Marin Medical Society Auxiliary, Bay Area Venereal Disease Association, and Marin County superintendent of schools office, is designed to acquaint parents with the need for VD education and how it is proposed to present it.

Sidney Smith, personnel coordinator for the county schools office, will give an "Overview of VD Education in Marin County." Jan Cobble, executive director of the Bay Area Venereal Disease Association, will speak on "Legal Status of VD Education."

Mrs. Charlene Arbogast, a teacher at Bret Harte Junior High School in Hayward, will give a demonstration of how students are taught about VD. This will be followed by a film prepared for showing in schools, "VD — A New Focus."

Need for emphasis on teaching about venereal disease dangers is shown in figures by the Marin County Health Department on the increase in reported cases of gonorrhea in the county. In 1960, about 100 such cases were reported. Last year, there were more than 1,600.

Tomorrow's program is part of an all-out effort for improved education about venereal disease by affiliates of the California Medical Society. It follows a program at College of Marin last week, and a Sunday television show on KPIX (channel 5) which featured Dr. Ellis Mitchell of San Rafael, president of the Bay Area Venereal Disease Association.

San Rafael Quake Report Unfounded

A report from an East San Rafael homeowner that her house trembled during what she thought was a minor earthquake brought word from the College of Marin geology laboratory that no earthquake occurred in Marin yesterday.

Schools Give Up On Tax Hike Election

The Petaluma Board of Education yesterday gave up plans for another tax rate increase election, acknowledging that few opinions or votes have changed since last month.

Tax rate increase elections for both the elementary and high school districts failed March 21.

The board gave serious thought to another try at the polls July 25 just for the financially-pressed elementary district. Board member Sol Fishman suggested the board ask a 50-cent increase rather than the 88-cent increase that failed last month and include the limitation that it would be in effect for three years or less.

On the vote, Fishman got support only from board president Dr. William K. Kortum. Fellow board members Arthur L. Lafranchi, Daniel B. Plumley and Robert T. Stimson said another election would be a wast of time and money.

Members of the audience also advised against another election. Representatives of parent-teacher associations said even their members would not support another election.

At its regular meeting at 8 p.m. today, the board will receive preliminary budgets for 1972-73 and consider methods to reduce elementary operations by $158,000 to balance the budget.

The board has said it will consider closing Grant School and putting all elementary schools on double sessions to reduce costs. Bus transportation in the wide Penngrove School attendance area also may be dropped to save money.

The possibility of relocating San Antonio Continuation High School from the Sonoma-Marin Fairgrounds to Grant School also will be studied as a way of saving the $6,000 per year fairgrounds rent.

Vote, Funds Not Related In Larkspur

Larkspur candidates spending reports indicated today that money doesn't necessarily mean victory at the polls, as proven by the fifth-place finish of Earl J. O'Grady, second biggest spender.

O'Grady, who polled 854 votes, finished fifth in the seven-way race for three council seats. He reported contributions and expenses of $961.44.

Alice B. Vincilione, developer and executrix of the Adolph A. Tiscornia estate, contributed $150 towards O'Grady's unsuccessful campaign. She also contributed $100 to the campaign of candidate Jame Epidendio, who finished last.

Biggest spender was William G. Fleckles, who finished third with 979 votes. He reported contributions of $160 toward expenses of $1,629.28.

Third largest spender was Robert H. Lee, who finished first with 1,059 votes. He reported contributions of $458.01 and expenses of $955.32.

Fourth largest spender was Joan Sestak, who finished second with 1,396 votes and reported contributions of $825 and expenses of $783.68.

Fifth largest spender was Elizabeth Johnson, who ran sixth with 676 votes. She reported contributions of $355 toward expenses of $422.25. The majority of her contributions, $300, came from Boardwalk I residents.

Sixth largest spender, Mrs. Epidendio, polled 338 votes and reported $315 in contributions toward expenses of $417.45.

Smallest spender Benton A. Sifford Jr., who filed a statement declaring he spent less than $200, finished fourth with 913 votes.

Flahive Top Spender, 1st In Election

Vote-getting ability and candidate spending showed a direct relationship only in the first-place finish of Robert J. Flahive in the Corte Madera municipal election.

Top spender Flahive, who won reelection with 923 votes, reported contributions of $922.75 and expenses of $902.41.

Second-highest spender I. Thomas Zaragoza, who finished fifth with 692 votes, reported no contribution and expenses of $697.

Third highest spender Robert P. Simmons, who finished second with 833 votes, won reelection by four votes. He reported contributions of $200 toward expenses of $638.95.

Defeated incumbent Byron D. White, who finished fourth with 733 votes, filed a statement that he had not spent more than $200. Town Clerk Betty S. Behel and Town Treasurer Frank Bigley, both running unopposed, filed similar statements.

Herber C. Leney, who finished third with 829 votes, had not filed a spending report as of yesterday. He will get a recount tomorrow.

(Winners are required to file financial statements before they are seated, other candidates by May 16, according to Mrs. Behel. If Leney wins tomorrow he must file before being seated.)

5 Will Attend Affairs Council

Five Marin students are among 130 students from 33 high schools, and colleges in Northern California who have been awarded scholarships for a conference on foreign policy being sponsored by the World Affairs Council of Northern California.

The Marin students are Roland Dersjant, William Dobbs and Steven Lewey, all of Terra Linda High School, and Janet Bauer and James Ponzetti, who attend San Rafael High School.

The conference, to be held May 5, 6 and 7 at Asilomar in Moneterey County, will feature talks by New York Times Washington correspondent, Max Frankel, government officials and John Karefa-Smart, former Sierra Leone foreign minister.

The students were chosen from more than twice as many applicants.

Boeing Seeking Chinese Market

SEATTLE, Wash. (UPI)—Boeing Co. representatives are in China to develop a possible market "even in a modest way," it was revealed Monday.

Boeing President T. A. Wilson was asked during a report to stockholders if he had sales representatives in China.

"Yes, we do have some people in China right now," he replied, but "I think it might be misleading to say that a major contract could develop immediately."

Wilson's report was the first official word that Boeing personnel, sent to Hong Kong several weeks ago, had entered China.

Awami League Deaths 17,000

DACCA, (UPI) — Pakistani army troops killed more than 17,000 members of the Awami League during the nine-month liberation war, according to a preliminary party survey disclosed yesterday.

The Awami League, dominant party of the former province of East Pakistan, spearheaded the revolt that led to the creation of Bangladesh.

Quoting the survey, a party source said that in every city, town and village the Pakistan army looked for pro-Awami League workers. If they found them, the source said, they were killed, and if not their homes were burned and their relatives were victimized.

Environmental Split Settled

Environmental quality study, a subject postponed by Novato's lame duck council on April 4, got off its feet last night after a meeting in which the environmentalists and the new council differed, split into separate meetings and finally settled their differences.

The new Novato City Council and Novato Environmental Quality Committee agreed on an abbreviated and more general resolution creating and outlining the duties of the committee.

Deleted from the committee's plan was a city health department to carry on an educational program for family planning and a street tree program.

In its final form, the council agreed to the creation of a nine-man committee which should be advisory only to the city council and other city agencies on the environmental quality of the city planning area.

The areas of study by the committee would include, but not be limited to:

DEVELOPMENT AND GROWTH — Monitoring the environmental impact over growth and development including location and expansion of population.

POLLUTION — Air, water, visual, sound and solid waste.

BEAUTIFICATION — Use of natural materials to enhance the aesthetic appearance of the city in landscaping, trash receptacles and utility appearances.

The resolution is to be put in final form by the city staff for later council action.

The meeting at its outset turned into an exercise in semantics and a discussion of the powers of the committee.

The committee had prepared a three-page outline of its duties and functions. That was the proposal on which the old council would not act.

The meeting reached an impasse with Councilman Fred R. Ruegg and Dr. Gregory J. Graham, committee chairman at odds on the functions and duties of the committee.

The joint meeting then split into two groups with the council, councilman George C. Quesada absent, going into another room in the parks and recreation building and the committee staying in the conference room.

"We knew we would not get all of our points in our resolution and Brown's proposal does give us a lot. Let's accept it and if it doesn't work, we can ask for a change," said Stanford A. Warner of the committee.

"It's better than a poke in the eye with a sharp stick," said Lorene Bunker of the committee.

In the other room, Ruegg objected to giving the committee the power to make recommendations to the city engineer and city staff. He said it was circumventing the chain of authority.

When the two groups reconvened, the council found that the committee was agreeable to Brown's shortened version with a few word changes.

The two bodies agreed to meet together semiannually to discuss the areas of concern of the committee and council.

Councilmen Dorothy Young and David Price Jones wanted the committee to study open space. Jones also wanted them to study "heritage trees" and agricultural preserves within the city.

The council adjourned to 8 p.m. today for its regular meeting.

Petaluma Boys Are Arrested

Two teen-aged Petaluma boys have been arrested on suspicion of burglary.

A 16-year-old boy was booked into Sonoma County Juvenile Hall and a 15-year-old companion was released to his parents. On the advice of the Sonoma County district attorneys office, police refused to name the youths.

Officers said they were arrested Thursday when Hilda Church, 811 Sixth Street, reported prowlers in her garage. Officers said a tire inflator and some small change had been taken from the garage.

Motorcyclist Hurt As Cycle Overturns

John James Marshall, 29, of San Francisco, was treated Saturday at Marin General Hospital for a fractured shoulder received in a motorcycle accident, according to hospital records.

California Highway Patrolmen reported that Marshall overturned on his motorcycle at 3:15 p.m. on the Lucas Valley Road about five miles west of Highway 101.

New Park's Dedication Is Saturday

Stafford Lake Park, a Marin County recreation project, will be dedicated at 12:30 p.m. Saturday with a program sponsored by the North Marin Federation of Homeowners.

The event, marking completion of the first phase of park development at the North Marin County Water District Reservoir, will include a picnic, nature hike and fishing.

The ceremony will start with the unveiling of the Stafford Lake Park sign at the 65-acre site, west of Novato. Supervisor Arnold M. Baptiste is scheduled to conduct the ceremonies.

The Novato Civic Foundation will plant trees, the San Marin High School Band will perform and naturalist Elizabeth Terwilliger of Mill Valley will lead the nature hike starting at 2 p.m.

The federation will have free beer for adults and soft drinks for minors and will sell hot dogs and hamburgers for those who don't choose to bring a picnic lunch.

First phase development at the park included an entry road from Novato Boulevard, parking area for about 100 cars, installation of a lawn area, planting of native trees, an irrigation system and restrooms.

Ultimately the park will have picnic areas for up to 500 persons, parking spaces for 200 cars, an education center, pond, bicycle rentals, hiking and riding trails.

Westmoreland Hit By A Tomato

EL PASO, Tex. (UPI)—Army Chief of Staff Gen. William C. Westmoreland ignored a small band of agitators when they threw tomatoes at him on a reviewing stand, police said.

Three young persons accused of participating in the tomato throwing were charged with disorderly conduct and released on $400 bond each Saturday.

Sheriff Mike Sullivan said while he was on the reviewing stand, eight or 10 persons carrying an American flag upside down on its staff, a Viet Cong flag and armloads of tomatoes approached the stand.

Jail, $1,500 Fine To Hub Pot Seller

A 21-year-old San Anselmo man who admitted living off marijuana sales for two years was sentenced yesterday in Marin Municipal Court to serve four months in jail and pay a $1,500 fine.

Judge Samuel W. Gardiner also placed Julian Crawford Johnson II on three years' probation as part of the deal under which he pleaded guilty.

He pleaded guilty to felony possession of marijuana for sale and a misdemeanor count of battery on a police officer and charges of transporting pot, possessing cocaine and a second charge of battery were dismissed last month.

Johnson was arrested Oct. 20 by narcotics agents who arrested 12 persons and seized marijuana and drugs valued at more than $11,000.

Agents said they found 50 kilos of marijuana in a car and five more in the house at 43 Manor Drive.

Johnson, talking to deputy probation officer Georgia Sells, said, "I was engaged in selling marijuana for about two years for a living. I did it because I could make a lot more money than at any other job. I considered it neither immoral nor unethical."

Some Renovations For Air Force One

WASINGTON (UPI) —Air Force One, dubbed the "Spirit of '76" by President Nixon, has been undergoing its annual renovation, this time including the addition of improved equipment for communicating with satellites throughout the world.

The work is being done at New York's Kennedy Airport. The plane was scheduled to return to Andrews Air Force Base outside Washington later this week.

A Teddy Bear Burglar Gets County Jail Time

Robert Andrew Kraft Jr., 19, of Larkspur was sentenced yesterday in Marin Superior Court to four months in jail for a burglary in which he took, among other things, a teddy bear, a pencil sharpener and a little rubber statue of pirates.

Judge Samuel W. Gardiner also placed him on two years probation.

Kraft's guilty plea was part of a deal under which an unrelated misdemeanor charge of possessing stolen property was dismissed.

The youth described as immature and naive by a probation officer was arrested Nov. 28 with his 15-year-old brother while in the process of taking a variety of petty items from a shed.

"It is the silliest thing in the world, Gardiner said, "but if something more valuable had been there, I suppose it would be gone."

To Conference

Taddeucci Beds Down Among Sport Stars

By RALPH CHATOIAN

The smell of alcohol, or the hospital beat:

When Giants promotions manager John Taddeucci of San Rafael was assigned to a room in St. Mary's Hospital, S.F., he found himself right between a pair of sportsmen of the pro ranks. In the room on one side of Taddeucci is 49er halfback Doug Cunningham and in the room on the other side is Golden State Warrior Cazzie Russell.

Taddeucci and Russell are both in the hospital for the same reasons, back operations, but for Cunningham it's a bit of knee surgery. I'm told that Cunningham suffered a little pain toward the end of last season and he finally decided to go under the knife to fix a bum knee.

The dapper Taddeucci has been involved in some domino games via Ma Bell's facilities with Noble Hamilton Jr. of Ross, a paper company exec and super sports fan who is also in a hospital bed, at Marin General. Noble, between domino games, is supposedly diagramming football plays he plans to mail to Cal's new head coach Mike White. Of course you know where Hamilton spent his college days. Yep, another "old blue."

In another part of Marin General is Mrs. Letha Jenkins of Fairfax, former principal of Ross Grammar School and avid member of the Northern California Giants Boosters who had to miss the Giants' "home opener" last Friday because of surgery.

Not in the hospital but feeling very sick is NorCal Giant Booster Pres. Allan Murray of Kentfield who is missing one 1969 Mustang, stolen from in front of the Jack Tar Hotel Friday night. The car color, in Murray's words, is "very dirty blue," unless the thief has sent it through a car wash.

BELVEDERE's MIKE MACHETTE, singles player for the University of Southern California tennis team, was a winner again yesterday in the Trojans' 6-3 victory over University of Arizona. He beat Arizona's Jim Logan 6-1, 6-4. Teammates of Machette are Marcelo Lara and Raul Ramirez, members of the Mexico Davis Cup team. No wonder the USC netters are rated No. dos in the nation. (No. uno is Trinity College of San Antonio, Tex.)

RADIO STATION KTIM of San Rafael will be loaded with live baseball coverage this season. According to the station's heavy plans, there will be 13 games a week on the average. There will be daily Oakland A's broadcasts, six Little League games per week and one Marin County Athletic League prep game on Fridays.

According to the station's Little League schedule, announcers Bob Dinsmore and Rich Turner will be skipping all over the county — Mill Valley on Monday, San Rafael National on Tuesdays, Twin Cities (Larkspur-Corte Madera) on Wednesdays, San Rafael American on Thursdays, Novato on Fridays and Marinwood on Saturdays.

FIRST REPORTS from Player Periscope of Novato, a company which keeps statistics of minor leaguers throughout the country, is very promising for two Marin players. Tom Corder, in his first few games as third baseman for the Bakersfield Dodgers of the California League, went four for 10 (.400) and John Dolinsek, first baseman for Oklahoma City Astros of the American Association, went three for four in his first game. But on the other hand, Russ Dillon has been racked in his two appearances as a pitcher for the Richmond, Va., Braves of the International League and although not suffering a loss, has an earned run average of 24.00 after three innings of work. All three players are Novatans.

Series Clincher Sought By Bruins

ST. LOUIS, Mo. (UPI)— General Manager Milt Schmidt of the Boston Bruins admits that "this is going easier than we thought."

The Bruins have clobbered the St. Louis Blues in three straight games in the Stanley Cup semifinals and could move into the finals against the New York Rangers with a forth win tonight at the St. Louis arena.

"We had no idea this series was going to go the way it has," said Schmidt. "The Blues' goaltending was the difference in their series against Minnesota, and they probably had a letdown."

The Bruins have bombed three St. Louis goalies, Jacques Caron, Ernie Wakely and Peter McDuffe, and have outscored the Blues 23-5 in the three games. McDuffe has been sent back to the Denver farm club, so either Caron or Wakely will start for the Blues tonight. Gerry Cheevers will be in goal for the Bruins.

The Blues have been almost totally unable to stop the Boston power play made up of Johnny Bucyk and Johnny McKenzie on the wings with Phil Esposito in the slot and Bobby Orr and Fred Stanfield on the points. Both of McKenzie's goals in Sunday's 72 win came on the power play.

St. Louis Coach Al Arbour says, "the last three games speak for themselves, and I'm very disappointed, and our players are disappointed. The Bruins are a fine hockey club and they're certainly proving it against us."

Concession Pact Gains Approval

SAN FRANCISCO (UPI)—A revised contract aimed at providing the city with $5,000 additional revenue from Candlestick Park concession stands has been recommended for approval.

The Finance Committee of the Board of Supervisors has suggested an okay of the new pact with Stevens California Enterprises Inc.

In exchange for all concession rights at baseball games for the next 21 years, Stevens has agreed to pay the city 25 1-2 per cent of its gross sales and possessory interest taxes.

Tovani Is San Rafael Cage Coach

Junior varsity basketball coach Bret E. Tovani has been named to replace Michael J. Diaz as head coach at San Rafael High School, principal Peter Palches announced yesterday.

Diaz will remain as athletic director. "Mr. Diaz has been planning to give his full attention to the A.D. assignment for some time," said Palches. "Bret is a natural for the job and his outstanding record as a coach made him the obvious choice."

Tovani, 27, has been teaching at San Rafael for four years, and was a player on Diaz' Marin County Athletic League championship team of 1962. "I really didn't think I'd get a head coaching job this quickly, mainly because Mike is so young," said Tovani.

Tovani graduated from San Rafael in 1962 and from San Francisco State College in 1967 with a B.A. in geography. He taught briefly at San Rafael and Terra Linda high schools before accepting a permanent position at San Rafael in the fall of 1968.

Now Tovani teaches anthropology and environmental studies, and is going for a Master's degree in interdisciplinary studies in education at San Francisco State. He coached J.V. basketball for four years, with last year's team compiling an 11-3 league record.

Tovani lives with his wife and

By U.P. INTERNATIONAL

One National Basketball Association coach was honored, while another surrendered his post.

Los Angeles Laker coach Bill Sharman was named NBA Coach of the Year. Sharman, 45, who paced the American Basketball Association Utah Stars to an ABA title last year before moving West this year, received 42 votes from a panel of three writers in each of the 17 NBA member cities.

While Sharman was receiving his honor, Atlanta Hawk coach Richie Guerin stepped up to the team's general manager position after coaching his squad for eight years. Guerin said his first goal will be to fill the coaching spot. He is considering candidates at the present time.

Meanwhile, it was reported Sharman beat out Tom Heinsohn of Boston and Al Attles of Golden State for the NBA's top coaching choice. Heinsohn and Attles tied for second with three votes each.

Sharman, who played on four title teams with the Boston Celtics from 1957 to 1961 and coached for two years in San Francisco in 1967 and 1968, also had a taste of baseball player. He was on the Dodger bench in 1951 when Bobby Thomson hit the homer that won the pennant for the New York Giants.

When the NBA chose its silver anniversary team in 1970, Sharman was one of the 10 players selected. He proved his concentration on the court by becoming the best free throw shooter in the history of the game, including one streak of 56 straight free throws.

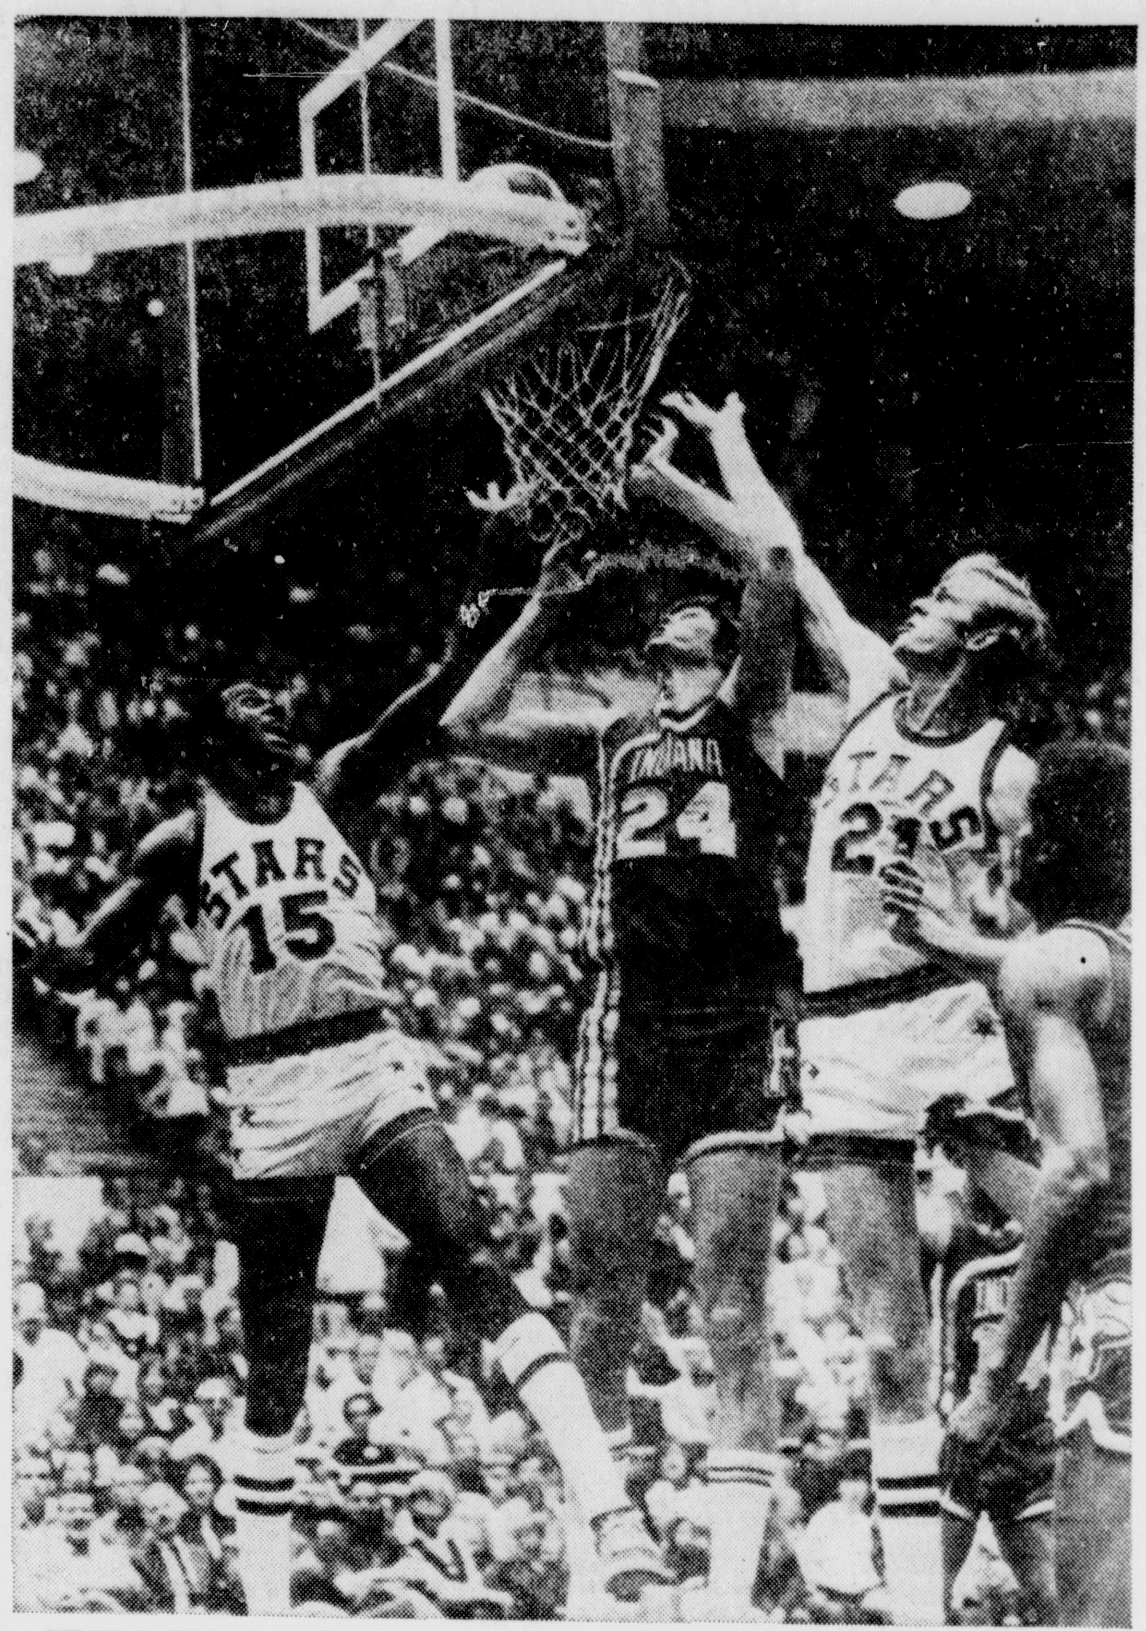
"There are no secrets in this game," Sharman claims "a player who is in the best shape possible is in a position to function and reach maximum efficiency."

HUNTER, A'S IN NEW YORK FOR 2 GAMES

NEW YORK (UPI)—Weather permitting, Catfish Hunter of the A's will go after his first win of the campaign tonight at Yankee Stadium, where the A's open a two-game set with the New York Yankees.

The A's have a narrow lead in the American League West with a 4-2 record but the top four teams are within 1-2 game of each other.

Oakland fell to Minnesota 8-4 Sunday as Bobby Darwin, surprise star of the American League's early going continued his rampage with a single and a homer. That was his third homer in as many meetings with the A's.



STARS WELL ARMED — Utah Star performers Jimmy Jones (15) and Austin (Red) Robbins (21) surrounded Indiana's Bob Netolicky in a rebound battle last night at Salt Lake City, Utah, during the American Basketball Association Western Division playoffs. Utah won, 139-130, to take a 3-2 game lead in the series.

A LOT OF CAVIAR — W. H. McNew of Olivehurst stood next to his 405-pound sturgeon he caught on the Sacramento River at Verona, near Knight's Landing, Yuba County. The eggs from female sturgeon are processed into caviar and this one will provide enough caviar to last McNew for years to come.

405-Pound Sturgeon Caught; Record Set

SACRAMENTO (UPI)—State Fish and Game officials say a 52-year-old Olivehurst man may have set a world record with his catch of a 405-pound sturgeon measuring nine feet.

W. H. McNew caught the fish last week in the Sacramento River near Verona in Yuba County. Officials said Monday the catch surpasses all previous state and world marks for sturgeon landed with a rod.

The Guiness Book of Records lists the world record as a 360-pounder taken in at Iquique, Chile, in May of 1953. The state record was a 293-pound sturgeon pulled in from San Pablo Bay by Glen Claypool Jr. of Richmond.

McNew, who has been asked to enter his catch in the state trophy award program for fishermen, said four other people helped him land the fish. He said it took nearly three hours to bring in the fish.

Nets Win; ABA Stars Triumph

By U.P. INTERNATIONAL

An eight-day medical leave paid off for the New York Nets Monday night.

The Nets dropped the first two games of their American Basketball Association Eastern Division finals series to the Virginia Squires in Virginia. A conflict with an ice show at the Nassau Coliseum then prevented the Nets from playing for eight days and it gave the club's wounded a chance to heal.

Rick Barry, John Roche and Bill Melchionni, all bothered by illness or injury, recovered during the break and helped the Nets to a 119-117 victory over the Squires Monday night as they renewed their series.

Willie Wise and Jimmy Jones combined for 66 points to lead the Utah Stars to a 139-130 victory over the Indiana Pacers and a 3-2 lead in the Western best-of-seven finals Monday night.

Barry, weak from a throat infection early in the series, scored 25 points, including the deciding basket with eight seconds left, Monday night to spark the Nets. Roche, a rookie whose scoring helped the Nets upset Kentucky in the Eastern semifinals, had a sprained ankle in the second game against Virginia but bounced back with 25 points Monday night. And Melchionni, New York's All-Star guard, had missed all eight previous games in the playoffs but returned to action after his broken finger healed with 20 points Monday night.

Tickets Available For Soccer Clash

Applications for tickets for the Olympic qualifying soccer game between the United States and Mexico are available at the Roos-Atkins store in Northgate Shopping Center in San Rafael and at all Bank of America branches in Marin County, game officials announced yesterday.

The game will be held May 10 at Kezar Stadium in San Francisco. The winner will advance to the Olympic Games in Munich in August.

Mike's Bar, Smitty's In Softball Triumphs

A five-run first inning and a three-run fourth triggered Mike's Bar & Grill's 10-5 victory yesterday over Mts. Broker's yesterday in San Rafael Recreation Department adult softball at Albert Park.

In other games, Smitty's trimmed Marin Supply, 5-2, while Jacobsen Auto and Deck House deadlocked, 2-2 in eight innings.

Juan To Face Phils Tonight

SAN FRANCISCO (UPI)— Juan Marichal squares off against Steve Carlton, a 20-game winner last season for the St. Louis Cardinals, in tonight's San Francisco Giants-Philadelphia Phillies encounter.

Manager Frank Lucchesi has his Phillies in town for a three-game series with the hard pressed Giants.

Manager Charlie Fox's third place National League Giants have a dismal 4-5 record on the young season. Philadelphia is in third place among the Eastern Division clubs with a healthy 43 mark.

Carlton came to the Phillies from the Cardinals in exchange for Rick Wise. The southpaw is unbeaten in his first two starts.

San Francisco and Philadelphia split their 12 games last season.

The Giants took out their frustrations over being swept by Houston in a 15-3 romp over Santa Clara in exhibition action Monday before 6,000 spectators.

San Rafael Golfers Win, Move Into 1st

San Rafael High School moved into first place in the Marin County Athletic League golf race with a wind-blown victory over Marin Catholic at the Meadow Club near Fairfax, while Redwood defeated Drake at the same course.

Marin Catholic coach John Bechtold announced his team would meet Redwood in a league match on the neutral Peacock Gap course in San Rafael Hay 3. He also said the match with Drake at San Geronimo National, originally scheduled for May 11, was switched to May 10 because of a conflict with a tournament at San Geronimo.

Healy Is Disrupting Charlie Fox's Plans

Francis Xavier Healy is disrupting the carefully laid plans of Charlie Fox. However, the manager of the Giants doesn't mind a bit. It isn't that Fox tolerates meddlesome intrusions of his strategy, even from a fellow Irishman. It's just that what Healy has been doing prompts Fox to smile.

Healy now is the No. 1 catcher of the Giants. There's no doubt whatsoever about that. But from the first day of spring training, Fox planned to platoon him in catching assignments with Dave Rader. Healy was to catch when there was an enemy southpaw on the mound. Rader would catch when a righthander was pitching against the Giants. The strategy was simple but sound. Healy battled righthanded, Rader left.

WHEN HEALY delivered a run-producing single in Game No. 2 of the delayed 1972 baseball season against Dave Roberts, a Houston southpaw, that fact wasn't even mentioned in reports of the game. That was understandable because it was in that game that Dave Kingman homered, tripled, doubled, singled and knocked in six runs. Kingman grabbed all the headlines in Game No. 2.

When Healy hit a three-run homer in Game No. 4 against Tom Phoebus, a San Diego righthander, it received cursory reviews. And that, too, was understandable because it was in that game that Willie McCovey was knocked out of action with a broken right arm.

When Healy singled home his fifth run in Game No. 5 against Clay Kirby, ace righthander of the Padres, it got a brief mention in the footnotes because that was the game in which John Jeter, the Padre who knocked McCovey out of action in a first base collision, beat Juan Marichal with a two-run ninth inning homer just when Marichal was two outs away from his 223rd career victory.

HEALY DIDN'T get a hit in Game No. 6 but he was brilliant defensively. In the fourth inning he gunned down Jeter at third base on an attempted steal as Clarence Gaston was striking out. It's been a long, long while since the Giants have turned a strikeout into a DP.

But that wasn't Healy's only contribution to a squeaking 2-1 win in Game No. 6. In the eighth inning after Leron Lee opened with a pinch single, Healy picked Lee's runner, Don Mason, off first base with a perfect peg to Tito Fuentes who had circled behind Mason as the Padres were setting up a sacrifice bunt.

"YOU COULD say I am delighted with the way Healy has been interfering with managerial strategy," said Fox. "But I wouldn't say that. Healy is supplementing the strategy of a manager who, I hope, is smart enough to know when to adapt."

Healey Himself doesn't have to be told that his No. 1 catching job is contingent on who the opposition is pitching. He is the No. 1 catcher period.

"BASEBALL IS a tradition with the Healys," said the 6-foot-5, 210-pound young man from Holyoke, Mass., who was a minor league catcher at Omaha in the Kansas City organization when the Giants obtained him after the 1970 season in a trade for Bob Garibaldi.

"I hope I'm creating a favorable impression in carrying on the family tradition," added the smiling Irishman whose father, Bernard, played in the St. Louis organization. An uncle, Frank, caught for the Cardinals and Giants in 1930-34.

BASEBALL ROUNDUP

Astros Reach First On Edwards Homer

By U.P.INTERNATIONAL

The Houston Astros moved their fences in this year for Lee May but the guy who took advantage of the shorter target Monday night was John Edwards.

Edwards, who had only one homer all last season, hit a liner to rightcenter that cleared the new short right field fence for a homer off Ferguson Jenkins with one out in the 11th inning. It gave the surging Astros a 3-2 victory over the sagging Chicago Cubs and a share of first place in the National League West.

After acquiring sluggers May from the Cincinnati Reds, the Astros moved their fences in from 354 to 340 down the line and 390 to 378 in the power alleys.

A slugger with May's power doesn't always need the shorter target and he proved it in the first inning when he hit a two-run shot into the second deck off Jenkins.

But Edwards' "homer" hit off the old wall in right field and would have been catchable last year if the outfielder had been playing deep.

"I couldn't tell it was a home run when I hit it," Edwards said. "This just doesn't happen to me. I just wanted to make sure I tagged the bases. I can't remember hitting a homer in extra innings to win a game."

Edwards said that Jenkins "embarrassed me all night." He added, "he's a great pitcher and I couldn't do a thing until that last time up."

The victory was the seventh in a row for the Astros, who are now tied with the Dodgers for the top spot in the National League West. May has hit three homers and each one played a key role in a Houston victory.

Ken Forsch matched Jenkins, allowing five hits for nine innings including Ron Santo's two-run homer in the first inning. Santo's homer to center also probably wouldn't have been a homer last year.

Jim Ray pitched the last two innings in relief for the Astros to gain the victory as Chicago suffered its sixth straight loss. Jenkins, shooting for his sixth straight 20-victory season, is now 0-2.

In the only other game Monday night, Texas outlasted California 6-4. The Detroit at Milwaukee game was postponed because of cold weather.

Texas completed a four-game sweep of its first home series ever by downing California. But the Rangers don't seem to be capturing the interest of the fans and only 5,561 showed up at Arlington Stadium. By contract, 13,905 came to the Astrodome to see the Astros.

California committed three errors to help pave the way for its fifth straight loss although all of the Texas runs were officially earned. Toby Harrah scored the first Texas run in the fifth inning on a single by pitcher Don Stanhouse and singled in two more in the sixth after first baseman Jim Spencer booted a potential double play grounder by Joe Lovitto. Larry Biittner then singled in the two deciding runs in the seventh. The final run scored on a bases loaded walk .

Munson Appraises Future

By RICHARD L. SHOOK

DETROIT (UPI)—Bill Munson hates his job.

But before you get any false impressions, let it be understood he loves being a National Football League quarterback. It's being the No. 2 man behind Greg Landry of the Detroit Lions that Munson can't stand.

'CLASS GUY'

"Bill Munson is a class guy and a personable guy," says a man who ought to know, Russ Thomas, general manager of the Lions.

Thomas is trying to prevent his club's second-string quarterback from becoming a free agent May 1. He wants to as bad as Munson desires to be the top thrower for somebody.

"Money is not the problem," Thomas said. "He wants to appraise the situation and decide where he has the best future.

THOMAS

"I have nothing but respect for Bill Munson," Thomas said. "He just wants to know9where he'd have the best overall future —here or somewhere else.

"Bt he's never come to me and said 'Play me or trade me to someone who will'," Thomas said. "He likes Detroit and he likes the team."

The problem is Munson has been in Detroit before. Only last time it was called Los Angeles.

KNEE OPERATION

The year was 1966 and a knee operation on Munson gave Roman Gabriel the starter's job for the Rams. Munson never got it back, played out his option in 1967, and was traded to the Lions in the summer of '68.

He started for Detroit for a season and one-half until another younger quarterback — Landry —again put Munson where he least likes to be, on the bench.

Chuvalo Sets Workouts For Ali Bout May 1

The Canadian champion said, "I took Ali to 15 rounds when I last met him in 1966. I see no reason to believe I can't give him a good fight again and if he isn't careful, I can put him down."

Chuvalo was to begin concentrated workouts today. Ali has been on a demanding workout schedule since Saturday. He plans to be "mean and lean" for next week's fight.

Golden Gate Fields Race Has 18 Horses

SAN FRANCISCO (UPI)—Some 18 two year olds have been nominated to the $25,000 Golden Gate Juvenile Dinner Stakes to be run Saturday at Golden Gate Fields.

Among the top entrants was Jess Clayton's Jesse's Way, upset winner of last Tuesday's $15,000 Native Diver Stakes. The horse is one of two freshmen in California to boast a pair of victories for 1972. The other is the filly Hooley Ruley, winner of the $15,000 Piedmont Stakes.

PORTLAND, Ore. (UPI)—Jack Avina, head basketball coach at the University of Portland, has told University of Pacific he was not interested in the head coaching job there.

"I told them to withdraw my name from consideration," Avina said Monday.

He said he was happy with the situation here and "have definitely decided to remain."

Avina's teams have a 15-37 record in two seasons, but he said he felt the Pilots have reached the pivotal point in their reconstruction effort.

three-year-old daughter in Fairfax.

Diaz, 37, coached for 15 years, 12 at San Rafael, and had MCAL champions in 1962 and 1964. He will continue to teach history and world geography at the school.

Born in Westwood, Calif., Diaz starred in basketball for Armijo High in Fairfield and went on to play for the University of California, graduating in 1957. He was head basketball coach and assistant football coach at St. Vincent High in Vallejo for one year, then Class B mentor at Armijo for two years before coming to San Rafael.

His 1971-72 team finished third in the MCAL with a 9-5 record and made local history by ending Redwood High's 43-game winning streak with a 63-59 victory Jan. 14.

"While I still enjoy coaching, I find myself not being able to give as much time to it as I did before," Diaz said. "I've been athletic director for a year now and that's what I want to continue to do. The ups and downs of coaching have had some bearing on my decision."

PREP OF THE WEEK

By LEW CODDINGTON

Is Dave Bacon a competitor?

Dan Tierney of Redwood High School would be tempted to say yes. Tierney is generally recognized as the best prep tennis player in Marin County, but Thursday Bacon defeated him in straight sets, 6-4, 6-2, thereby earning Independent-Journal Prep of the Week honors.

Coaches of the old school would be tempted to say no, once they become aware that the long-haired senior from San Rafael High shies away from team sports because they are "too demanding."

The only safe answer to the question is: not for awhile. Bacon will miss certainly one and possibly both matces this week because of "valley fever," a virus infection attacking the lungs, which he caught while on an archaeological expedition in the San Joaquin Valley.

An archaeological expedition? What kind of a jock is this?

"I went to the Miwok Indian digs with an archaeology class from San Francisco State," he said. "I just did it to be with my old lady. Everybody got valley fever except her."

Bacon missed a match against Drake to make the trip, which in the old days might have caused some coach to hang him by his thumbs with racquet strings, but coach Milt Hain is tolerant.

"He'll try to give you the impression he's not competitive, but he's really highly competitive and finds tennis an outlet," said Hain. "He never complains. He's out there rain or shine. He prefers to be more of an individualist, and to be responsible to himself."

"I love the game," says Bacon, without melodrama. "It's a mellow sport. I can treat it any way I want, and whatever I do is my responsibility. I've matured, and I've learned to win when I had to win.

DAVE BACON
Top netter

"I work at it, but I dn't work at it, you know what I mean? It just feels great to be out there hitting the ball. I suppose I play two or three hours a day. .

"I give it everything I've got in a match, but if I lose, I'm not going to cry in my beer at night."

Last year was Bacon's first in interscholastic tennis. He started out, he says, as the No. 5 player, gradually worked his way up to No. 1, but "was beaten by everybody I played."

This year, he has been beaten by nobody he's played, at least in the league, and was in line for a berth in the North Coast Sectionals until "valley fever" came along.

Actually, Bacon has had one consistent nemesis on the court this year — his coach. Hain has beaten him every time they've played but once. "Playing with him really has helped my game," says Dave.

Tennis is the only sport Bacon currently plays at school. He previously went out for baseball and basketball, but abandoned both. "Baseball was a little boring," he said. Reasons for quitting basketball were more complex.

"For one thing, I didn't want to cut my hair. This was my junior year, and they weren't as loose then as they are now. But there was more to it than that. Intense team sports take a toll on you mentally. The coaches and I agreed that I shouldn't be playing; there were no bad vibes, though, and I don't want to say something bad about the coaches.

"Sometimes I catch myself getting into a thing where I had to win. It brought out all sorts of things I don't like to see in myself. I started getting angry with other guys. It's different from tennis, which is a gentleman's game."

For all the enthusiasm Bacon shows for tennis, there are other activities that mean more to him. "The best thing school ever gave me was a capella choir," he says. "I'm really into music. I play the guitar and I enjoy singing."

Bacon has no concrete plans for the future, preferring "to cross the bridge when I come to it. If I'm lucky, I might get a job giving tennis lessons somewhere. If not, I might do some traveling."

College will wait. "I'm not going to go to school for awhile — a year or two, anyhow — though I never write anything off." In high school he makes "average" grades, saying, "I get something from my classes, but it's not necessarily what the teacher wants me to get. School is what you make it; it can be a good thing or bad thing."

The same goes for extracurricular activities. You can get a good thing, like a victory over Dan Tierney, or a bad thing, like "valley fever."

Marin Netters In Rematch With Canada

College of Marin's tennis team was to meet Canada College in Redwood City this afternoon for the championship of the Camino Norte Conference's post-season round-robin tournament.

Marin finished second in regular-season play with a 6-1 record, losing only to undefeated league champion Canada, 9-0.

Great Crab Feed At Rod-Gun Club

By AL GIDDINGS

The annual crab feed at the Marin Rod and Gun Club was a bang-up affair. If you didn't make it, you missed the crab feed of the year. It was listed as an "all you can eat" thing and I guarantee that's what it was. The club, and especially Ken Watts, chairman of the event, did a great job. Also, Howard Leach of the Fish and Game Department gave a talk on the "endangered species" of our time. He authored an article entitled, "The Crossroads," on this subject after much study in the field, so the talk was from experience.

THE POPULAR hunter safety course, sponsored by the Marin Rifle and Pistol Club, is being repeated again this year. It started Monday evening, and will be offered to the public for a series of 10 consecutive weeks, totaling 20 hours (two hours each meeting). Registration will be held again next Monday, May 1, 7 p.m., at the San Rafael Police Pistol Range on Irene Street in San Rafael.

This session is especially important to those who wish to hunt in the early deer season this year, as the course must be completed in time to obtain a license. Cost of the course is $5, all supplies and guns furnished by the club. This hunter safety course is open to the public, age 12 and up, and is mandatory for all new hunters who wish licenses in California.

ON APRIL 7, 1972, the State Board of Public Health approved the annual Mussel Quarantine Order for 1972. As in previous years, the mussel quarantine will extend from May 1 to Oct. 31.

In contrast to 1970 when no cases of mussel poisoning were reported, 15 cases from three separate outbreaks were reported in 1971 in Humboldt, San Francisco and San Mateo counties. A significant finding in the five outbreaks reported since 1969 has been a predominance of cases among persons of Philippine extraction — 23 of 30 cases, or 76 per cent. We are urged to make special efforts to inform the Philippine community in our jurisdiction about the hazards of mussel poisoning in California. Mussels are considered a delicacy in the Philippines where they can be eaten year-'round, because toxin-producing organisms do not exist in those waters. Hence, newly arrived immigrants to California are largely uninformed about the hazards here during the quarantine season.

From 1927 to 1971, Department of Public Health records show 44 outbreaks that resulted in 403 cases and 30 deaths. All cases have been reported between May 15 and Oct. 26, with the great majority between June and September. Outbreaks have been reported from Del Norte County in the north to Ventura County in the south, although most have occurred along the Central California coast. Shellfish species responsible for the 44 outbreaks have been mussels (35), clams (8), and oysters (1).

Lakers Picked Over Knicks In Playoffs

INGLEWOOD, Calif. (UPI)— The Los Angeles Lakers are solid favorities to defeat the New York Knicks in their best-of-seven National Basketball Association championship series starting Wednesday night and win their first NBA crown but Coach Bill Sharman isn't taking anything for granted.

Sharman put the Lakers through a tough workout Monday and warned against a letdown in the wake of their 4-2 series victory over the Milwaukee Bucks.

"There's a tendency to have an emotional and physical letdown after a tough series like we've just been through," Sharman said. "But we can't have any kind of a letdown. If we do, we're in trouble."

The second game of the final NBA playoff was scheduled for the forum here Sunday and the Lakers said the third and fourth games will be played in New York May 3 and 5. The dates for the fifth, sixth and seventh games, if necessary, were still being discussed.

The Lakers entered the NBA playoffs with the best record in NBA history, 69-13, and then disposed of the Chicago Bulls in four straight and went on to eliminate the Milwaukee Bucks in six.

The Knicks had only the seventh best record in the NBA, 48-34, including four losses to the Lakers in the five regular sesson games they played, but they've turned into something else in the playoffs.

They took care of Baltimore 4-2 in the first round of the Eastern Conference playoffs and then upset the Boston Celtics, 4-1, in the conference finals.

"The Knicks present us with problems because they shoot so well from the outside," Sharman said. "They've had a full season with Jerry Lucas and Lucas is an all-time super star."

Lucas, 6-foot-8, likes to shoot from the outside and may present some guarding problems for 7-1 Wilt Chamberlain who would rather stay close inside to tend the boards.

Sharman hinted that he may go to 6-11 Leroy Ellis, a seldom-used reserve, to guard Lucas.

A key to the series may be Gail Goodrich who with Jerry West formed the Lakers' formidable back court during the regular season.

Goodrich's scoring average has fallen off during the playoffs but he averaged 24.2 points against New York during the regular season and was able to move well under the basket against them.

Title Fight In Honolulu Tonight

HONOLULU (UPI)—It will be two fighters from the same background and of equal size tonight when they clash for the World Boxing Association's version of the junior lightweight crown.

Marcano, who will be making his second title defense, comes from a large family like Villaflor. Both had poor backgrounds.

Since becoming champion last July, Marcano has bought an auto repair shop where he works as a welder. He owns and drives around Cumana in a sports car, hiding a secret desire to become a race driver.

Villaflor, who has been fighting professionally since 15, has been sending money home regularly since he began fighting here a year ago. He is trying to build a new home for his parents. His father works as a security guard on a rubber plantation and earns around 40 cents a day.

When Villaflor first turned pro, he picked up between $5 and $6 in American money, Now, five years later, he finds himself fighting for the title. Should he win, he will be the youngest world champion in the history of pro boxing.

The column of heights gives the elevation in feet of each tide above or below the plane of Coast Survey chart soundings. The depths are always additive to the chart depths unless preceded by a (-), when the numbers are subtracted from the depth given in the chart. Lightface type indicates a.m. times; bold-face type indicates p.m. times.

Durocher, who will be 66 in July, checked into the hospital after returning to Chicago Saturday and missing a weekend series in New York.

The club announced that coach Pete Reiser will run the Cubs until Durocher's return.

Boat Buyer Or Owner; Know Boat

By JOSEPHINE RIPLEY
The Christian Science Monitor
News Service

How well do you know your boat? If you are a prospective buyer or even if you already own a boat, give yourself a test.

It has, or should have, a plate, near the operator's position, a plate headed "capacity." What does it say?

What is the maximum weight you should carry including persons, motor and gear?

Is your motor heavier than the one indicated? If so, what should you do to keep within the weight limit of your craft? Reduce the number of passengers which you carry?

Do you have a Coast Guard-approved life jacket for every person aboard? That now is required by law.

These are questions to which you should — and probably do — have the correct answers. For you will be hearing more and more about boating safety in coming months, as the federal Boat Safety Act of 1971 goes into effect.

Safety is the current watchword, for boats on the water as well as cars on the road. And boats, along with cars, must be safely built.

Regulations covering boat construction will be issued by the Coast Guard. After these regulations go into effect, any boats found to have defects must be recalled by the manufacturer.

McGillicuddy Construction Co.

Selling Dominates In Stock Market Opening

NEW YORK (UPI) —Selling was dominant during the first two hours today as the stock market turned broadly lower in fairly active trading.

The two-hour turnover amounted to more than 7,060,000 shares. Declines topped advances, 888 to 364, among the 1,582 issues crossing the tape.

Many alanysts said they believed the market is overbought and overvalued, and the time is right for a major adjustment. Sudh an adjustment would be an advantage for the long term, they said.

There was little in the news background to inspire buying. The Labor Department reported production rose during March at a lesser rate than in February. Communist advances continued in the Vietnam War.

On the American Stock Exchange, prices also were lower in fairly active trading. New Process was the most active issue, off 7 7-8 at 44 5-8 on 263,500 shares.

Plessey was the most active issue, up 1-8 at 2 7-8. Trading included a block of 200,000 shares at 2 7-8.

Certificate Back

SAN FRANCISCO (BW) — The Bank of California has announced it is reinstating its two-year consumer time certificate of deposit carrying a rate of 5-¾ percent with a minimum deposit of $500 to a maximum of $100,000.

GWU Price Prospects Not Good

By ROGER E. SPEAR

Q. I have 400 shares of Great Western United acquired over a long period at much higher prices. In view of the company's problems, I wonder if shares should be sold. I am 65 and these shares are all I own. — L.S.

A. Further deterioration in earnings was reported for the third quarter ended February 29. Down from 83 cents a share reported in fiscal 1970-71, the 29 cents reported in the third fiscal quarter put nine-month profit at $1.28 a share, off 17 per cent year-to-year. The previously announced refinancing plan has been postponed until sale of Great Western Sugar can be negotiated. Merger talks, which had been held with Great Western Producers Cooperative, were discontinued January 31, when financing for the asking price of $100 million plus could not be arranged. Discussions have since reopened with an asset value of $90 million being mentioned. Also under consideration is the disposal of the company's land development business, Great Western Cities. A fourth division was sold in January.

If the proposed sales are completed, GWU will be reduced to one division, Shakey's, a franchiser which contributed 3 per cent to volume and 5 per cent to profits in fiscal 1971. In contrast, the beet sugar division accounted for 73 per cent of sales, 32 per cent of profits; real estate 24 per cent and 63 per cent respectively. Former President, now chairman, White disposed of 100,000 shares early in February when trading was in the $18 area.

Q. Do you consider Overhead Garage Door (ASE) a sound growth stock? — R.K.

A. Although affected by cyclical economic trends, Overhead has compiled a good record of uptrending sales and earnings. In the 1971 year, sales gained 12.6 per cent while net forged ahead 36 per cent. An upsurge in construction and truck production — two of the company's principal markets — enhances OHD's outlook for the balance of this year. In spite of the sharp run-up in share price, the shares remain reasonable on the basis of their P/E multiple.

John Hancock Insurance Office Is Moving To La Plaza Building

John Hancock Mutual Life Insurance Co. office, now at 4144 Redwood Highway in the Northgate area of San Rafael, will move a couple of blocks northward this summer into the La Plaza Building.

William Hoey and his partner W. Thomas Ireland of William Hoey Company negotiated this lease as well as a series of others that have just about filled up available space in Northgate Industrial Park.

HEINZ NEUMANN Mercedes Benz service and repair, located on Stockton Boulevard in Sacramento, took over 4,600 square feet of warehouse space at 169 Paul Drive under a Hoey lease.

Other new leases negotiated by Hoey Company in Northgate Industrial Park include:

East-Western Land Inc., an Oakland real estate and land development firm, took over suite 156 in the La Plaza Building.

Humphries Construction Co., formerly on Meadow Drive, moved in to 128 Carlos Drive. It specializes in cabinets and home interior remodeling.

Say Worley Inc., San Anselmo realtors and general contractors, took warehouse and office space at 42 Park Drive.

CAIN'S TIRE at 20 Greenfield Avenue in San Anslemo will be sold to Richard (Dick) severson, who has been employed there for 12 years. Severson will operate the shop under the name, San Anselmo Tire and Brake, from May 1.

He will continue using Cain's premium recap tires and will handle Dunlop, Michelin X, Semperit, Toyo, and Bridgestone tires. Shop hours will be Monday through Friday from 8:30 a.m. to 5:30 p.m., and Saturday from 8:30 to 4 p.m.

Present employees who will continue working for Severson at the new San Anselmo Tire and Brake Shop are Monte (Butch) Moore, front end mechanic and service manager; and David A. Hiller, tire changer and mechanic.

Robert G. Lyons and Patrick M. McAlonan, owners of Cains' Tire, have two other shops — in San Rafael and in Greenbrae.

BENTON A. SIFFORD Jr. of Larkspur has been elected vice president of Fireman's Fund Insurance Co., Chairman Louis W. Niggeman announced.

Sifford joined Fireman's Fund in 1936 and held various positions until 1959 when he became assistant manager of the Western Department in Chicago. He was transferred to the research department at the San Francisco home office in 1961 and named director of research and development in 1966.

Sifford is former Larkspur mayor and city councilman. While in Chicago, he was also city councilman in Northbrook, Ill.

Banfield

ROBERT C. BANFIELD of Ignacio will be promoted by Lawrence Systems Inc. of San Francisco and transferred to the company's Coral Gables, Fla. office.

Banfield will become Lawrence's regional manager for the Southeast and Caribbean. He will move from his position as liaison officer in services control in the San Francisco headquarters. He has been with the company for 15 years.

Lawrence Systems Inc., with 49 offices in the U.S., Canada, and Puerto Rico, provides collateral control services to lenders.

ENGINEERING FIELD SERVICES, located at 1414 Fourth Street in San Rafael, will move this week into new quarters at 818 Fifth Avenue, San Rafael, next to California Land Title. The phone number remains unchanged.

George Colson is vice president and manager of Engineering Field Services, which specializes in land and construction surveying. It has been in business for 12 years.

WE'VE MENTIONED a couple of old San Anslemo establishments that are still going strong in the same location — Kientz Pastry, established in 1922, and the Home Market, opened in 1925.

We failed to mention another old firm that's still thriving — Guasco Market, formerly called San Anselmo Market. Peter Guasco says his father Felice Guasco opened San Anselmo Market at 601 San Anselmo Avenue on Feb. 1, 1925, before the Home Market was built. This would make Guasco's the second in seniority to Kientz. However, Guasco's did change both its location and its name 20 years ago when it built its present building at 100 Center Boulevard.
